One Company Sold

Oil Business Goes 'Boom' For 3 Local Corporations

William E. Blair Jr. of East Liverpool, president and majority stockholder in three Ohio corporations based here, has announced the sale of one company, sale of $2½ million in stock for another and the development of gas and oil resources in Columbiana County in connection with the third.

Blair said final legal forms are being prepared for the sale of the Tri-State Oil and Gas Co. to an unnamed California group for $250,000. He expects the sale to be completed before the end of 1967 and said it has been approved by all shareholders. The company's primary concern has been the initiating of multiple investments and, he explained, all the company's assets presently consist of investments. The company was formed in May 1966.

AT THE same time Blair announced his Tri-State Producing Co., in conjunction with its subsidiary, the Management Control Corp., which is wholely owned by Tri-State Producing, is set to spend what he termed, "several million dollars" in the development of Columbiana County's oil and natural gas assets in the next few years.

Declaring 1968 will be the biggest exploratory year since Tri-State Producing's inception in October 1962, Blair added that his companies presently are conferring with Ohio authorities in an effort to establish a crude oil refinery in the county. He said several meetings have been held with state officials and they will continue next year exploring the possibilities of the refinery for this area.

Blair said there is a critical need for such a facility, since most of the oil produced in Ohio must be transported into other states for refining. He declared it would be a tremendous asset to the area.

Tri-State Producing and the Buttes Gas and Oil Co. of Oakland, Calif., described as considerably larger than the East Liverpool firm, have entered into a joint operating program and presently are drilling a well in Knox Township on the Whittaker Farm.

"DRILLING should be completed next week," Blair reported, and the well will go to a depth of about 5,500 feet. It is considered a test of the Clinton sand formation, which, he added, is known to be a good bearer of oil and natural gas in this state.

The Management Control Corp., which will sell the new stock to further explore and evaluate the oil and gas holdings of Tri-State producing, will direct a portion of its efforts toward the development of Columbiana County through revenue generated by the sale.

Blair explained that Management Control, after the first of the year, will sell its new issue of stock at $5,000 per share. Half shares will be available, too, he noted, at a cost of $2,500 each. While the company is permitted to operate anywhere in the United States, for the time being its efforts will be directed into Ohio, since that is where its present properties are located.

The stock sale will be announced after Jan. 1, he said,

Autos Plunge Into River As Span Topples

POINT PLEASANT, W.Va. (AP) — More than 100 skin divers converged on this Ohio River town today to start the grisly search for bodies as the toll from Friday's bridge collapse rose to eight dead and 33 persons missing.

A flotilla of boats was also ready at the site where the 1,750-foot bridge linking Ohio and West Virginia plummeted into the near-freezing waters. An estimated 75 cars were on the span when it collapsed.

Rescue workers said they spotted three bodies in a partially submerged car early today but did not have the necessary equipment to remove the victims from the vehicle.

The three bodies were in addition to the five persons killed when the two-lane U.S. 35 bridge fell off its piers and disappeared in the quarter-mile wide stream while loaded with bumper-to- bumper traffic.

State Police said they were certain the death toll would go higher.

A 35-mile stretch of the river was sealed off from all commercial traffic and U.S. Army Engineers were discussing the possibility of closing gates on an upstream dam to lower the water level in the area where the bridge once stood.

Eyewitnesses said about 75 vehicles, including numerous large trucks, were on the span when it collapsed into water 30 to 70 feet deep. About half the vehicles fell onto the banks of the river. Some were crushed by large steel beams.

The bridge floor, superstructure and missing vehicles plunged completely out of sight beneath the water.

Holzer Hospital at Gallipolis, Ohio, four miles from Point Pleasant, received bodies of four men and one unidentified woman.

Ohio and West Virginia authorities agreed the death toll, once divers searched the river's depths, would go much higher. Officials said there was little chance of finding any more survivors amid the tangle of concrete and steel in the river.

"Anyone who comes out of the river will not be breathing," said John Epling, Gallia County, Ohio, prosecutor. He was named by Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes to supervise operations on the Ohio side.

"There is no question that the final figure will be much higher," said West Virginia State Police Capt. J.D. Baisden.

Nine persons were hospitalized at Gallipolis and Point Pleasant.

During Break In Weather

U.S. Planes Rip 'Heart' Of North Viet Third Day

SAIGON (AP) — American warplanes bombed North Vietnam's heavily defended heartland for the third straight day today, taking advantage of an unseasonable break in the weather to pound the Hanoi and Haiphong bridges and rail centers vital to the movement of supplies southward.

The air war erupted in full fury Thursday after a month-long lull forced by bad weather. Initial reports of today's raids were sketchy but headquarters said they were again directed at the rail choke points on the routes running from Red China to the Hanoi-Haiphong area and thence south.

Air Force, Navy and Marine pilots mounted 119 missions Friday, the highest total since late October. Today's raids were believed equally heavy.

The U.S. Command said full scale bombing of North Vietnam will continue so long as the weather remains clear. It's an all-out effort to slow the movement of supplies southward while the chance lasts. Clear spells in the monsoon season are normally infrequent, and the rainy season should prevail for another five months.

Priority targets during the weather break have been the Hanoi and Haiphong bridges. The U.S. Command said that raids Friday dropped the center span of Haiphong's main highway bridge and pilots put at least one 3,000-pound bomb directly on the Kien An rail bridge on Haiphong's southern outskirts. Also hit was the vital Canal des Rapides Bridge just above Hanoi.

These, along with Hanoi's big Doumer Bridge, bombed Thursday, are probably the four most important bridges in North Vietnam.

To counter formidable enemy antiaircraft and surface-to-air missile defense systems in the Hanoi and Haiphong areas, extra planes went along Friday to attack antiaircraft sites and duel MIG interceptors. No MIGs were reported downed Friday but one was claimed Thursday.

The Communists claimed they shot down a total of seven American planes Thursday and Friday. The U.S. Command has acknowledged only the loss Thursday of an F105 Thunderchief which went down in raids on Hanoi.

On the ground in South Vietnam several sharp clashes were reported.

On the Bong Son coastal plains 325 miles northeast of Saigon, U.S. air cavalrymen, who move to battle in helicopters, and South Vietnamese infantrymen said Friday they killed 47 North Vietnamese regulars and that the fight was still going on.

Steps Launched To Seal Off Mine

A deputy state mine inspector started work Friday afternoon on a project seeking donations of materials and equipment and a few hundred dollars in public funds to allow closing of the two openings of an abandoned clay mine along the East Liverpool - Wellsville Rd. in which two Warren boys were lost for 30 hours.

John Kirkland of Lisbon RD 5, an inspector for the Ohio Division of Mines, said he would approach county commissioners and city officials in East Liverpool and Wellsville seeking approximately $500 to cover the wages of bricklayers who would be employed to seal off the two shaft openings.

KIRKLAND said the payroll cost would represent the only expense in the project, as he hopes to obtain donations of bricks from a district firm which offered the material previously on another occasion when there was talk of sealing the shafts. He said he will seek donations of a truck to haul the bricks and a high-lift to move the material from the highway to the job site.

The two openings are about 300 feet apart, both in close proximity to the heavily traveled highway.

Kirkland pointed out that

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — The alarm went out to Yale University campus police just after midnight — trouble on the fourth floor of Wright Hall.

Officer Richard Dorfman was the first to react, the Yale Daily News recounted. He ran to Wright Hall.

Sizing up the situation, he called for more help.

"Lt. Lewis Cappiello and force members Thomas Charron and Patrick Wynn hurried to the scene of what they believed to be a budding freshman riot," said the news.

But instead of being pelted with bottles when they charged into the dormity, they drew a barrage of confetti.

With that came jovial backslapping and singing and signs proclaiming a "surprising Christmas party for the campus fuzz."

'Saw It, Didn't Believe It,' Man At Scene Declares

GALLIPOLIS, Ohio (AP) — It was a slow night for selling Christmas trees. H. L. Whobrey had a good location—at the corner of highways 7 and 35 catching all the bridge traffic from Point Pleasant, W.Va.—but it was cold, and most of the steady stream of commuters passed him by.

He made his first sale, and was just loading a tree in the trunk of a woman's car when he heard the noise.

"It sounded like one of those ordinary fender benders on the bridge," he said. "We have them all the time."

Dick Kuhn was filling a customer's car with gasoline at the corner service station when he heard what "sounded like a shotgun," he said. "I thought some nut was shooting ducks under the bridge."

Lee Long was taking a coffee break at the Gallipolis Fire Department when the alarm came in.

The tragedy of a bridge collapsing brought these three men together. They were among the

'Like An Arctic Wasteland'

Snow Strands Motorists

GRANTS, N.M. (AP) Stranded motorists, from truck drivers to honeymooners, surveyed the 20-inch snow that trapped them at Grants and shared the sentiment of one of their number:

"It looks like an arctic wasteland out there," said Irving Rapaport of Albuquerque, N.M.

Rapaport, uranium mining official, was among an estimated 1,500 to 2,000 persons stranded Friday at Grants after a storm halted traffic on U.S. 66 and Interstate 40. Gov. David F. Cargo declared an emergency and National Guardsmen rushed in supplies.

The storm held much of the Southwest in its grip. Forty-six inches of snow were reported at Flagstaff in northern Arizona, where traffic on U.S. 66 also had stopped for the most part. Twenty-eight inches of snow were reported at Winslow.

Rapaport was in Grants to try and get to his nearby mine.

"We haven't been able to get out to the mines for two days," he said. " We tried to bulldoze our way through, but the drifts piled back up the minute we went through."

Highways in the area opened on a "travel at your own risk" basis late Friday and traffic began moving slowly out of Grants.

Authorities estimated about 1,000 persons remained in the area overnight. Motels, trailer parks, hotels, churches, city buildings, schools and private homes were occupied by the transients.

The American Red Cross said it was housing at least 50 persons from the overflow Friday night in emergency quarters at a community center.

"It got pretty hairy out there," said Ken Meyer of Baxter Springs, Neb., a trucker hauling explosives from Grand Island, Neb., who was forced to stop at the adjacent community of Milan.

"I saw a lot of foolhardy people trying to bust through drifts and driving too fast with (tire) chains," he said. "When some of those white cars got stuck in the middle road, they'd blend in with the snow and that made it nasty."

Lonnie Wood of Forth Worth, Tex., heading for Los Angeles with his brother, said his car bogged down nine miles from Milan.

"We were in that car for five hours and finally we got so cold that we just started walking," Wood said. "I might have got my car out of the snow bank but a snow plow which passed knocked more snow on my car and that just buried it too deep."

Mr. and Mrs. Jose Gonzales were en route to San Diego, Calif., from Chicago.

"What a way to spend a honeymoon," she said after 23 hours in a traffic jam 10 miles west of Grants. " It's a real disaster."

Gas Flame Ignites Dress, Burning Girl, 4, Severely

A 4-year-old East Liverpool girl was in "guarded" condition today at City Hospital with severe burns suffered Friday about noon when her dress was ignited by the flame of an open gas space heater in the bathroom at her home.

She is Linda Sue (Cindy) Duke, daughter of Mrs. Linda Duke of 1039 Oak St., who suffered first, second and third degree burns of the forehead, face, neck, chest, abdomen, upper arms and thighs.

Mrs. Wilma Duke, 23, of 416 Vine St., a relative of the child's mother, suffered burns of the right hand in extinguishing the flames and tearing off the child's clothing, police reported. She was babysitting for Cindy and five other children while the mother was at work

More Major Bills Approved

Congress Winds Up Long Session

By JOE HALL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A long 1967 congressional session beset with controversy over the Vietnam war and rejection of many of President Johnson's major proposals, including a tax hike, has ended.

The session ended at 6:50 p.m. Friday with adjournment of the Senate; the House had quit at 6:36. Congress will reconvene in a month, on Jan. 15, when the question of an income tax surcharge and other rejected proposals will be considered again.

Major Bills Approved

In the final working hours Congress approved these major bills:

—An omnibus Social Security bill raising by at least 13 per cent the cash benefits of 24 million people and hiking the payroll taxes of 75 million others to finance the improvements;

—A $1.77 billion appropriation for the antipoverty program—just about the amount cited as the minimum needed by Sargent Shriver, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity;

—A $9.3 billion authorization to finance federal aid to education through June 30, 1970, with a prime aim of the legislation being improved educational opportunities for poor children;

—A record-low foreign aid bill of $2.29 billion—nearly $1 billion less than Johnson asked for.

Despite some big setbacks, Johnson did see some major legislation clear the Congress and he congratulated both houses "on a great job done."

The first session of the 90th Congress also increased postal rates, boosted federal employes' and military pay, strengthened air pollution control laws, set up a public broadcast corporation to aid noncommercial television, and tightened meat inspection laws.

Some Proposals Snubbed

But Congress declined to pass Johnson's proposed 10 per cent income tax surcharge, his major anticrime bill, his civil rights proposals, his gun-control legislation, his election reform bill, or his "truth in lending" proposal.

Some of the President's recommendations attracted such little support that he did not push for action on them. They included measures to liberalize trade with Communist nations and to merge the labor and commerce departments.

Most legislators agreed that unhappiness over the war caused many of the administration's problems at the Capitol.

This became clear early in the year when Johnson's budget revealed that many programs, such as school aid, were being financed far below the authorized amounts because of the military demands.

The President's big problems on his program came in the House, where Republicans had 47 more members than in the preceding Congress.

Debates on war policy consumed many hours. Most of the attacks on the President's course in Vietnam came from fellow Democrats. The Senate asked him in a unanimously adopted resolution to consider putting the war issue before the United Nations.

Cooper Delivers Speech

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., one of the critics of the war, delivered one last speech Friday on the subject, expressing concern at reports the administration is considering a limited invasion of the North or a hot-pursuit policy in which American forces would chase the enemy into Laos and Cambodia, where the Communists have sanctuaries.

"I earnestly hope that no further expansion will come from the initiative or decisions of the United States," Cooper said.

A delegation of House leaders telephoned the President in the early evening to inform him it was ready to adjourn and, following tradition, he advised them he had no more business for the session to consider. Then he congratulated Congress for its work.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen performed the same task for their chamber.

The House was thrown into an uproar at the start of the 1967 session over seating of Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y. He finally was denied his post after a committee found him guilty of misuse of public funds.

The Senate in mid-session censured Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., after its ethics committee found he converted political funds to his personal use.

These Bills Approved

Major bills passed in session included:

—A Social Security bill increasing by at least 13 per cent all benefits for 24 million people on the rolls, boosting the payroll tax, putting a limit on medicaid, and tightening the public welfare program.

—A $900 million postal-rate increase including a one-cent boost in the letter rate effective Jan. 7.

—A $2.7 billion pay raise for 2 million federal employes, and a $2.7 billion pay hike for 3.4 million military and other uniformed personnel.

—A $9.3 billion two-year extension of aid to education.

—Creation of a public broadcasting corporation to make grants for noncommercial television and radio programs, particularly in the education field.

—A $428 million bill for the fight against air pollution which arms the secretary of health, education and welfare with new powers to eliminate pollution sources.

—A bill increasing Vietnam veterans' benefits, raising all veterans' pensions, and broadening cold war veterans benefits.

—Senate ratification of the consular treaty with the Soviet Union. But this has not gone into effect yet because the Soviets have not acted to ratify it.

—Senate ratification of the Outer Space Treaty prohibiting the orbiting of weapons of mass destruction in space or their stationing in outer space.

Among major Johnson recommendations on which Congress refused to act this year:

—A 10 per cent surcharge on the income tax designed to help pay for the war, reduce inflationary pressures and cut the budget deficit. The House Ways and Means Committee ist o resume consideration of this Jan. 22.

—His "Safe Streets and Crime Control" bill proposing new federal aid to improve local law enforcement.

—His civil rights proposals, including antidiscrimination in housing, measures to prevent acts or threats of violence against Negroes, elimination of discrimination in jury selection, and enforcement powers for the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

—The election reform bill to require much broader disclosure of all spending in campaigns for federal office.

—Government financing of presidential campaigns.

—Firearms control.

—East-West trade.

—The "truth-in-lending" bill to require that borrowers be told the true interest rate and the total of financial charges in all consumer debt transactions.

—Merger of the Commerce and Labor departments.

See Better Record

Democratic leaders emphasized all of these bills will be alive in the second session of the 90th next year and insisted a better record will be compiled by the time Congress quits in 1968.

The White House, the Senate and the House carried on a three-cornered running battle over the budget throughout the session.

But in the end a total of $157 billion in new appropriations was voted during the year, a record. The biggest previous one-year figure, $147 billion, was voted during World War II.

The legislators cut money bills about $5.96 billion below Johnson's budget requests.

Hearing Set For Monday

A hearing for a New Cumberland man charged in connection with the breaking and entering of the Hancock County Health Department has been reset for Monday afternoon after the defendant requested appointment of an attorney.

Squire John D. Herron, who was to have held a preliminary hearing Friday, appointed Ruth Cox Turner as counsel for Cleveland Dean, 20, of 1935 Ridge Ave. charged with the theft of $4,000 in laboratory equipment.

The hearing now will be held Monday at 2:30 p. m.

Chief William Webster at New Cumberland, who arrested Dean, said part of the equipment was recovered.

Dean was arrested in his home Tuesday by Webster and Hancock sheriff's deputies on a search and seizure warrant issued by Herron. Webster said Weirton police provided leads which led to the apprehension. Dean was being held under $3,000 bond.

and pointed out it is registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission. He said all three companies are closely held and none appears on either the American or New York stock exchanges.

Management Control's new program will have as a basis for development 25,828 acres of land acquired about four years ago by Tri-State. Blair said presently there is commercial gas and oil production in the areas involved. Revenue from the stock sale will be put to use for the new exploration. Management Control's program will be handled by Tri-State Producing's personnel, he added.

THE NEWER wells to be developed will be drilled from between 5,000 to 8,000 feet, he said, and should experience a longer life.

Tri-State Producing handled the drilling of 27 wells in Ohio during 1967 and experienced 100 per cent success.

The company was the first to obtain production from the Trempealeau formation in Richland County, near Mansfield, and to date has produced over 100,000 barrels of oil from the half-dozen wells in that area.

Crude oil is sold to Sohio Petroleum, Ashland Oil and Refining, Quaker State and Pennzoil, while natural gas is produced for the East Ohio Gas Co. and the Ohio Fuel and Gas Co.

Blair said the Trempealeau formation found in Richland County is about 4,500 feet beneath the surface of the ground, but in Columbiana County it is found at between 8,000 and 9,000 feet. Blair reported the company is quite interested in the deeper wells, even though the expense of developing the county heretofore has been prohibitive because of the great depth involved. He said individual wells will cost between $60,000 and $80,000 to drill, but the profits derived from them should more than offset the costs.

THE COMPANY will, in drilling toward the Trempealeau formation here, explore several lesser formations, but is primarily interested in that formation and the Clinton sands. But, the others may prove productive, he pointed out.

The company anticipates drilling "or being instrumental in drilling about 50 wells in Eastern Ohio during 1968 in cooperation with the Buttes firm, and in conjunction with management Control Corporation.

Blair noted the sale of Tri-State Oil and Gas is in no way connected with the new stock program of Management Control or the oil and gas development planned by Tri-State Producing. "The offer was just too attractive to turn down," Blair said.

Management Control was formed in July, 1966.

Mine

state law making it mandatory to seal off unworked mines covers only those shafts abandoned after 1941. The state has no available funds with which to pay for such work, he added.

Since the two shaft openings are on private property and the owner is an East Liverpool widow who says she is without sufficient funds, the only feasible way of closing the entrances is with money from county subdivisions, supplemented with the donations of equipment and material, Kirkland said.

He pointed out the Division 11 office of the Ohio Highway Department was approached about the problem of the open shafts close to its right-of-way, but replied that it was not permitted to go onto private property for such a project.

HE SAID the shafts will be sealed as state law requires, with a brick wall provided with a trap in the bottom to allow escape of any water that might accumulate.

Kirkland said he communicated with the highway department office in New Philadelphia as late as last September about the hazard of the open mines, but was told that the work was outside the highway department's jurisdiction.

Kirkland joined in the search for the two Warren boys, who finally were found about 3:15 p.m. Thursday. He said he found an old hobnailed boot that probably was abandoned by a miner many years ago, as the shaft has not been worked for close to 50 years.

The shaft is well-ventilated, a fact that allowed the boys to survive despite their long wanderings through the labyrinth, he added.

An inspection of the mine entrances is scheduled by officers from an Army Reserve unit at Cleveland to determine if the openings can safely be closed by dynamite blasts.

6 Per Cent On Sales

Tax Boost Near In Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG (AP)—Senate Republicans late Friday night reported to the floor a $150 million House-approved tax program, including a proposal for the highest sales tax in the nation, and set next week as a target date for passage.

"I have the optimistic attitude that we'll be able to get them through either Tuesday or Wednesday," Majority Leader Stanley G. Stroup, R-Bedford, said after the measures were released routinely by the Finance Committee.

The key measure in the package was a proposal to increase the state's 5 per cent sales tax to 6 per cent to net $65.6 million in the remaining six months of the fiscal year.

Passed By House

It passed the House Friday night with a bare constitutional majority, 102-96, as six Democrats supported it in the face of six Republican defections.

While the increased rate technically was to revert back to 5 per cent after 18 months, come July 1, 1969, lawmakers on both sides concurred that such a prospect was remote.

Passage of the sales tax cleared the way for nine other measures in the package, all approved with a minimum of Democratic help.

The only bill to fall was a proposed 50 per cent jump in the tax on beer, but Republican leaders appeared unperturbed, since it was the smallest revenue measure in the bundle, at $4.5 million.

House Republican leaders conceded later the tacit consent of organized labor was vital if the Democrats were to provide the necessary votes. Without it, they said, there was no hope of getting the required minority assistance.

The two chief officers of the Pennsylvania AFL-CIO, President Harry Boyer and Executive Vice-President Michael Johnson, released a statement condemning the House for its "audacity and lack of feeling for the people" in approving the package.

"The Pennsylvania AFL-CIO ...is unalterably opposed to..increasing the sales tax," they said "We are pledged to resist final passage of this infamous tax package by the Senate."

Republican leaders, meanwhile, scheduled a vote for Monday on two labor bills to increase the minimum wage from $1 to $1.60 an hour over four years and to boost maximum weekly workmen's compensation benefits from $45 to $60.

Would End Stalemate

Democratic aides vigorously rejected any suggestions that the labor bills were connected in any way with the tax vote. They noted the bills had been endorsed previously by the Republican Shafer Administration.

The $150 million program is designed to end the half-year fiscal stalemate that has confronted the administration since June.

Senate passage of the supplemental package would permit the three state-related universities, Penn State, Pitt and Temple to receive their entire $104 million in appropriations for the fiscal year.

In addition, the other state - aided universities and hospitals are to receive 95 per cent of their allocations.

Democratic support ranged from a low of five votes for increased utilities gross receipts to nine for tripling the inheritance tax.

Minority Leader Herbert Fineman, D-Philadelphia, promptly labeled the package a Republican program and said Democratic votes were supplied only to assure the colleges and universities would receive their money.

Other bills in the package, and their yields:

— An increase from 5 to 6 mills in the capital stock tax, $25.5 million.

— From 14 to 20 mills in the utility gross receipts, $16.8 million.

— Tripling from 2 to 6 per cent the inheritance tax, $13 million.

— An increase from 15 to 18 per cent in the liquor tax, $5.5 million.

Chester Resident Injured In One Of Four Mishaps

A Chester man was injured in a one-car accident on Route 30 Friday night.

James Florkevich of 317 Carolina Ave. is in "satisfactory" condition at City Hospital suffering from a laceration of the forehead and left heel after the mishap about 8:32 p. m.

Chester police said they received a report of the mishap, went to the scene, near the Terrace Lanes, and stood by to await the arrival of Hancock County sheriff's deputies. The sheriff's office reported this morning, however, its officers were busy at the time and West Virginia State Police were called. State police at Weirton said when officers arrived, about 9:15 p. m, there was no sign of a wreck.

Two autos were involved in a crash on Washington St at Newell about 8:16 p. m. Friday.

Deputies who investigated said the report is incomplete, but an auto driven by John G. Gatchell, 21, of Newell Rd. and a parked car owned by Earl Talbott of Newell were involved.

Damage to the Gatchell car totaled about $300, while Talbott's vehicle received about $400 damage.

Another mishap report also was incomplete. Deputies said an accident on Route 66 Friday involved an auto driven by Leo F. Hunt, 25, of Perrysville, Ohio, RD 2, but no other information was available.

A driver attempting to avoid a collision lost control of his auto and it went off the road into a ditch early today.

Deputies reported the mishap, north of the Tally - Ho Club on Route 2, about 12:52 a. m., involved a car operated by Robert Kralovic, 20, of 925 2nd Ave., New Cumberland. Damage was under $100, they said.

The report indicated Kralovic was headed north when a car coming in the opposite direction passed a second auto. In an attempt to avoid a crash Kralovic pulled his car far to the right of the highway and in attempting to get back on the roadway the rear end began swerving and he lost control.

The driver was not injured. He was not cited.

Man Refused Transcript Of Robbery Trial

LISBON — William E. Icenhour, 32, of Monaca, serving a 10-to-25-year sentence in Ohio State Penitentiary on an armed robberty conviction, was denied the trial transcript Friday.

Judge Joel H. Sharp of Common Pleas Court sent a letter to the prisoner informing him he is not entitled to a transcript because he has no appeal pending and no grounds on which to appeal.

Icenhour had mailed a pauper affidavit from prison and asked the county to send him the record of the trial.

A Common Pleas Court jury convicted Icenhour last Feb. 16 on a charge of armed robbery Jan. 2, 1966, at the 12th St. Market in Wellsville.

Icenhour's trial followed by one month that of his brother-in-law, Tim Galloway, 28, of Waynesburg, Pa., who was convicted of the same robberty. He is serving a sentence of 10 to 25 years.

Judge Sharp noted that Icenhour was represented by counsel throughout the trial, and, after the jury found him guilty, asked for immediate sentence. "Since you did not make a motion for a new trial and appeal the judgment of conviction, but of your own choice requested immediate sentence, you are not entitled to a transcript of the trial testimony," the judge wrote.

One Company Sold

Oil Business Goes 'Boom' For 3 Local Corporations

William E. Blair Jr. of East Liverpool, president and majority stockholder in three Ohio corporations based here, has announced the sale of one company, sale of $2½ million in stock for another and the development of gas and oil resources in Columbiana County in connection with the third.

Blair said final legal forms are being prepared for the sale of the Tri-State Oil and Gas Co. to an unnamed California group for $250,000. He expects the sale to be completed before the end of 1967 and said it has been approved by all shareholders. The company's primary concern has been the initiating of multiple investments and, he explained, all the company's assets presently consist of investments. The company was formed in May 1966.

AT THE same time Blair announced his Tri-State Producing Co., in conjunction with its subsidiary, the Management Control Corp., which is wholely owned by Tri-State Producing, is set to spend what he termed, "several million dollars" in the development of Columbiana County's oil and natural gas assets in the next few years.

Declaring 1968 will be the biggest exploratory year since Tri-State Producing's inception in October 1962, Blair added that his companies presently are conferring with Ohio authorities in an effort to establish a crude oil refinery in the county. He said several meetings have been held with state officials and they will continue next year exploring the possibilities of the refinery for this area.

Blair said there is a critical need for such a facility, since most of the oil produced in Ohio must be transported into other states for refining. He declared it would be a tremendous asset to the area.

Tri-State Producing and the Buttes Gas and Oil Co. of Oakland, Calif., described as considerably larger than the East Liverpool firm, have entered into a joint operating program and presently are drilling a well in Knox Township on the Whittaker Farm.

"DRILLING should be completed next week," Blair reported, and the well will go to a depth of about 5,500 feet. It is considered a test of the Clinton sand formation, which, he added, is known to be a good bearer of oil and natural gas in this state.

The Management Control Corp., which will sell the new stock to further explore and evaluate the oil and gas holdings of Tri-State producing, will direct a portion of its efforts toward the development of Columbiana County through revenue generated by the sale.

Blair explained that Management Control, after the first of the year, will sell its new issue of stock at $5,000 per share. Half shares will be available, too, he noted, at a cost of $2,500 each. While the company is permitted to operate anywhere in the United States, for the time being its efforts will be directed into Ohio, since that is where its present properties are located.

The stock sale will be announced after Jan. 1, he said,

Autos Plunge Into River As Span Topples

POINT PLEASANT, W.Va. (AP) — More than 100 skin divers converged on this Ohio River town today to start the grisly search for bodies as the toll from Friday's bridge collapse rose to eight dead and 33 persons missing.

A flotilla of boats was also ready at the site where the 1,750-foot bridge linking Ohio and West Virginia plummeted into the near-freezing waters. An estimated 75 cars were on the span when it collapsed.

Rescue workers said they spotted three bodies in a partially submerged car early today but did not have the necessary equipment to remove the victims from the vehicle.

The three bodies were in addition to the five persons killed when the two-lane U.S. 35 bridge fell off its piers and disappeared in the quarter-mile wide stream while loaded with bumper-to- bumper traffic.

State Police said they were certain the death toll would go higher.

A 35-mile stretch of the river was sealed off from all commercial traffic and U.S. Army Engineers were discussing the possibility of closing gates on an upstream dam to lower the water level in the area where the bridge once stood.

Eyewitnesses said about 75 vehicles, including numerous large trucks, were on the span when it collapsed into water 30 to 70 feet deep. About half the vehicles fell onto the banks of the river. Some were crushed by large steel beams.

The bridge floor, superstructure and missing vehicles plunged completely out of sight beneath the water.

Holzer Hospital at Gallipolis, Ohio, four miles from Point Pleasant, received bodies of four men and one unidentified woman.

Ohio and West Virginia authorities agreed the death toll, once divers searched the river's depths, would go much higher. Officials said there was little chance of finding any more survivors amid the tangle of concrete and steel in the river.

"Anyone who comes out of the river will not be breathing," said John Epling, Gallia County, Ohio, prosecutor. He was named by Ohio Gov. James A. Rhodes to supervise operations on the Ohio side.

"There is no question that the final figure will be much higher," said West Virginia State Police Capt. J.D. Baisden.

During Break In Weather

U.S. Planes Rip 'Heart' Of North Viet Third Day

SAIGON (AP) — American warplanes bombed North Vietnam's heavily defended heartland for the third straight day today, taking advantage of an unseasonable break in the weather to pound the Hanoi and Haiphong bridges and rail centers vital to the movement of supplies southward.

The air war erupted in full fury Thursday after a month-long lull forced by bad weather. Initial reports of today's raids were sketchy but headquarters said they were again directed at the rail choke points on the routes running from Red China to the Hanoi-Haiphong area and thence south.

Air Force, Navy and Marine pilots mounted 119 missions Friday, the highest total since late October. Today's raids were believed equally heavy.

The U.S. Command said full scale bombing of North Vietnam will continue so long as the weather remains clear. It's an all-out effort to slow the movement of supplies southward while the chance lasts. Clear spells in the monsoon season are normally infrequent, and the rainy season should prevail for another five months.

Priority targets during the weather break have been the Hanoi and Haiphong bridges. The U.S. Command said that raids Friday dropped the center span of Haiphong's main highway bridge and pilots put at least one 3,000-pound bomb directly on the Kien An rail bridge on Haiphong's southern outskirts. Also hit was the vital Canal des Rapides Bridge just above Hanoi.

These, along with Hanoi's big Doumer Bridge, bombed Thursday, are probably the four most important bridges in North Vietnam.

To counter formidable enemy antiaircraft and surface-to-air missile defense systems in the Hanoi and Haiphong areas, extra planes went along Friday to attack antiaircraft sites and duel MIG interceptors. No MIGs were reported downed Friday but one was claimed Thursday.

The Communists claimed they shot down a total of seven American planes Thursday and Friday. The U.S. Command has acknowledged only the loss Thursday of an F105 Thunderchief which went down in raids on Hanoi.

On the ground in South Vietnam several sharp clashes were reported.

On the Bong Son coastal plains 325 miles northeast of Saigon, U.S. air cavalrymen, who move to battle in helicopters, and South Vietnamese infantrymen said Friday they killed 47 North Vietnamese regulars and that the fight was still going on.

Steps Launched To Seal Off Mine

A deputy state mine inspector started work Friday afternoon on a project seeking donations of materials and equipment and a few hundred dollars in public funds to allow closing of the two openings of an abandoned clay mine along the East Liverpool - Wellsville Rd. in which two Warren boys were lost for 30 hours.

John Kirkland of Lisbon RD 5, an inspector for the Ohio Division of Mines, said he would approach county commissioners and city officials in East Liverpool and Wellsville seeking approximately $500 to cover the wages of bricklayers who would be employed to seal off the two shaft openings.

KIRKLAND said the payroll cost would represent the only expense in the project, as he hopes to obtain donations of bricks from a district firm which offered the material previously on another occasion when there was talk of sealing the shafts. He said he will seek donations of a truck to haul the bricks and a high-lift to move the material from the highway to the job site.

The two openings are about 300 feet apart, both in close proximity to the heavily traveled highway.

Kirkland pointed out that

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — The alarm went out to Yale University campus police just after midnight — trouble on the fourth floor of Wright Hall.

Officer Richard Dorfman was the first to react, the Yale Daily News recounted. He ran to Wright Hall.

Sizing up the situation, he called for more help.

"Lt. Lewis Cappiello and force members Thomas Charron and Patrick Wynn hurried to the scene of what they believed to be a budding freshman riot," said the news.

But instead of being pelted with bottles when they charged into the dormity, they drew a barrage of confetti.

With that came jovial backslapping and singing and signs proclaiming a "surprising Christmas party for the campus fuzz."

Eyewitnesses Tell Of Tragedy

'Saw It, Didn't Believe It,' Man At Scene Declares

GALLIPOLIS, Ohio (AP) — It was a slow night for selling Christmas trees. H. L. Whobrey had a good location—at the corner of highways 7 and 35 catching all the bridge traffic from Point Pleasant, W.Va.—but it was cold, and most of the steady stream of commuters passed him by.

He made his first sale, and was just loading a tree in the trunk of a woman's car when he heard the noise.

"It sounded like one of those ordinary fender benders on the bridge," he said. "We have them all the time."

Dick Kuhn was filling a customer's car with gasoline at the corner service station when he heard what "sounded like a shotgun," he said. "I thought some nut was shooting ducks under the bridge."

Lee Long was taking a coffee break at the Gallipolis Fire Department when the alarm came in.

The tragedy of a bridge collapsing brought these three men together. They were among the

'Like An Arctic Wasteland'

Snow Strands Motorists

GRANTS, N.M. (AP) Stranded motorists, from truck drivers to honeymooners, surveyed the 20-inch snow that trapped them at Grants and shared the sentiment of one of their number:

"It looks like an arctic wasteland out there," said Irving Rapaport of Albuquerque, N.M.

Rapaport, uranium mining official, was among an estimated 1,500 to 2,000 persons stranded Friday at Grants after a storm halted traffic on U.S. 66 and Interstate 40. Gov. David F. Cargo declared an emergency and National Guardsmen rushed in supplies.

The storm held much of the Southwest in its grip. Forty-six inches of snow were reported at Flagstaff in northern Arizona, where traffic on U.S. 66 also had stopped for the most part. Twenty-eight inches of snow were reported at Winslow.

Rapaport was in Grants to try and get to his nearby mine.

"We haven't been able to get out to the mines for two days," he said. " We tried to bulldoze our way through, but the drifts piled back up the minute we went through."

Highways in the area opened on a "travel at your own risk" basis late Friday and traffic began moving slowly out of Grants.

Authorities estimated about 1,000 persons remained in the area overnight. Motels, trailer parks, hotels, churches, city buildings, schools and private homes were occupied by the transients.

The American Red Cross said it was housing at least 50 persons from the overflow Friday night in emergency quarters at a community center.

"It got pretty hairy out there," said Ken Meyer of Baxter Springs, Neb., a trucker hauling explosives from Grand Island, Neb., who was forced to stop at the adjacent community of Milan.

"I saw a lot of foolhardy people trying to bust through drifts and driving too fast with (tire) chains," he said. "When some of those white cars got stuck in the middle road, they'd blend in with the snow and that made it nasty."

Lonnie Wood of Forth Worth, Tex., heading for Los Angeles with his brother, said his car bogged down nine miles from Milan.

"We were in that car for five hours and finally we got so cold that we just started walking," Wood said. "I might have got my car out of the snow bank but a snow plow which passed knocked more snow on my car and that just buried it too deep."

Mr. and Mrs. Jose Gonzales were en route to San Diego, Calif., from Chicago.

"What a way to spend a honeymoon," she said after 23 hours in a traffic jam 10 miles west of Grants. " It's a real disaster."

Gas Flame Ignites Dress, Burning Girl, 4, Severely

A 4-year-old East Liverpool girl was in "guarded" condition today at City Hospital with severe burns suffered Friday about noon when her dress was ignited by the flame of an open gas space heater in the bathroom at her home.

She is Linda Sue (Cindy) Duke, daughter of Mrs. Linda Duke of 1039 Oak St., who suffered first, second and third degree burns of the forehead, face, neck, chest, abdomen, upper arms and thighs.

Mrs. Wilma Duke, 23, of 416 Vine St., a relative of the child's mother, suffered burns of the right hand in extinguishing the flames and tearing off the child's clothing, police reported. She was babysitting for Cindy and five other children while the mother was at work

New Captain, New Game

A rather courageously logical position on a long limb has been taken by John C. Lobb, Crucible Steel Co. president, who this week chided steel industry leaders for attempting to meet foreign competition with government restrictions on imports.

In what amounted to heresy in U.S. some industrial circles, Lobb claimed the best way to counter foreign steel shipments is to give domestic customers better products and better service through better management.

Tariffs and quotas, Lobb said, only lead to more government involvement in private industry, with the threat of subsequent wage and price controls, and eventually nationalization.

Referring to his experience in electronics, process equipment and other industries, Lobb said, "Japanese competition is mighty tough in some of these areas, but as every U.S. investor knows, the better managed companies have done very well."

Mr. Lobb, who has already launched Crucible on a new course of diversification and growth in a tight ship with trimmed sails, is eyeing bright horizons of specialty metals and advanced technology to fit his concept of better research, better sales, better production.

Crucible, which has shaken off the 2½-year stalemate of stockholder controversy, is about to issue $30 million bonds for obtaining new facilities, and will plunk $16 million in capital expenditures into the Midland Division, is prepared for some significant strides under the positive thinking Lobb.

"We expect to move ahead rapidly," he declares confidently, adding a strong note of conviction to his apparent unwillingness to settle for tariffs and 1967 production standards as the weapons for the 1968 marketplace.

The workers and management at Midland Division are committed to this independent attitude, this new investment direction which, like any departure from convention, holds both risk and the promise of great success.

We believe next year's stockholders' meeting will reveal the measurement of achievement from Lobb's judgment and planning.

The Yes-And-No System

When Mike Mansfield of Montana, Senate Democratic leader, took issue with President Johnson over his attack on Republicans in Congress, we had a sneak preview of the two-party system of the future.

We get these previews from time to time. They're fascinating.

Sen. Mansfield told the leader of the Democratic party Republicans had provided the margin of victory for many administration measures.

He said there are "nay-sayers" and "yes-sayers" in both parties, and blame should be placed impartially, if blame must be placed.

This is the two-party system of the future. This is the way things are shaping up. This is why for years the balance of political power in the United States has been with "independents" — voters who reach independent decisions, unfettered by party afiliation.

In city, county, congressional district and state governments, the yes-and-no system is firmly established. Only in the federal government does the idea persist that the American people are divided between Democrats and Republicans — an illusion that has caused a few recent presidential campaigners to be shattered by disillusionment.

As the electorate becomes more knowledgeable, voters become more independent.

Party lines blur out.

Narrow partisanship smacks of old-time party bosses operating in the style of Tammany Hall.

Tammany Hall lost its power in New York City, because New Yorkers were fed up with the abuses it perpetrated. Old-time party lines have ceased to have meaning in the nation as a whole. The two-party system today functions principally as a technique for getting candidates on the ballot. It is a nominating device.

On Election Day, the system changes its character and becomes a way for the American people to vote yes and no, with party allegiance ignored. Solid Southerners end up voting for Republican presidential candidates. Suburban Northerners find themselves lining up for Democrats. Even the once-solid union labor bloc and the Negro bloc are being shattered by independent voting.

Who would have dreamed a generation ago that a Senate Majority leader would chide a chief executive for flaying the opposition in a public speech?

Who would have dared to dream that anyone as objective as Mike Mansfield ever would become a Senate majority leader.?

King Clears Air In Greece

Pity for King Constantine of Greece at this time is premature.

Failure of his attempt to throw out the junta forced him to flee his country and leave it in the tight grip of military rule, but the story doesn't end there.

Since the military junta's takeover April 21, King Constantine has played a waiting game in hope the country would return to normal. The junta had promised a new constitution and elections.

The King watched time slip away without the promises being kept. To the contrary, he watched a growing fanatical surge to destroy everything that smacks of Communism—real or imagined.

Junta activity touched every phase of Greek life—customs, press, sports, music, dress, church and the arts. The jury system was ordered abolished and loyalty oaths instituted for professors and state employes. Little attention was paid to pledged constitutional reforms.

Three months of uncertainty resulted because the junta needed the King to give its regime an aura of legality and the King was holding off drastic measures to see if the military leaders would live up to their word.

Finally, King Constantine decided it was time to move. He realized his chances of ousting the junta were small. Fully aware of the danger to himself, his family and the citizens of Greece, he acted.

He issued a plea to loyal Greeks to join his effort to restore the country to "democratic normalcy."

The initial thrust failed to unseat the junta. However, it was successful in one respect. The rulers in Athens now are operating illegally, in defiance of the King's wishes.

The air is clear. King Constantine is no longer a captive monarch. He has made his break, for better or for worse.

The King now is waiting to see how other nations react to an outlaw government. He has the support of prominent Greeks inside and outside Greece.

The issue is now before the citizens of Greece. The choice is up to them.

Passing The Torch

Lester B. Pearson, Canada's distinguished statesman, has added more height to his image.

In announcing his resignation as leader of the ruling Liberal party, he is removing himself gracefully from a prominent position without bitterness or bloody in-fighting.

After 40 years of public service, Prime Minister Pearson wants to step down, not be knocked down.

It would be wise if public figures in other nations could exercise as sound judgment when they near the end of the line.

Charles de Gaulle is the glaring example of a leader who has served too long. He cannot abide the idea that other men, younger and more aware of revolutionary changes at work in the world, can lead France with dignity and wisdom.

De Gaulle has served his country in a manner no other Frenchman can lay claim to; but he doesn't know when to call it quits.

History will record all his deeds, good and bad; but people will remember his arrogance.

Lester Pearson not only has faith in his country, but he has faith in his countrymen — enough to trust them with the fate of the nation.

Our little dog Muttsie sometimes stirs me to wrath, such as when he ambles out of an overstuffed chair to lean against a hot-air register and I snap at him, "You worthless little mutt; why don't you go get a job?" Luckily, he doesn't take offense. Just shuffles upstairs to lie on a bed.

Instant expertise is when a presidential hopeful travels abroad for a few weeks so no questions can be raised about his capabilities in the tricky area of foreign policy.

I tried to explain to a member of the younger generation why the death of a woman in Dallas named Evalyn McLean raised the question about the evil aura of the Hope Diamond that her grandmother owned and got so mixed up I decided to let the Smithsonian Institution, which now owns the diamond, take care of all future explanations.

The Johnson administration's argument for an income tax surcharge to cure what ails us sounds like a proposal to cure an ingrown toenail by cutting off a leg. It isn't the money we spend that our Great Good Government should worry about but the money IT is spending — money it doesn't have.

It is interesting that former President Eisenhower and Sen. Fulbright finally are seeing eye to eye on the military-industrial complex. Negroes Demand More Jobs

BAL HARBOUR — A soft-spoken Negro leader, facing a concentrated assemblage of one thousand officers of the nation's most powerful unions, told them quietly but bluntly, here the other day, they no longer would be permitted to keep black workers out of their memberships. Roy Wilkins, Executive Dierctor of the NAACP, standing face to face with leaders of national unions which still have a de facto non-Negro policy, warned them they'd be cracked open by massive action on the part of the government and the Negroes themselves.

Victor Riesel

It was one of the few moments during the AFL-CIO's Seventh Constitutional Convention when all went quiet. In one corner of the big hall, delegates from labor federations of 10 African nations listened hard and quietly to one of the toughest recitals of union bans on Negroes ever made before a massed labor audience.

Predicting riots all the way from Newark to the San Francisco Bay area unless the construction unions really admitted large numbers of Negroes, Wilkins said the time had come for the national AFL-CIO leadership to stop talking and begin cracking down on its affiliated unions which still had but two or three Negroes in locals with memberships of thousands.

After counting off local upon local in Newark, Cleveland, Cincinnati and San Francisco Bay area cities which had one or two — or no — Negroes, Wilkins, with George Meany sitting but a few feet from him on he stage, said:

"It (compliance with open membership regulations and resolutions) has been a conversation piece. It has been observed by powerful and important unions only in the breach or, at best, with a grudging foot-dragging tokenism. The proud policy of the AFL-CIO is not being followed.

"SOME OF THEM (the affiliated unions) are deliberately ignoring, and some of them are ignoring it through a shoulder-shrugging gesture. But the Negro citizen and the Negro children of the country are determined that employment doors shall be opened.

"Some of these doors to employment will be opened by massive employment activity by the government itself, but some by a change in labor practices. Negroes must have more than bread and clothing and shelter. They must have access to the comfort, the security and even the affluence that is America."

This was a reference to the building and construction trades unions whose job rates now run up to $7 and $8 an hour with fringe benefits.

But Wilkins did not confine himself to the building unions. He lashed at the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and even at the United Steelworkers.

Then Wilkins hit the convention delegates square on. Many squirmed as he read off the black statistics and predicted that there would be danger of new black action in Newark, still recovering from the recent bloodiness.

After doggedly outlining the NAACP's fight for Negro jobs at a big high school construction site, at Rutgers and state universities, Wilkins said that despite a December 1966 stipulation that the Iron Workers five locals would admit Negro workers, "not a single Negro has been admitted into any of the five locals nor is there a single Negro employe within this union's jurisdiction in the extensive public and private construction in northern New Jersey."

Then came the warning. Wilkins told the crowd of union leaders and staffs that "We can anticipate, with the new public construction beginning next year on West Market St. in Newark, and on the edge of the Negro ghetto, just what the feeling will be, and the question inevitably arises, "What did we learn from the terrible riot in Newark last year?"

Nor was he less candid with leaders of other sections of the nation.

"Now, the record in Cleveland," said the Negro leader with quiet toughness, "serves to point up all of this. The record of repeated efforts of Negro workers to breach the color bar in the craft unions in Cleveland in the decade following the merger illustrates the limited nature of the progress that has been made."

First he outlined the fight made by his organization and other groups there since 1955. Then he hit them again. He stated that after an 11-year fight, the record showed in '66 that the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW) had admitted two Negroes.

HE WRAPPED UP the "Cleveland Story" with the following statistics as of April 1966:

"The IBEW Local 38 with a total membership of 1,258 had two Negro members.

"Iron Workers union, Local 17, with a total membership of 1,786 had no Negro members.

"Plumbers union, Local 55, with a total membership of 1,482 had three Negro members.

"Pipefitters union, Local 36, with a total membership of 1,319 had one Negro member.

"Sheetmetal Workers union, Local 65, with a total membership of 1,077 had 45 Negro members . . ."

Thus it went in city after city, state after state. Meany, equally candid, responding to Wilkins' statement that as the AFL-CIO is concerned the "stark, bald issue" is union control of jobs, replied that he (Meany) did not resent in any way the report Wilkins gave them.

"He presents us with a challenge and we shall meet that challenge."

There was applause and Roy Wilkins, opponent of the extremist and black power actionists, left as quietly as he came. Behind him was a "powder keg" sociological time bomb.

But he had warned the labor movement. That's why he came.

DAVID LAWRENCE

Bad Error

President Johnson doesn't often make mistakes in the realm of politics. If he had had the advice of a good "public-relations" man, he probably would not have made the partisan speech he delivered at the AFL-CIO convention in Miami.

The President had a right to discuss any question he pleased, but he would have been on sound ground if he had avoided political partisanship and confined himself to commendation of the AFL-CIO for its patriotic resolution of support for the American cause in the Vietnam War.

It was worthwhile, indeed, for the President to call attention to endorsement of the government's policy in Southeast Asia, as proclaimed by the largest labor organization in the world. It means a good deal in other countries where labor plays an important role, too.

THE FACT the nation's unions are behind the government's course in Vietnam is significant, and Mr. Johnson was wise in stressing it.

The President had every reason to assail critics of the Vietnam War, because in these passages of his speech he did not single out Democrats or Republicans. But when he coupled this with a political attack on the Republican party on domestic issues, he was weakening his position.

He said:

"The only time they (the Republicans) really said, 'Yes,' an enthusiastic 'Yes,' was when they could vote to recommit a good bill — to bury it in a blanket of rhetoric beneath the wave of Republican reaction. But they are not fooling anybody, are they?

"The people know that the old Republican buggy can go only one way and that is backwards, downhill.

"The only program that that Grand Old Party offers is the remains of what they backed into and what they have run over on the road, the bits and pieces of what somebody else has built."

Mr. Johnson said that "labor's leadership" had helped make Congress "productive," and he urged that labor work to replace what he called "Republican nay-sayers" with Democrats such as those who "helped write the historic legislative record of the 89th Congress."

He declared:

"And we are going to have to work. We are going to have to roll up our sleeves and put our shoulder to the wheel — every man get to work and work through next November."

The President had the benefit of nationwide television audiences when he made his address at Miami. Naturally, the Republican leaders in Congress have demanded of the three national networks equal time to answer what they term a "partisan and political speech" to the AFL-CIO convention.

If a Republican president had appeared before the National Association of Manufacturers and sought the campaign help of businessmen as he denounced the Democratic party, this would have been regarded by labor as a blunder deserving impeachment at the polls.

Mr. Johnson's conspicuous alliance with union labor on domestic issues raises the question of how the executive branch of the government can deal equitably with the many problems that arise involving labor-management relations — as, for instance, wage and price controls.

Mr. Johnson boasted that the United States is fighting a war "for the first time in American history without any wage or without any price controls."

He spoke of voluntary restraints having made involuntary curbs unnecessary.

THE TRUTH OF the matter is that the wage-price "spiral," to which the President referred in passing, is getting more acute every day.

Mr. Johnson realizes the seriousness of the situation, but he has not yet recommended any remedy except to leave it to both labor and management to hold down wages and prices in their own way.

What is even more important is that if wage and price controls are imposed, business management now may be inclined to have little confidence in the impartiality of the agencies entrusted with the task of administering the regulations issued.

When a president of the United States enters publicly into an obviously political identification with a large labor-union organization, businessmen become suspicious.

They begin to feel that appointments to governmental agencies dealing with labor-management relations will not be based upon merit or objectivity or independence of judgment on the part of the individual chosen but upon the political affiliation of the administration with the labor-union movement.

Congress Winds Up Long Session

By JOE HALL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A long 1967 congressional session beset with controversy over the Vietnam war and rejection of many of President Johnson's major proposals, including a tax hike, has ended.

The session ended at 6:50 p.m. Friday with adjournment of the Senate; the House had quit at 6:36. Congress will reconvene in a month, on Jan. 15, when the question of an income tax surcharge and other rejected proposals will be considered again.

Major Bills Approved

In the final working hours Congress approved these major bills:

—An omnibus Social Security bill raising by at least 13 per cent the cash benefits of 24 million people and hiking the payroll taxes of 75 million others to finance the improvements;

—A $1.77 billion appropriation for the antipoverty program—just about the amount cited as the minimum needed by Sargent Shriver, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity;

—A $9.3 billion authorization to finance federal aid to education through June 30, 1970, with a prime aim of the legislation being improved educational opportunities for poor children;

—A record-low foreign aid bill of $2.29 billion—nearly $1 billion less than Johnson asked for.

Despite some big setbacks, Johnson did see some major legislation clear the Congress and he congratulated both houses "on a great job done."

The first session of the 90th Congress also increased postal rates, boosted federal employes' and military pay, strengthened air pollution control laws, set up a public broadcast corporation to aid noncommercial television, and tightened meat inspection laws.

Some Proposals Snubbed

But Congress declined to pass Johnson's proposed 10 per cent income tax surcharge, his major anticrime bill, his civil rights proposals, his gun-control legislation, his election reform bill, or his "truth in lending" proposal.

Some of the President's recommendations attracted such little support that he did not push for action on them. They included measures to liberalize trade with Communist nations and to merge the labor and commerce departments.

Most legislators agreed that unhappiness over the war caused many of the administration's problems at the Capitol.

This became clear early in the year when Johnson's budget revealed that many programs, such as school aid, were being financed far below the authorized amounts because of the military demands.

The President's big problems on his program came in the House, where Republicans had 47 more members than in the preceding Congress.

Debates on war policy consumed many hours. Most of the attacks on the President's course in Vietnam came from fellow Democrats. The Senate asked him in a unanimously adopted resolution to consider putting the war issue before the United Nations.

Cooper Delivers Speech

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., one of the critics of the war, delivered one last speech Friday on the subject, expressing concern at reports the administration is considering a limited invasion of the North or a hot-pursuit policy in which American forces would chase the enemy into Laos and Cambodia, where the Communists have sanctuaries.

"I earnestly hope that no further expansion will come from the initiative or decisions of the United States," Cooper said.

A delegation of House leaders telephoned the President in the early evening to inform him it was ready to adjourn and, following tradition, he advised them he had no more business for the session to consider. Then he congratulated Congress for its work.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen performed the same task for their chamber.

The House was thrown into an uproar at the start of the 1967 session over seating of Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y. He finally was denied his post after a committee found him guilty of misuse of public funds.

The Senate in mid-session censured Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., after its ethics committee found he converted political funds to his personal use.

These Bills Approved

Major bills passed in session included:

—A Social Security bill increasing by at least 13 per cent all benefits for 24 million people on the rolls, boosting the payroll tax, putting a limit on medicaid, and tightening the public welfare program.

—A $900 million postal-rate increase including a one-cent boost in the letter rate effective Jan. 7.

—A $2.7 billion pay raise for 2 million federal employes, and a $2.7 billion pay hike for 3.4 million military and other uniformed personnel.

—A $9.3 billion two-year extension of aid to education.

—Creation of a public broadcasting corporation to make grants for noncommercial television and radio programs, particularly in the education field.

—A $428 million bill for the fight against air pollution which arms the secretary of health, education and welfare with new powers to eliminate pollution sources.

—A bill increasing Vietnam veterans' benefits, raising all veterans' pensions, and broadening cold war veterans benefits.

—Senate ratification of the consular treaty with the Soviet Union. But this has not gone into effect yet because the Soviets have not acted to ratify it.

—Senate ratification of the Outer Space Treaty prohibiting the orbiting of weapons of mass destruction in space or their stationing in outer space.

Among major Johnson recommendations on which Congress refused to act this year:

—A 10 per cent surcharge on the income tax designed to help pay for the war, reduce inflationary pressures and cut the budget deficit. The House Ways and Means Committee ist o resume consideration of this Jan. 22.

—His "Safe Streets and Crime Control" bill proposing new federal aid to improve local law enforcement.

—His civil rights proposals, including antidiscrimination in housing, measures to prevent acts or threats of violence against Negroes, elimination of discrimination in jury selection, and enforcement powers for the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

—The election reform bill to require much broader disclosure of all spending in campaigns for federal office.

—Government financing of presidential campaigns.

—Firearms control.

—East-West trade.

—The "truth-in-lending" bill to require that borrowers be told the true interest rate and the total of financial charges in all consumer debt transactions.

—Merger of the Commerce and Labor departments.

See Better Record

Democratic leaders emphasized all of these bills will be alive in the second session of the 90th next year and insisted a better record will be compiled by the time Congress quits in 1968.

The White House, the Senate and the House carried on a three-cornered running battle over the budget throughout the session.

But in the end a total of $157 billion in new appropriations was voted during the year, a record. The biggest previous one-year figure, $147 billion, was voted during World War II.

The legislators cut money bills about $5.96 billion below Johnson's budget requests.

Hearing Set For Monday

A hearing for a New Cumberland man charged in connection with the breaking and entering of the Hancock County Health Department has been reset for Monday afternoon after the defendant requested appointment of an attorney.

Squire John D. Herron, who was to have held a preliminary hearing Friday, appointed Ruth Cox Turner as counsel for Cleveland Dean, 20, of 1935 Ridge Ave. charged with the theft of $4,000 in laboratory equipment.

The hearing now will be held Monday at 2:30 p. m.

Chief William Webster at New Cumberland, who arrested Dean, said part of the equipment was recovered.

Dean was arrested in his home Tuesday by Webster and Hancock sheriff's deputies on a search and seizure warrant issued by Herron. Webster said Weirton police provided leads which led to the apprehension. Dean was being held under $3,000 bond.

and pointed out it is registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission. He said all three companies are closely held and none appears on either the American or New York stock exchanges.

Management Control's new program will have as a basis for development 25,828 acres of land acquired about four years ago by Tri-State. Blair said presently there is commercial gas and oil production in the areas involved. Revenue from the stock sale will be put to use for the new exploration. Management Control's program will be handled by Tri-State Producing's personnel, he added.

THE NEWER wells to be developed will be drilled from between 5,000 to 8,000 feet, he said, and should experience a longer life.

Tri-State Producing handled the drilling of 27 wells in Ohio during 1967 and experienced 100 per cent success.

The company was the first to obtain production from the Trempealeau formation in Richland County, near Mansfield, and to date has produced over 100,000 barrels of oil from the half-dozen wells in that area.

Crude oil is sold to Sohio Petroleum, Ashland Oil and Refining, Quaker State and Pennzoil, while natural gas is produced for the East Ohio Gas Co. and the Ohio Fuel and Gas Co.

Blair said the Trempealeau formation found in Richland County is about 4,500 feet beneath the surface of the ground, but in Columbiana County it is found at between 8,000 and 9,000 feet. Blair reported the company is quite interested in the deeper wells, even though the expense of developing the county heretofore has been prohibitive because of the great depth involved. He said individual wells will cost between $60,000 and $80,000 to drill, but the profits derived from them should more than offset the costs.

THE COMPANY will, in drilling toward the Trempealeau formation here, explore several lesser formations, but is primarily interested in that formation and the Clinton sands. But, the others may prove productive, he pointed out.

The company anticipates drilling "or being instrumental in drilling about 50 wells in Eastern Ohio during 1968 in cooperation with the Buttes firm, and in conjunction with management Control Corporation.

Blair noted the sale of Tri-State Oil and Gas is in no way connected with the new stock program of Management Control or the oil and gas development planned by Tri-State Producing. "The offer was just too attractive to turn down," Blair said.

Management Control was formed in July, 1966.

state law making it mandatory to seal off unworked mines covers only those shafts abandoned after 1941. The state has no available funds with which to pay for such work, he added.

Since the two shaft openings are on private property and the owner is an East Liverpool widow who says she is without sufficient funds, the only feasible way of closing the entrances is with money from county subdivisions, supplemented with the donations of equipment and material, Kirkland said.

He pointed out the Division 11 office of the Ohio Highway Department was approached about the problem of the open shafts close to its right-of-way, but replied that it was not permitted to go onto private property for such a project.

HE SAID the shafts will be sealed as state law requires, with a brick wall provided with a trap in the bottom to allow escape of any water that might accumulate.

Kirkland said he communicated with the highway department office in New Philadelphia as late as last September about the hazard of the open mines, but was told that the work was outside the highway department's jurisdiction.

Kirkland joined in the search for the two Warren boys, who finally were found about 3:15 p.m. Thursday. He said he found an old hobnailed boot that probably was abandoned by a miner many years ago, as the shaft has not been worked for close to 50 years.

The shaft is well-ventilated, a fact that allowed the boys to survive despite their long wanderings through the labyrinth, he added.

An inspection of the mine entrances is scheduled by officers from an Army Reserve unit at Cleveland to determine if the openings can safely be closed by dynamite blasts.

6 Per Cent On Sales

Tax Boost Near In Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG (AP)—Senate Republicans late Friday night reported to the floor a $150 million House-approved tax program, including a proposal for the highest sales tax in the nation, and set next week as a target date for passage.

"I have the optimistic attitude that we'll be able to get them through either Tuesday or Wednesday," Majority Leader Stanley G. Stroup, R-Bedford, said after the measures were released routinely by the Finance Committee.

The key measure in the package was a proposal to increase the state's 5 per cent sales tax to 6 per cent to net $65.6 million in the remaining six months of the fiscal year.

Passed By House

It passed the House Friday night with a bare constitutional majority, 102-96, as six Democrats supported it in the face of six Republican defections.

While the increased rate technically was to revert back to 5 per cent after 18 months, come July 1, 1969, lawmakers on both sides concurred that such a prospect was remote.

Passage of the sales tax cleared the way for nine other measures in the package, all approved with a minimum of Democratic help.

The only bill to fall was a proposed 50 per cent jump in the tax on beer, but Republican leaders appeared unperturbed, since it was the smallest revenue measure in the bundle, at $4.5 million.

House Republican leaders conceded later the tacit consent of organized labor was vital if the Democrats were to provide the necessary votes. Without it, they said, there was no hope of getting the required minority assistance.

The two chief officers of the Pennsylvania AFL-CIO, President Harry Boyer and Executive Vice-President Michael Johnson, released a statement condemning the House for its "audacity and lack of feeling for the people" in approving the package.

"The Pennsylvania AFL-CIO ...is unalterably opposed to..increasing the sales tax," they said "We are pledged to resist final passage of this infamous tax package by the Senate."

Republican leaders, meanwhile, scheduled a vote for Monday on two labor bills to increase the minimum wage from $1 to $1.60 an hour over four years and to boost maximum weekly workmen's compensation benefits from $45 to $60.

Would End Stalemate

Democratic aides vigorously rejected any suggestions that the labor bills were connected in any way with the tax vote. They noted the bills had been endorsed previously by the Republican Shafer Administration.

The $150 million program is designed to end the half-year fiscal stalemate that has confronted the administration since June.

Senate passage of the supplemental package would permit the three state-related universities, Penn State, Pitt and Temple to receive their entire $104 million in appropriations for the fiscal year.

In addition, the other state - aided universities and hospitals are to receive 95 per cent of their allocations.

Democratic support ranged from a low of five votes for increased utilities gross receipts to nine for tripling the inheritance tax.

Minority Leader Herbert Fineman, D-Philadelphia, promptly labeled the package a Republican program and said Democratic votes were supplied only to assure the colleges and universities would receive their money.

Other bills in the package, and their yields:

— An increase from 5 to 6 mills in the capital stock tax, $25.5 million.

— From 14 to 20 mills in the utility gross receipts, $16.8 million.

— Tripling from 2 to 6 per cent the inheritance tax, $13 million.

— An increase from 15 to 18 per cent in the liquor tax, $5.5 million.

— A 25 per cent increase in bank shares, $8 million.

— Eliminating the 50-cent exemption on restaurant meals, $7.5 million, with an additional $1.5 million from the increased rate.

— Transfer of a $6.7 million surplus in the Korean veterans' bonus.

Chester Resident Injured In One Of Four Mishaps

A Chester man was injured in a one-car accident on Route 30 Friday night.

James Florkevich of 317 Carolina Ave. is in "satisfactory" condition at City Hospital suffering from a laceration of the forehead and left heel after the mishap about 8:32 p. m.

Chester police said they received a report of the mishap, went to the scene, near the Terrace Lanes, and stood by to await the arrival of Hancock County sheriff's deputies. The sheriff's office reported this morning, however, its officers were busy at the time and West Virginia State Police were called. State police at Weirton said when officers arrived, about 9:15 p. m, there was no sign of a wreck.

Two autos were involved in a crash on Washington St at Newell about 8:16 p. m. Friday.

Deputies who investigated said the report is incomplete, but an auto driven by John G. Gatchell, 21, of Newell Rd. and a parked car owned by Earl Talbott of Newell were involved.

Damage to the Gatchell car totaled about $300, while Talbott's vehicle received about $400 damage.

Another mishap report also was incomplete. Deputies said an accident on Route 66 Friday involved an auto driven by Leo F. Hunt, 25, of Perrysville, Ohio, RD 2, but no other information was available.

A driver attempting to avoid a collision lost control of his auto and it went off the road into a ditch early today.

Deputies reported the mishap, north of the Tally - Ho Club on Route 2, about 12:52 a. m., involved a car operated by Robert Kralovic, 20, of 925 2nd Ave., New Cumberland. Damage was under $100, they said.

The report indicated Kralovic was headed north when a car coming in the opposite direction passed a second auto. In an attempt to avoid a crash Kralovic pulled his car far to the right of the highway and in attempting to get back on the roadway the rear end began swerving and he lost control.

The driver was not injured. He was not cited.

Man Refused Transcript Of Robbery Trial

LISBON — William E. Icenhour, 32, of Monaca, serving a 10-to-25-year sentence in Ohio State Penitentiary on an armed robberty conviction, was denied the trial transcript Friday.

Judge Joel H. Sharp of Common Pleas Court sent a letter to the prisoner informing him he is not entitled to a transcript because he has no appeal pending and no grounds on which to appeal.

Icenhour had mailed a pauper affidavit from prison and asked the county to send him the record of the trial.

A Common Pleas Court jury convicted Icenhour last Feb. 16 on a charge of armed robbery Jan. 2, 1966, at the 12th St. Market in Wellsville.

Icenhour's trial followed by one month that of his brother-in-law, Tim Galloway, 28, of Waynesburg, Pa., who was convicted of the same robberty. He is serving a sentence of 10 to 25 years.

Judge Sharp noted that Icenhour was represented by counsel throughout the trial, and, after the jury found him guilty, asked for immediate sentence. "Since you did not make a motion for a new trial and appeal the judgment of conviction, but of your own choice requested immediate sentence, you are not entitled to a transcript of the trial testimony," the judge wrote.

A MOMENT OF MEDITATION

Faith And Works

There is much misunderstanding in the world in regard to the teaching of the Bible about "Faith and Works". One man will tell us that we are justified in the sight of God by faith and faith only. Another will tell us that we cannot expect to be saved without works.

It behooves the honest soul who wants to know the true will of God to examine carefully, the teachings of the Bible in regard to the subjects of faith and works. In our article today we would like to notice some of the teachings of the Word of God that will help us to come to a knowledge of the truth on this subject.

First, let it be noted that faith and works are necessary to please God. Heb. 11:6 states that without faith we cannot be pleasing in the sight of God. In James 2:24 we read this: "Ye see then how that by works a man is justified and not by faith only." From these two passages we can see that both faith and works are necessary to be pleasing to God. These passages do not contradict each other. They just teach that we cannot expect to be justified by either faith only or works only. These two elements must be combined.

To further show that both faith and works are needed, let us notice these two elements combined in the lives of some who were justified before God. We read in Heb. 11:4 that Abel was justified by faith in God. However, it was not by faith only! Because of the faith that Abel had, he offered (worked) to God an acceptable sacrifice. Thus Abel was justified by faith when he did what God commanded. Another example we read about in Heb. 11:7. Noah was saved by faith. He was not saved by a faith that would not obey God's command. Noah showed his faith by building an ark as God commanded. If his faith had not caused him to do as God commanded, he would have been drowned just like the others were. These examples along with many others, prove very clearly that God does not save us by just faith alone. Neither are we saved by works alone.

In view of the things that we have just studied, we should be able to see how these two elements (faith and works) are combined to bring about our salvation. Jesus commanded this: "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved . . . ".Mk. 16-16. Those who really have faith in God will be baptized without question. Faith will move them to be obedient to the command of God. Those who do not submit to this command, show that they do not really have faith. Faith is demonstrated when we obey God. Jas. 2:18.

You are cordially invited to attend the services of the Church of Christ tomorrow. Come with an open Bible and let us study God's will together.

New Captain, New Game

A rather courageously logical position on a long limb has been taken by John C. Lobb, Crucible Steel Co. president, who this week chided steel industry leaders for attempting to meet foreign competition with government restrictions on imports.

In what amounted to heresy in U.S. some industrial circles, Lobb claimed the best way to counter foreign steel shipments is to give domestic customers better products and better service through better management.

Tariffs and quotas, Lobb said, only lead to more government involvement in private industry, with the threat of subsequent wage and price controls, and eventually nationalization.

Referring to his experience in electronics, process equipment and other industries, Lobb said, "Japanese competition is mighty tough in some of these areas, but as every U.S. investor knows, the better managed companies have done very well."

Mr. Lobb, who has already launched Crucible on a new course of diversification and growth in a tight ship with trimmed sails, is eyeing bright horizons of specialty metals and advanced technology to fit his concept of better research, better sales, better production.

Crucible, which has shaken off the 2½-year stalemate of stockholder controversy, is about to issue $30 million bonds for obtaining new facilities, and will plunk $16 million in capital expenditures into the Midland Division, is prepared for some significant strides under the positive thinking Lobb.

"We expect to move ahead rapidly," he declares confidently, adding a strong note of conviction to his apparent unwillingness to settle for tariffs and 1967 production standards as the weapons for the 1968 marketplace.

The workers and management at Midland Division are committed to this independent attitude, this new investment direction which, like any departure from convention, holds both risk and the promise of great success.

We believe next year's stockholders' meeting will reveal the measurement of achievement from Lobb's judgment and planning.

The Yes-And-No System

When Mike Mansfield of Montana, Senate Democratic leader, took issue with President Johnson over his attack on Republicans in Congress, we had a sneak preview of the two-party system of the future.

We get these previews from time to time. They're fascinating.

Sen. Mansfield told the leader of the Democratic party Republicans had provided the margin of victory for many administration measures.

He said there are "nay-sayers" and "yes-sayers" in both parties, and blame should be placed impartially, if blame must be placed.

This is the two-party system of the future. This is the way things are shaping up. This is why for years the balance of political power in the United States has been with "independents" — voters who reach independent decisions, unfettered by party afiliation.

In city, county, congressional district and state governments, the yes-and-no system is firmly established. Only in the federal government does the idea persist that the American people are divided between Democrats and Republicans — an illusion that has caused a few recent presidential campaigners to be shattered by disillusionment.

As the electorate becomes more knowledgeable, voters become more independent.

Party lines blur out.

Narrow partisanship smacks of old-time party bosses operating in the style of Tammany Hall.

Tammany Hall lost its power in New York City, because New Yorkers were fed up with the abuses it perpetrated. Old-time party lines have ceased to have meaning in the nation as a whole. The two-party system today functions principally as a technique for getting candidates on the ballot. It is a nominating device.

On Election Day, the system changes its character and becomes a way for the American people to vote yes and no, with party allegiance ignored. Solid Southerners end up voting for Republican presidential candidates. Suburban Northerners find themselves lining up for Democrats. Even the once-solid union labor bloc and the Negro bloc are being shattered by independent voting.

Who would have dreamed a generation ago that a Senate Majority leader would chide a chief executive for flaying the opposition in a public speech?

Who would have dared to dream that anyone as objective as Mike Mansfield ever would become a Senate majority leader.?

King Clears Air In Greece

Pity for King Constantine of Greece at this time is premature.

Failure of his attempt to throw out the junta forced him to flee his country and leave it in the tight grip of military rule, but the story doesn't end there.

Since the military junta's takeover April 21, King Constantine has played a waiting game in hope the country would return to normal. The junta had promised a new constitution and elections.

The King watched time slip away without the promises being kept. To the contrary, he watched a growing fanatical surge to destroy everything that smacks of Communism—real or imagined.

Junta activity touched every phase of Greek life—customs, press, sports, music, dress, church and the arts. The jury system was ordered abolished and loyalty oaths instituted for professors and state employes. Little attention was paid to pledged constitutional reforms.

Three months of uncertainty resulted because the junta needed the King to give its regime an aura of legality and the King was holding off drastic measures to see if the military leaders would live up to their word.

Finally, King Constantine decided it was time to move. He realized his chances of ousting the junta were small. Fully aware of the danger to himself, his family and the citizens of Greece, he acted.

He issued a plea to loyal Greeks to join his effort to restore the country to "democratic normalcy."

The initial thrust failed to unseat the junta. However, it was successful in one respect. The rulers in Athens now are operating illegally, in defiance of the King's wishes.

The air is clear. King Constantine is no longer a captive monarch. He has made his break, for better or for worse.

The King now is waiting to see how other nations react to an outlaw government. He has the support of prominent Greeks inside and outside Greece.

The issue is now before the citizens of Greece. The choice is up to them.

Passing The Torch

Lester B. Pearson, Canada's distinguished statesman, has added more height to his image.

In announcing his resignation as leader of the ruling Liberal party, he is removing himself gracefully from a prominent position without bitterness or bloody in-fighting.

After 40 years of public service, Prime Minister Pearson wants to step down, not be knocked down.

It would be wise if public figures in other nations could exercise as sound judgment when they near the end of the line.

Charles de Gaulle is the glaring example of a leader who has served too long. He cannot abide the idea that other men, younger and more aware of revolutionary changes at work in the world, can lead France with dignity and wisdom.

De Gaulle has served his country in a manner no other Frenchman can lay claim to; but he doesn't know when to call it quits.

History will record all his deeds, good and bad; but people will remember his arrogance.

Lester Pearson not only has faith in his country, but he has faith in his countrymen — enough to trust them with the fate of the nation.

TRUMAN TWILL

Purely Personal Observations

Our little dog Muttsie sometimes stirs me to wrath, such as when he ambles out of an overstuffed chair to lean against a hot-air register and I snap at him, "You worthless little mutt; why don't you go get a job?" Luckily, he doesn't take offense. Just shuffles upstairs to lie on a bed.

Instant expertise is when a presidential hopeful travels abroad for a few weeks so no questions can be raised about his capabilities in the tricky area of foreign policy.

I tried to explain to a member of the younger generation why the death of a woman in Dallas named Evalyn McLean raised the question about the evil aura of the Hope Diamond that her grandmother owned and got so mixed up I decided to let the Smithsonian Institution, which now owns the diamond, take care of all future explanations.

The Johnson administration's argument for an income tax surcharge to cure what ails us sounds like a proposal to cure an ingrown toenail by cutting off a leg. It isn't the money we spend that our Great Good Government should worry about but the money IT is spending — money it doesn't have.

It is interesting that former President Eisenhower and Sen. Fulbright finally are seeing eye to eye on the military-industrial complex. Eisenhower warned against it when he left office in 1960; Fulbright confirms that what Eisenhower warned against is happening. We now have a militarized society. Hup, two, three, four ....

Aside to the Girl in the Red Corvair: Next time you see red on your way to work, excluding dump trucks, chartered buses, fire engines, panel trucks, tankers, blinkers on police cruisers and farm machinery, that probably will be the newspaper writer who has made you locally famous.

I treasure a photograph of a group of public officials dressed up for a special occasion in the year 1898. Whenever I feel overdue for a new suit, I look at the clothes men wore in that era and feel glad I am privileged to wear today's easy-fitting sensible garments.

Except for the pay and prerogatives, I wouldn't be king on a bet, especially of a country like Greece, where politics is played for keeps, with real guns and irreconcilable strong men.

VICTOR RIESEL

Negroes Demand More Jobs

BAL HARBOUR — A soft-spoken Negro leader, facing a concentrated assemblage of one thousand officers of the nation's most powerful unions, told them quietly but bluntly, here the other day, they no longer would be permitted to keep black workers out of their memberships. Roy Wilkins, Executive Dierctor of the NAACP, standing face to face with leaders of national unions which still have a de facto non-Negro policy, warned them they'd be cracked open by massive action on the part of the government and the Negroes themselves.

Victor Riesel

It was one of the few moments during the AFL-CIO's Seventh Constitutional Convention when all went quiet. In one corner of the big hall, delegates from labor federations of 10 African nations listened hard and quietly to one of the toughest recitals of union bans on Negroes ever made before a massed labor audience.

Predicting riots all the way from Newark to the San Francisco Bay area unless the construction unions really admitted large numbers of Negroes, Wilkins said the time had come for the national AFL-CIO leadership to stop talking and begin cracking down on its affiliated unions which still had but two or three Negroes in locals with memberships of thousands.

After counting off local upon local in Newark, Cleveland, Cincinnati and San Francisco Bay area cities which had one or two — or no — Negroes, Wilkins, with George Meany sitting but a few feet from him on he stage, said:

"It (compliance with open membership regulations and resolutions) has been a conversation piece. It has been observed by powerful and important unions only in the breach or, at best, with a grudging foot-dragging tokenism. The proud policy of the AFL-CIO is not being followed.

"SOME OF THEM (the affiliated unions) are deliberately ignoring, and some of them are ignoring it through a shoulder-shrugging gesture. But the Negro citizen and the Negro children of the country are determined that employment doors shall be opened.

"Some of these doors to employment will be opened by massive employment activity by the government itself, but some by a change in labor practices. Negroes must have more than bread and clothing and shelter. They must have access to the comfort, the security and even the affluence that is America."

This was a reference to the building and construction trades unions whose job rates now run up to $7 and $8 an hour with fringe benefits.

But Wilkins did not confine himself to the building unions. He lashed at the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and even at the United Steelworkers.

Then Wilkins hit the convention delegates square on. Many squirmed as he read off the black statistics and predicted that there would be danger of new black action in Newark, still recovering from the recent bloodiness.

After doggedly outlining the NAACP's fight for Negro jobs at a big high school construction site, at Rutgers and state universities, Wilkins said that despite a December 1966 stipulation that the Iron Workers five locals would admit Negro workers, "not a single Negro has been admitted into any of the five locals nor is there a single Negro employe within this union's jurisdiction in the extensive public and private construction in northern New Jersey."

Then came the warning. Wilkins told the crowd of union leaders and staffs that "We can anticipate, with the new public construction beginning next year on West Market St. in Newark, and on the edge of the Negro ghetto, just what the feeling will be, and the question inevitably arises, "What did we learn from the terrible riot in Newark last year?"

Nor was he less candid with leaders of other sections of the nation.

"Now, the record in Cleveland," said the Negro leader with quiet toughness, "serves to point up all of this. The record of repeated efforts of Negro workers to breach the color bar in the craft unions in Cleveland in the decade following the merger illustrates the limited nature of the progress that has been made."

First he outlined the fight made by his organization and other groups there since 1955. Then he hit them again. He stated that after an 11-year fight, the record showed in '66 that the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (IBEW) had admitted two Negroes.

HE WRAPPED UP the "Cleveland Story" with the following statistics as of April 1966:

"The IBEW Local 38 with a total membership of 1,258 had two Negro members.

"Iron Workers union, Local 17, with a total membership of 1,786 had no Negro members.

"Plumbers union, Local 55, with a total membership of 1,482 had three Negro members.

"Pipefitters union, Local 36, with a total membership of 1,319 had one Negro member.

"Sheetmetal Workers union, Local 65, with a total membership of 1,077 had 45 Negro members . . ."

Thus it went in city after city, state after state. Meany, equally candid, responding to Wilkins' statement that as the AFL-CIO is concerned the "stark, bald issue" is union control of jobs, replied that he (Meany) did not resent in any way the report Wilkins gave them.

"He presents us with a challenge and we shall meet that challenge."

There was applause and Roy Wilkins, opponent of the extremist and black power actionists, left as quietly as he came. Behind him was a "powder keg" sociological time bomb.

But he had warned the labor movement. That's why he came.

DAVID LAWRENCE

Bad Error

President Johnson doesn't often make mistakes in the realm of politics. If he had had the advice of a good "public-relations" man, he probably would not have made the partisan speech he delivered at the AFL-CIO convention in Miami.

The President had a right to discuss any question he pleased, but he would have been on sound ground if he had avoided political partisanship and confined himself to commendation of the AFL-CIO for its patriotic resolution of support for the American cause in the Vietnam War.

It was worthwhile, indeed, for the President to call attention to endorsement of the government's policy in Southeast Asia, as proclaimed by the largest labor organization in the world. It means a good deal in other countries where labor plays an important role, too.

THE FACT the nation's unions are behind the government's course in Vietnam is significant, and Mr. Johnson was wise in stressing it.

The President had every reason to assail critics of the Vietnam War, because in these passages of his speech he did not single out Democrats or Republicans. But when he coupled this with a political attack on the Republican party on domestic issues, he was weakening his position.

He said:

"The only time they (the Republicans) really said, 'Yes,' an enthusiastic 'Yes,' was when they could vote to recommit a good bill — to bury it in a blanket of rhetoric beneath the wave of Republican reaction. But they are not fooling anybody, are they?

"The people know that the old Republican buggy can go only one way and that is backwards, downhill.

"The only program that that Grand Old Party offers is the remains of what they backed into and what they have run over on the road, the bits and pieces of what somebody else has built."

Mr. Johnson said that "labor's leadership" had helped make Congress "productive," and he urged that labor work to replace what he called "Republican nay-sayers" with Democrats such as those who "helped write the historic legislative record of the 89th Congress."

He declared:

"And we are going to have to work. We are going to have to roll up our sleeves and put our shoulder to the wheel — every man get to work and work through next November."

The President had the benefit of nationwide television audiences when he made his address at Miami. Naturally, the Republican leaders in Congress have demanded of the three national networks equal time to answer what they term a "partisan and political speech" to the AFL-CIO convention.

If a Republican president had appeared before the National Association of Manufacturers and sought the campaign help of businessmen as he denounced the Democratic party, this would have been regarded by labor as a blunder deserving impeachment at the polls.

Mr. Johnson's conspicuous alliance with union labor on domestic issues raises the question of how the executive branch of the government can deal equitably with the many problems that arise involving labor-management relations — as, for instance, wage and price controls.

Mr. Johnson boasted that the United States is fighting a war "for the first time in American history without any wage or without any price controls."

He spoke of voluntary restraints having made involuntary curbs unnecessary.

THE TRUTH OF the matter is that the wage-price "spiral," to which the President referred in passing, is getting more acute every day.

Mr. Johnson realizes the seriousness of the situation, but he has not yet recommended any remedy except to leave it to both labor and management to hold down wages and prices in their own way.

What is even more important is that if wage and price controls are imposed, business management now may be inclined to have little confidence in the impartiality of the agencies entrusted with the task of administering the regulations issued.

When a president of the United States enters publicly into an obviously political identification with a large labor-union organization, businessmen become suspicious.

They begin to feel that appointments to governmental agencies dealing with labor-management relations will not be based upon merit or objectivity or independence of judgment on the part of the individual chosen but upon the political affiliation of the administration with the labor-union movement.

Santa Is Coming!

It's beginning to look a lot like you-know-what, with shoppers shopping, children hopping with excitement and holiday lights and tinsel breaking out all over.

In just eight more days, St. Nick will be on the scene, sleigh and all, with "Ho, Ho, Ho," and the youngsters who have been good — or not too bad — will be rewarded with just what they wanted.

There is nothing quite like this magic of the twelfth month when there is a little more bounce to almost everyone's step, when the happy expectation of Christmas morn is not confined to the little ones, when the deep significance of the anniversary reaches into the heart on a quiet, star-studded Christmas Eve.

The Verse Box

Interview With Jet Age Santa

'Twas the day before Christmas, and boy! was it snowing;
The North Wind was whistling and howling and blowing.
I was chilled through and through from my head to my feet,
And my nose and my cheeks were as red as a beet!

But I had an appointment—and this was some trick—
To interview Mr. and Mrs. Saint Nick;
So I stopped by the toy shop and knocked at the door,
And entered the room 'mid confusion galore.

I caught Santa's eye, and we quickly shook hands,
And he chuckled and winked (as tradition demands)
But he didn't look happy or merry or jolly:
In fact, he seemed tired and dejected, by golly.

He hung up my coat with a half-hearted laugh.
And said, "Give me a hand—I'll pay time and a half.
I really don't see how we'll ever get through;
At least half of my elves are laid up with the flu.

"Mrs. Santa's got measles,, and I've just been told
That Rudolph's red nose is stuffed up with a cold."
But we all pitched right in, and believe it or not,
We had everything finished by six on the dot.

Santa hurried and dressed and had just tied his shoes,
When in rushed a worker with terrible news!
It seemed that the reindeer would not leave the ground—
(Too many missiles and spacecraft around.)

Poor Santa! He groaned and then dabbed at a tear,
"Gosh, it looks like I'm not going to make it this year."
In a moment he smiled, though, and sprang to his feet,
"By golly, I'm not going to call a retreat."

"My job's too important to throw in the towel;
I've got a friend who will help me somehow."
He reached for the phone without any delay.
And in no time at all chirped, "Hel-lo, LBJ."

He then dashed through the shop, snatching up every gift,
Cried, "I'm off to the airport. Quick—give me a lift!"

On the way he stuffed all of the gifts in his pack
And then boarded a jet plane belonging to SAC.

Well, he made it on time and gave out every toy
That gladdens the heart of each good girl and boy;
And I heard his exclaim as the jet roared away,
"Happy Christmas to all! Have a wonderful day."

GI's Help Vietnam Orphanage

By LIDA SMITH

The Christmas spirit has arrived a little early at an orphanage at My Tho, Vietnam, where a 19 - year - old soldier and other members of his company have "adopted" 180 orphans at a Catholic institution.

The men of "B" Company, Signal Bn., 9th Infantry Division, "chip in" and give the money to the home administrators for food, clothing and toys for the children and a few adults. The men decided to write to their families back home and encourage people in their home towns to help them with their "foster" children.

Pfc. Robert E. Nott, son of Mrs. Jean Farnsworth of 920 St. George St., arrived in the Tan An area, Vietnam, Oct. 21. He explained the reasoning behind the "adoption" this way: The U.S. is spending about 12 million dollars a day toward the war effort, so we, the men of "B" Company, felt that spending a small part of our pay to promote happiness and give the children a sense of security was well worth it."

He indicated that most of the youngsters are victims of the war, losing their parents in bombings, raids on villages and the like. Others, typical of children in orphanages all over the world, have been "dropped" on the doorstep by parents who could no longer afford to take care of them.

Pfc. Robert Nott and some orphan friends.

There are older men and women who have received asylum at the orphanage too, Nott said. In return for their support, they assist the nuns with the children.

A far cry from the wooden and canvas bunkers, surrounded with sandbags, that the "foster fathers" call home, the orphanage is a two-story building of flaking, off-white stucco with summer-sky blue shutters. Children play in a brick courtyard among rows of flowering bushes and trees. In a side courtyard, there is a large stone shrine with a statue of the Virgin Mary.

Nott, a radioman, said, "We are asking our friends and neighbors back home to share with the children a small part of the joy Christmas brings us. These will be 180 kids brought up understanding the American way of life and loving the American people. We feel that helping the Vietnamese people towards a democratic and free way of life is the reason we are in Vietnam."

The orphanage needs sewing supplies and material, canned foods, toys and money for purchasing fresh food.

In order to facilitate mailing and meeting the cost of postage, it has been suggested a local organization, church class or civic group might make a project of aiding the servicemen with the orphanage.

Anyone interested may notify Mrs. Farnsworth or write to Nott in care of Co. B, 9th Signal Bn., 9th Infantry Division, San Francisco, Calif., APO 96370.

"America is the only country in the world where men get together to talk about hard times over a $7 steak."

Favorites Food

Give a Christmas treat from your own kitchen to carry a message of love and bounty that's ages old. These Swedis "wonders" will delight the most fastidious palate, Mrs. Edith Brenneman of Tampa, Fla., a former resident, said.

- 6 egg yolks
- ¼ cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon melted butter
- 1-3 cup heavy cream, whipped
- 1 tablespoon grated lemon peel
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 2 cups sifted flour
- confectioners' sugar

Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon - colored; beat in sugar. Gently stir in melted butter, whipped cream, lemon peel, salt and sifted flour; mix only enough to blend ingredients to soft dough. Chill. Roll dough (half of it at a time) ⅛ inch thick on a lightly floured pastry cloth.

Cut into rectangles 3 x ¾ inches. Cut a slit through the center of each rectangle and pull one end through it. Fry a few at a time in deep, hot fat (375 degrees) until just barely a light golden brown. Drain on absorbent paper. Dust while warm with confectioners' sugar.

SHUTTING OUT SHOPLIFTERS

The season to be jolly for most people also happens to be the busy season for some—shoplifters. A great name in store security, Pinkerton's, passes these tips along on how to foil the light-fingered few in holiday crowds.

Counter merchandise stacked above eye level blocks clerks' field of vision, gives lifters a field day.

The intoxicated customer is one to be watched. Staggering around counters is one way of picking up a few odds and ends.

High-cost, easy-to-pilfer items displayed out of easy eyesight of clerks is asking for trouble.

Favorite ploy: One shopper engages clerk in conversation while companion "browses."

Lifters don't like the limelight. Good store lighting is good protection.

A MOMENT OF MEDITATION

Faith And Works

There is much misunderstanding in the world in regard to the teaching of the Bible about "Faith and Works". One man will tell us that we are justified in the sight of God by faith and faith only. Another will tell us that we cannot expect to be saved without works.

It behooves the honest soul who wants to know the true will of God to examine carefully, the teachings of the Bible in regard to the subjects of faith and works. In our article today we would like to notice some of the teachings of the Word of God that will help us to come to a knowledge of the truth on this subject.

First, let it be noted that faith and works are necessary to please God. Heb. 11:6 states that without faith we cannot be pleasing in the sight of God. In James 2:24 we read this: "Ye see then how that by works a man is justified and not by faith only." From these two passages we can see that both faith and works are necessary to be pleasing to God. These passages do not contradict each other. They just teach that we cannot expect to be justified by either faith only or works only. These two elements must be combined.

To further show that both faith and works are needed, let us notice these two elements combined in the lives of some who were justified before God. We read in Heb. 11:4 that Abel was justified by faith in God. However, it was not by faith only! Because of the faith that Abel had, he offered (worked) to God an acceptable sacrifice. Thus Abel was justified by faith when he did what God commanded. Another example we read about in Heb. 11:7. Noah was saved by faith. He was not saved by a faith that would not obey God's command. Noah showed his faith by building an ark as God commanded. If his faith had not caused him to do as God commanded, he would have been drowned just like the others were. These examples along with many others, prove very clearly that God does not save us by just faith alone. Neither are we saved by works alone.

In view of the things that we have just studied, we should be able to see how these two elements (faith and works) are combined to bring about our salvation. Jesus commanded this: "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved . . . ".Mk. 16-16. Those who really have faith in God will be baptized without question. Faith will move them to be obedient to the command of God. Those who do not submit to this command, show that they do not really have faith. Faith is demonstrated when we obey God. Jas. 2:18.

You are cordially invited to attend the services of the Church of Christ tomorrow. Come with an open Bible and let us study God's will together.

Outdoor Notes

By HARRY STEWART
Review Staff Member

HUNTING PRESSURE HAS dropped considerably the past week and will continue on a downhill run until the end of the various seasons. A few diehards and those who prefer to hunt open fields without being crowded by other hunters will keep at it, but for the most part, hunting is over.

The press of the holiday season, poor hunting at the beginning and many other reasons lead to this. Some will hunt the first two or three weeks and then give up until next year.

There is no moral behind this other than if you don't get out and hunt now, you are missing a good bet.

And, it is a very good time to teach a youngster how to hunt. You can concentrate on showing him the various signs game leave behind, he can be taught how to handle a gun in actual field conditions and you can enjoy a very close companionship.

Both of you will build up very lasting memories.

GREETINGS TO ALL. There will be no column next week, so "Merry Christmas" to each and every one.

I hope Santa Claus provides all the fishing rods, reels, guns, boots, hunting coats, boats, outboard motors and so forth that you have been dreaming about the past year. If not, don't be glum. It will give you something to dream about for another year.

I KNEW THERE HAD TO BE A REASON. Someone seems to be continually asking outdoorsmen why they like to fish, or hunt, or camp. It is difficult to explain, but Dick Kotis of Akron, a noted fisherman, has come up with one answer.

Here's how he tells it.

"In my everlasting effort to catch fish I have suffered unending torture. I have been drenched, soaked, sprayed, sprinkled, blinded, chilled, stiffened and weakened by water both fresh and salt. I have been bounced, rolled, pounded, toppled, submerged, battered, bruised, and made wobbly by the waves. The sun has blistered, baked, browned, blinded and weakened me. Fish have bitten, bruised, gouged, stung and even hooked me with fish hooks.

"Sometimes I wonder what's coming next. Guides order, push, drag and pull me about, haranguing and harassing me with unworkable advice, and hinting that the poor fishing is all my fault. Even my fishing buddies get in on the act. I have been lied to about lures, and favorite fishing spots. I have seen the other fellow's fish win bets when measured by elastic tapes, and weighed on scales with weak springs. But like a true fisherman anywhere, I remain stalwart and determined in the face of adversity.

"Why? Just to see what the devil is going to happen next!"

PRELIMINARY RETURNS of deer tags from checking stations in West Virginia indicate the kill this year was about 18,500 deer. This is about the sixth highest harvest in the history of the state.

Hardy County led with 2,034, followed by Hampshire, 1,971; Preston, 1,346; Grant, 1,269; Pocahontas, 1,211, and Pendleton, 1,192.

Officials say hunting pressure was down from last year. The number of hunters in the field opening day was less than in 1966 and the trend continued through the season.

The harvest in 1966 was 21,249.

THAT'S A LOT OF SOMETHING. Arnold Dickey of Negley has a picture of a large catfish on the counter of his sporting goods-hardware store that has an interesting story behind it.

The fish, caught in Texas, weighed more than 50 pounds. But, as Arnold explains, it was not edible.

When it was cut open, the catfish had 46 pounds of hooks, sinkers and lures inside. So, the fish had to be sold to a junk dealer.

If you don't believe the story, Arnold says, "there's the picture of the fish."

STIFFER LICENSE RULE. The Pennsylvania House is considering a bill already passed by the Senate that would stiffen the requirements of youths under 16 obtaining hunting licenses.

No license would be issued unless the youngster proves he held a license previously or provided a certificate of competency in the safe handling of firearms and bows and arrows.

Certificates would be issued after successful completion of a course of instruction approved by the Pennsylvania Game Commission. No charge is made for such courses.

DEER TALES. Hunters are returning from trips to Pennsylvania and West Virginia with reports of success and failure in attempts to bag a buck.

Norman Riggs of St. George St. failed to shoot a whitetail of any size in Wetzel County, W. Va., and had to settle for a spike buck Dec. 2.

Junior Owens of Glenmoor helped him drag the spike from the woods to their truck. While they were waiting for other members of the party, a 10-point buck walked up to the truck and was downed by Owens.

Other members of the party were Jolly Streets of Chester RD, Ray Cooper of Newell Heights and Clarence Owens of 6th St., Newell.

The party also found squirrel hunting to be good in Wetzel County. Although there were very few the first part of the season, they said the squirrels apparently have moved back into this section of West Virginia.

FIELD DRESS GAME. Many hunters complain their wives do not know how to cook wild game. Paul Gipp, Columbiana County extension agent, says chances are the hunter didn't know how to prepare the game after shooting it.

All game should be field dressed immediately to prevent bacterial action. This usually means removing the entrails. Leaving them inside the bird or animal results in the surrounding meat having undesirable flavors.

Cleaning out the entrails not only decreases bacterial growth, but also opens the body cavity so the carcass can cool more rapidly.

The skin or feathers as well as the feet, head and tail may be removed later after the hunter returns home. Game should be completely cleaned and cooked immediately. If not cooked, it should be stored in the freezer.

Game can be frozen the same as other meats. However, game high in fat should not be kept more than four months.

Once the carcass has been dressed — removing the hair, lungs and other tissues possibly left inside — all visible fat should be removed. The fat creates a strong or gamey taste.

Blood clots and injured or mutilated tissue also should be cut away. Any imbedded shots should be removed. Wash the carcass under running water, but do not allow it to stand in water, Gipp says. The carcass can be rubbed with baking soda.

Soak a poorly bled carcass in a diluted salt solution to remove the gamey taste and some of the blood. Set this in the refrigerator or a cool place several hours. Change the solution as needed.

The age of the game is a guide for cooking. Age may be difficult to judge, but you can figure 80 per cent of the small game taken in season is normally less than a year old. This game should be tender and can be cooked in the oven, broiler or in a pan.

Small game can become dry and tough when cooking unless covered with an oil or fat-soaked cheesecloth during roasting. Bacon also does a good job.

Squirrels and rabbits require about an hour to braise, although rabbits can be broiled in 30 to 40 minutes. Parboiling speeds the frying time.

WATERFOWL ON THE RIVER. Several persons have reported seeing ducks along the Ohio River.

John Parsons says three large geese turned up Monday at the Parson Coal Co. dock.

Although the machinery was in operation, the geese remained in close to shore and did not appear frightened, John says. They had brown bodies and dark heads.

CHAMPIONSHIP MATCHES. The National Rifle Association and the state of Ohio have gotten together and will hold the annual National Rifle and Pistol Championships during August 1968 at Camp Perry.

The matches had been cancelled some weeks ago when the Army announced it would not participate because of economy reasons attributed to the Vietnam war.

The new program will be on a reduced basis, although tentative plans call for a match that will accommodate an estimated 2,000 participants.

The NRA has set up a special fund to help finance the matches and is accepting contributions at the headquarters in Washington.

The Younger Set

Just a few more days to go and then classes will be out and Christmas vacation will start to swing! Fantastically beautiful church services, wonderful meals, families reunited and a swift round of parties are anticipated by area students. In the high schools, decorations have appeared on doorways and hallways and the spicy-sweet smell of pines fills the buildings.

AT BEAVER LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL — It's "Deck The Halls With Boughs Of Holly" — The National Honor Society decorated the doors with gift-wrap paper and Room 18 was graced with a liberal amount of pine. The society will usher at a Christmas play and choir concert Wednesday, when a bake sale will be held at intermission . . . DO-RE-ME-OUCH! — A small group from the choir sang Tuesday at a Colonial Club luncheon at the home of Mrs. Jackman Vodrey. The only "hitch" in the program was the pianist's startled exclamation when, at the end of a "run," she found someone sitting on the keyboard! The audience and choir broke up, but the song was finally finished with no further interruptions.

"PRESTO, CHANGO" — During a rehashing of try-outs of the seemingly ill-fated play, "Meet Me In St. Louis," at South Side High School, Sandy Doak, our Younger Set correspondent, lost out on the lead part of "Rose." Instead, Patty Suralie has been cast in the part. Oh well, the show must go on . . . CHRISTMAS CONCERT REHEARSED — The band is busily practicing for its concert Friday night. Following the affair, a semi-formal dance will be held for members and guests. The majorettes, with lighted batons, will be featured. (That is, the lights don't go out like they did during the East Liverpool Christmas parade!) How's about investing in some new batteries? . . . WANNA' GET TAKEN FOR A RIDE? — "Sleigh Ride" is the theme of the dance next Saturday — a semi-formal bash for everyone from the "lowly" sophomores to the seniors! Several REAL horses, pulling a sleigh would certainly make it a night to remember!

AND EVERYONE'S A "CAROL" — The Wellsville High School choirs held a great Christmas concert Thursday in the gym. Girls, guys and other "extraordinary" (?) items made the concert more original. No longer will a record be played, faking out the audience, in these hallowed halls! . . . BATTLE OF SEXES WITH XMAS SPIRIT! — The guys are trying (again . . . sigh) to outdo the girls — this time they have a better chance, because the only real requirements are good lungs and a BIG mouth! Every lunch hour, (surely you've noticed!) a crowd of girls gather around the Christmas tree in the lobby to serenade fellow students with carols. The guys, determined to prolong this battle, also gather and sing (?) louder and louder . . . and LOUDER! Talk about being jolly . . . "DEAR SANTA" — Take special notice of the colon used in the greetings, we mean "business." On the bulletin board in the lobby, there is a section provided so students may write to Santa about the innermost desires of their hearts. We wouldn't be surprised to find a few hints for their friends about what they want for Christmas. (Don't forget the mistletoe! Remember the motto, "Happiness is a mistletoe glow," and we all know what THAT is, don't we!) . . . IN A "LIGHT" SPOT? — Are you ready for another great idea? Well, what do you think of the brilliant one of putting the starting five basketball players on-the-spot (light)? Enlightening, right? Turn the lights down low, our men are introduced with a blinding flash of glory.

TWANG-G-G-G! — Another One? Yes, Cupid's at it again! Now the "love bug" has bitten Dave Thorne, well-known and admired English teacher at East Liverpool High School. We hear his "vacation" will be a honeymoon when he marries Miss Bobbie Hermann of Brecksville, near Cleveland. We're kind of hoping the "bug" starts an epidemic — ever since our English prof. fell victim, the quizzes have been few and far between! . . . HALLELUJAH CHORUS — The combined choirs will present a Christmas concert Wednesday in Westgate Junior High auditorium. Mrs. Frances Harris is the directress . . . A TREE TO REMEMBER — At the Student Council Christmas assembly Wednesday plans have been made for each room to place a symbolic ornament on a Christmas tree. We think it's a grand way to usher in the season and bring the meaning of Christmas a little closer to all of us. With 40 homerooms, we're praying that the tree is sturdy and doesn't tumble . . . HAIL CAESAR — Those pitiful Latin Club initiates really had it bad Monday night. After a guided tour (they were blindfolded) through that land of Hades, they have all decided to "turn over a new leaf!" During the tour they crossed the river Styx, stepping on the bones of their beloved Roman ancestors, and kissed the ring of the god of the Underworld, Pluto. Ah c'mon, even Hades couldn't be that bad! . . . "SWEET TOOTH?" — No doubt you were approached by a East Liverpool High School student during a recent candy sale. It's only fair to let you know who were the class winners, right? Well, selling the largest amount in the sophomore class was Debbie Talbot. Dorothy Rayl, a junior, and Jay Beagle, senior, claimed their class honors.

GOT YOUR NUMBER! — In the main hall at Lincoln High School, Midland, the number of absentees, both morning and afternoon figures, is displayed on a hunk of cardboard on the bulletin board. Wonder what good they think that will do? . . . WITH A SPECIAL GLOW — The Christmas tree shines with a special glow with the decorated baskets of food for the needy sitting beneath it . . . HIGH HOPES LOWERED — Some seniors earned lower grades than last year on the PSAT test given recently — a real disappiontment . . . BLACK LIGHT — The French Club is considering using ultraviolet lights to create an interesting effect at its dance Feb. 26. One member speculated that everything white would appear purple — including teeth and fingernails — and the rest would disappear!

MUSIC, MUSIC, MUSIC — Western Beaver High School's Shelly Paul, saxophone player, and Tom Verzella, French horn enthusiast, will play in the District Band at Greenville, Pa. . . . THAT'S THE SPIRIT — The Student Council has erected a Christmas tree with all the trimmings in the high school lobby . . . WEDNESDAY CONCERT — The annual Christmas concert will be given by the choir in the school cafetorium . . . SANS LOVE? — If you don't have "love to keep you warm," buy a jacket from the DECA Club! Only second best, of course, but they surely beat freezing. Ronald Goletti is the club instructor.

KICK YOUR HEELS — Attend Southern Local's Tri-Hi-Y sock-hop Wednesday. It will serve as a celebration dance — classes are over until 1968! The Knick-knacks will be featured . . . BAND PLANS BIG — "The Holiday Ball" will be held by the band Dec. 29 . . . IT'S BEGINNING TO LOOK A LOT LIKE CHRISTMAS — The tree is up and decorations have added a sparkle to the last few days of school. Even some of the girls are "sparkling" in anticipation of the homecoming of college men! . . . CHRISTMAS CONCERT — The bands held an annual concert Thursday, with a brass quartet playing "The Blue Bells of Scotland" as an added interest. Gifts were presented to the directors.

POST-GAME DANCE — The Student Council at East Palestine High School will sponsor a dance after tonight's game with Beaver Local . . . KITCHEN EXAM — The senior Home Economics girls proved what really great cooks they were during a recent Betty Crocker test . . . CANNED — Members of the Tri-Hi-Y brought cans of food for donation to the Needy Food Raising Campaign, under the direction of Evelyn Stometz, a nurse at Salem City Hospital . . . TAUCHER IS NORTHEAST OHIO — Jim Taucher, a senior, is very popular for his talent in sports — he plays basketball and is school record holder in the pole vault at 12 feet, eight inches. He played end on the Bulldog squad and will play on the North-South Ohio All-Stars at Canton, August 1968 . . . MINIATURE BASKETBALLS FOR YOU — Stay in your seats at the intermission at the game tonight; the cheerleaders are going to distribute tiny basketballs throughout the audience. The class with the loudest yell at the assembly this week will win a spirit stick and two megaphones for the games.

Bridge

night trying to untangle vehicles and locate bodies in the wreckage where a long bridge section at the Ohio end fell onto land.

Divers resume their search at dawn.

Traffic was bumper to bumper in both directions when the bridge fell at 5:10 p.m.

The bridge superstructure and concrete floor tumbled on top of the cars and trucks as they hit the water.

West Virginia Gov. Hulett C. Smith and Gov. Rhodes pledged the resources of the two states in an investigation to determine the cause of the collapse. Both came here Friday night.

"That old bridge was bouncing up and down like it always does," sobbed Howard Boggs. His 18-year-old wife and 17-month-old daughter—both among the missing—were in the car with him when it plunged into the channel where the depth was variously estimated from 30 to 70 feet.

"Then all of a sudden everything was falling down," he said. "My feet touched the bottom of the damned river."

He said he didn't know how he got out of the car. "I just hope to God Marjorie and the kid got out okay."

H.L. Whobrey, who was selling Christmas trees at an intersection in Gallipolis, said, "The bridge just keeled over, starting slowly on the Ohio side, then following like a deck of cards to the West Virginia side.

"It was fantastic. There was a big flash and a puff of smoke when the last of the bridge caved in. I guess the power line snapped.

"I saw three to four people swimming around in the water screaming. I couldn't do anything. I just stood there and watched. Then I saw a city ice and fuel boat come and pick them up."

"I looked up and the bridge was gone," said Todd Mayes, a French teacher at the Kyger Creek (Ohio) High School, who normally crosses the bridge at 5 o'clock daily. Returning to his home here, Mayes stopped Friday to buy a can of touchup paint for his car and a traffic light held him up on the bridge ramp on the Ohio side.

The four dead men at Holzer Hospital were identified as George McManus of Southside, W. Va.; Cecil Counts and Melvin Cantrell of Gallipolis Ferry, W.Va., and Leo Blackman of Petersburg, Va.

Cantrell's 35-year-old wife was in the car with her husband and Counts, but she jumped and landed on the muddy bank. She was treated for shock.

The Army Corps of Engineers ordered all boat movement halted in the area, except for rescue craft.

William Needham, Jr., of Ashboro, N.C., an express line truck driver, said he looked out of his truck "and saw steel beams crumbling."

"Now I know what it is like to drown," he said. "I expected to die."

Needham spoke to newsmen from his hospital bed. He suffered a broken back. His driving partner, R.E. Towe, was among those missing.

Drivers Cited In 3 District Car Mishaps

No one was injured in four area traffic mishaps investigated Friday by the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon.

Claren J. Pennell, 49, of Youngstown was cited for drunken driving after his car struck an oncoming auto on Route 7 a mile north of Rogers at 5 p. m.

Officers said Pennel was headed north in a 1962 coach which went left of center and hit a 1964 convertible driven by Richard L. Whittington, 21, of Smiths Ferry - Calcutta Rd. Neither was injured, but there was extensive damage to the autos, officers reported.

Alvin S. Howard, 29, of East Rochester RD 1 was cited after his 1953 car rammed the rear of a 1960 auto operated by Robert Hughes, 16, of Negley on County Rd. 447 just north of Route 30 at 7:45 p. m.

Hughes had halted for a stop sign. Howard was charged with failure to halt in the assured clear distance.

In a similar mishap on Route 30 about two miles north of the city at 7:20 p. m., a car driven by Roberta Mae McLaughlin, 49, of Zanesville hit the rear of another halted for a stop sign.

The patrol said her 1965 coach struck the rear of one driven by Justina Gilley, 31, of Micaville, N. C. The Zanesville woman was cited for failure to halt in the assured clear distance.

No one was injured in a multiple mishap on Route 7 a half-mile south of Brookside at 5:20 p. m.

William Patterson, 52, of Canfield followed another northbound auto in attempting to pass a car driven by Frank Zitnik, 51, of Girard.

Patterson's 1965 convertible struck the left rear wheel of a southbound tractor trailer truck driven by Dale Britton, 51, of Enon Valley, then sideswiped Zitnik's auto.

Damage was moderate, officers said.

Lisbon Gives 2 Travelers Holiday Help

LISBON — A California couple on a cross - country trip in a 1953 sedan ran into all kinds of trouble here Friday night—then someone set the Christmas bells swinging.

Thanks to the service clubs'-sponsored "Our Town" fund, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel C. Goodall headed east again at 9 today, hopeful of making New Jersey by evening.

Sheriff's deputies brought the Goodalls into town after their old sedan stalled on Route 30 about one mile west.

The Goodalls — "in their thirties" said they had no money, having spent their last for a used generator yesterday in Fremont.

The generator broke down here last night, along with the voltage regulator. The battery ran down and the gas tank was nearly empty.

Crosser's diner, which is open all night, fed the travelers and let them stay there until Don Coleman of Shell Service Station next door completed reparis to the car and filled the tank.

Blue Cross Rate Boost Approved

HARRISBURG (AP) — Some 900,000 subscribers of Blue Cross of Western Pennsylvania will have to pay more than 15 per cent more for coverage, starting Feb. 1.

The State Insurance Department approved Friday a 15.6 per cent hike in rates of $75,000 group members. This will amount to $8 million.

The department also sanctioned a 16.6 per cent increase in premium payments for another 32,582 subscribers to the non-group special program. This increase amounts to $293,598.

The reason for the increases, said A. John Smither, chief deputy insurance commissioner, is "the critical financial position" of the firm and continued rises in the cost of hospital care.

Concern Bids $32,917 On Overpass Removal

A New Castle firm has submitted the low bid for a proposed removal of the abandoned street car overpass on Route 68 in Industry, the Pennsylvania Highway Department at Harrisburg reports.

The Conn Welding & Machine Co. bid $32,917 for the removal of the overpass and to surface 0.11 miles of existing gutter, construct shoulders and do the grading.

The structure was formerly owned by the Beaver Valley Traction Co.

Spans

partment and a consultant engineering firm, but a bridge foreman is assigned the span, according to state officials.

Thomas Toomey of New Philadelphia, general maintenance superintendent for Division 11 of the Ohio Highway Department, said the bridge may "look old," but is checked daily by Charles Richie of Wellsville, bridge foreman, and is given periodic inspections.

The structure was originally built in 1896 by a private firm, later taken over by a traction company, and was purchased by the state in 1938 for a toll bridge. Tolls were removed in 1951.

The Newell Bridge, owned by the Newell Bridge Co., a subsidiary of the Homer Laughlin China Co., is a toll span erected in 1904. It is 1,785 feet long, Glenn Hall, head of the bridge concern, said.

The span's flooring was replaced in 1954 with steel grating. Hall said the bridge is inspected annually by an engineering firm specializing in such work, and the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. checks the span where it crosses tracks on both sides of the Ohio River. The bridge was last inspected in May.

Some welding of studs to the flooring was under way this week on the West Virginia side to eliminate a slippery condition, Hall said.

Girl

at the Homer Laughlin China Co.

The babysitter notified Patrolman Ronald E. Brookes, the desk officer at headquarters, of the mishap about 11:38 a.m. He dispatched an ambulance to the home to remove the child to the hospital. Patrolman Orin C. Smith and Asst. Fire Chief Gerald Goodballet investigated.

Mrs. Wilma Duke said she was preparing lunch for the six children when Cindy asked to go to the bathroom, which is in the basement. About three or four minutes later, she said, she heard the child screaming and ran downstairs to find Cindy's dress aflame. She put out the flames, then went to a neighbor's home to telephone the police department.

Smith and Goodballet found the remains of the burned dress where it had been ripped from the child's body. Apparently made of some synthetic fiber, it had flamed so intensely that it burned a spot on the floor where it was dropped and still was so hot an hour after the mishap that it would have burned a person's hand, Smith reported.

The gas stove was unvented and had no safety guard to prevent accidental contact with the flame, the two investigators reported.

Smith said he interviewed the other children in the home and learned that Cindy may have been shoved into the flame while playing with a brother.

Goodballet reported he found the remains of burned papers underneath the bathtub. He said they probably were put there by children who had been playing with fire "at some time or other."

Youth Killed At Rochester

A 19-year-old Monaca youth was killed early Friday afternoon in a high-lift mishap while working for a Rochester coal firm.

Glen Roger Harper was pronounced dead at Rochester General Hospital with a crushed chest.

Council To Act On Bill For Purchase Of Auto

Council is scheduled to act Monday night on legislation authorizing purchase of a new auto for use on official business by city officials and members of Council.

The purchase was suggested earlier this week by Councilman Floyd Murray. Availability of an auto would make it unnecessary for city officials to "borrow" a cruiser from the police department when contemplating a trip, he said.

Council also is scheduled to give second reading to an ordinance calling for a new four-year agreement with the Ohio Valley Gas Co., along with a raise in rates. The members will caucus at 7 with the Chamber of Commerce highway committee, headed by Francis H. Lang.

Santa Is Coming!

Ed Betts, Western Beaver High School student, swipes a tasty ornament cookie from a holiday "cookie tree" in the hall at the high school

It's beginning to look a lot like you-know-what, with shoppers shopping, children hopping with excitement and holiday lights and tinsel breaking out all over.

In just eight more days, St. Nick will be on the scene, sleigh and all, with "Ho, Ho, Ho," and the youngsters who have been good — or not too bad — will be rewarded with just what they wanted.

There is nothing quite like this magic of the twelfth month when there is a little more bounce to almost everyone's step, when the happy expectation of Christmas morn is not confined to the little ones, when the deep significance of the anniversary reaches into the heart on a quiet, star-studded Christmas Eve.

The Verse Box

Interview With Jet Age Santa

'Twas the day before Christmas, and boy! was it snowing;
The North Wind was whistling and howling and blowing.
I was chilled through and through from my head to my feet,
And my nose and my cheeks were as red as a beet!

But I had an appointment—and this was some trick—
To interview Mr. and Mrs. Saint Nick;
So I stopped by the toy shop and knocked at the door,
And entered the room 'mid confusion galore.

I caught Santa's eye, and we quickly shook hands,
And he chuckled and winked (as tradition demands)
But he didn't look happy or merry or jolly:
In fact, he seemed tired and dejected, by golly.

He hung up my coat with a half-hearted laugh.
And said, "Give me a hand—I'll pay time and a half.
I really don't see how we'll ever get through;
At least half of my elves are laid up with the flu.

"Mrs. Santa's got measles,, and I've just been told
That Rudolph's red nose is stuffed up with a cold."
But we all pitched right in, and believe it or not,
We had everything finished by six on the dot.

Santa hurried and dressed and had just tied his shoes,
When in rushed a worker with terrible news!
It seemed that the reindeer would not leave the ground—
(Too many missiles and spacecraft around.)

Poor Santa! He groaned and then dabbed at a tear,
"Gosh, it looks like I'm not going to make it this year."
In a moment he smiled, though, and sprang to his feet,
"By golly, I'm not going to call a retreat."

"My job's too important to throw in the towel;
I've got a friend who will help me somehow."
He reached for the phone without any delay.
And in no time at all chirped, "Hel-lo, LBJ."

He then dashed through the shop, snatching up every gift,
Cried, "I'm off to the airport. Quick—give me a lift!"

On the way he stuffed all of the gifts in his pack
And then boarded a jet plane belonging to SAC.

Well, he made it on time and gave out every toy
That gladdens the heart of each good girl and boy;
And I heard his exclaim as the jet roared away,
"Happy Christmas to all! Have a wonderful day."

GI's Help Vietnam Orphanage

By LIDA SMITH

The Christmas spirit has arrived a little early at an orphanage at My Tho, Vietnam, where a 19 - year - old soldier and other members of his company have "adopted" 180 orphans at a Catholic institution.

The men of "B" Company, Signal Bn., 9th Infantry Division, "chip in" and give the money to the home administrators for food, clothing and toys for the children and a few adults. The men decided to write to their families back home and encourage people in their home towns to help them with their "foster" children.

Pfc. Robert E. Nott, son of Mrs. Jean Farnsworth of 920 St. George St., arrived in the Tan An area, Vietnam, Oct. 21. He explained the reasoning behind the "adoption" this way: The U.S. is spending about 12 million dollars a day toward the war effort, so we, the men of "B" Company, felt that spending a small part of our pay to promote happiness and give the children a sense of security was well worth it."

He indicated that most of the youngsters are victims of the war, losing their parents in bombings, raids on villages and the like. Others, typical of children in orphanages all over the world, have been "dropped" on the doorstep by parents who could no longer afford to take care of them.

Pfc. Robert Nott and some orphan friends.

There are older men and women who have received asylum at the orphanage too, Nott said. In return for their support, they assist the nuns with the children.

A far cry from the wooden and canvas bunkers, surrounded with sandbags, that the "foster fathers" call home, the orphanage is a two-story building of flaking, off-white stucco with summer-sky blue shutters. Children play in a brick courtyard among rows of flowering bushes and trees. In a side courtyard, there is a large stone shrine with a statue of the Virgin Mary.

Nott, a radioman, said, "We are asking our friends and neighbors back home to share with the children a small part of the joy Christmas brings us. These will be 180 kids brought up understanding the American way of life and loving the American people. We feel that helping the Vietnamese people towards a democratic and free way of life is the reason we are in Vietnam."

The orphanage needs sewing supplies and material, canned foods, toys and money for purchasing fresh food.

In order to facilitate mailing and meeting the cost of postage, it has been suggested a local organization, church class or civic group might make a project of aiding the servicemen with the orphanage.

Anyone interested may notify Mrs. Farnsworth or write to Nott in care of Co. B, 9th Signal Bn., 9th Infantry Division, San Francisco, Calif., APO 96370.

Favorites Food

Give a Christmas treat from your own kitchen to carry a message of love and bounty that's ages old. These Swedis "wonders" will delight the most fastidious palate, Mrs. Edith Brenneman of Tampa, Fla., a former resident, said.

- 6 egg yolks
- ¼ cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon melted butter
- 1-3 cup heavy cream, whipped
- 1 tablespoon grated lemon peel
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 2 cups sifted flour
- confectioners' sugar

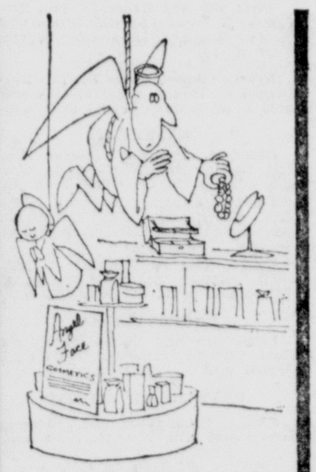
Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon - colored; beat in sugar. Gently stir in melted butter, whipped cream, lemon peel, salt and sifted flour; mix only enough to blend ingredients to soft dough. Chill. Roll dough (half of it at a time) ⅛ inch thick on a lightly floured pastry cloth.

Cut into rectangles 3 x ¾ inches. Cut a slit through the center of each rectangle and pull one end through it. Fry a few at a time in deep, hot fat (375 degrees) until just barely a light golden brown. Drain on absorbent paper. Dust while warm with confectioners' sugar.

SHUTTING OUT SHOPLIFTERS

The season to be jolly for most people also happens to be the busy season for some—shoplifters. A great name in store security, Pinkerton's, passes these tips along on how to foil the light-fingered few in holiday crowds.

Counter merchandise stacked above eye level blocks clerks' field of vision, gives lifters a field day.



Fancy displays creating blind spots offer ideal concealment for lifters at work.

The intoxicated customer is one to be watched. Staggering around counters is one way of picking up a few odds and ends.

High-cost, easy-to-pilfer items displayed out of easy eyesight of clerks is asking for trouble.

Favorite ploy: One shopper engages clerk in conversation while companion "browses."

Lifters don't like the limelight. Good store lighting is good protection.

Cong Offered $1,750 For Marine

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — Dead or alive, the Viet Cong's poster said, we want U.S. Marine Sgt. Marvin Murrell and we'll pay $1,750 for him. Instead, Murrell got 30 days home leave and a going-away party from the villagers who could have sold his life.

When it was too dark for poster reading, the Viet Cong brought out bullhorns and broadcast the reward announcement. They wanted the 21-year-od sergeant badly. He was just too good at his job of turning the Vietnamese in the hamet of Tuy Loan into militiamen.

Although the $1,750 might have seemed like millions to the impoverished villagers, they told Murrell about the Communist offer and kept working by his side.

The sergeant is back in Syracuse, N.Y., on a 30-day bonus leave he received for signing up for another six-month tour in Vietnam after spending more than two years in the country. The villagers he worked with sent him off with a big party.

Murrel led a combined action platoon at the hamlet five miles south of Da Nang as part of a program that integrates local Vietnamese militiamen with Marine and Navy corpsmen in the northern provinces of South Vietnam. There are 79 such platoons.

Because their work is effective, it is not unusual for the Viet Cong to offer rewards for team leaders like Murrell. But the amount offered for the sergeant was exceptionally high "because he did an exceptionally good job," a Marine officer said.

Another reward of nearly $2,000 was put on the head of Staff Sgt. Carrol P. Soape, 26, of Amarillo, Tex., who before returning to the United States three months ago established a strong combined action force at Huoa Phu, three miles north of Da Nang.

When Murrel returns to Vietnam next month, he probably won't get his old job back.

Youths To Face Hearing Jan. 16 In Theft Of Cars

LISBON — Parents of three East Liverpool youngsters who were cited to Juvenile Court Thursday for taking automobiles told Judge Louis Tobin they did not want counsel for their sons.

But when the youths were asked the same question, they said they wanted lawyers. Judge Tobin then set the preliminary hearing for Jan. 16 at 2 p.m. and advised the parents to see that the youths have counsel.

The boys, two 14 and one 15, are accused of stealing a 1963 sedan owned by Supt. Donald A. Lowe of Wellsville schools Sunday from the parking lot at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in East Liverpool and a 1957 sedan Dec. 9 from Wilma L. Williams of 1707 Cleveland Ave., East Liverpool.

Wellsville police apprehended the 14-year-olds Sunday after the boys abandoned Lowe's car and tried to get away on foot. The 15-year-old was taken into custody later.

Juvenile Court authorities also placed a probation violation charge against the 15-year-old. They said he was the youth who fled from a car owned by R. G. Briggs of 820 Green Ln., East Liverpool, after he (the boy) wrecked the vehicle and it careened onto the lawn at Westgate School.

The older boy is in detention in lieu of $500 bond. Parents of the other boys made $500 bonds for them.

$33,120 Charged To Subdivisions In Election Costs

The County Election Board said today $33,120 will be charged against Columbiana County subdivisions as their share of the cost of the Nov. 7 general election.

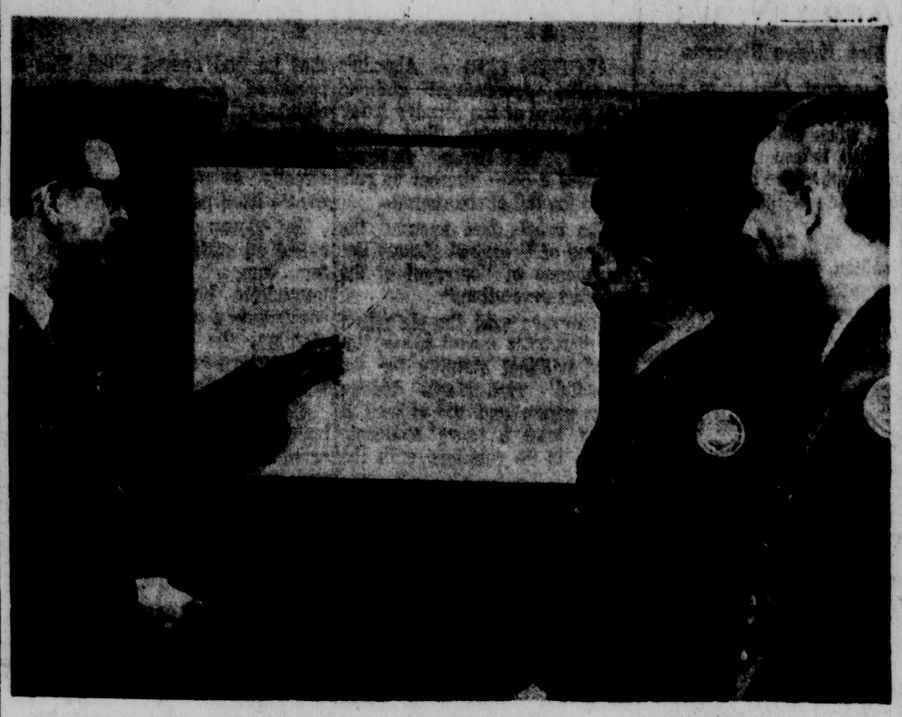
The so-called charge - backs were certified Friday to County Auditor Kenneth Bell to be withheld from the next real estate tax settlements. Each subdivision will receive notice of the amount about Dec. 30.

The amounts to be withheld include $8,622 for cities and villages, $15,348 for school districts and $9,059 for townships. The charges reflect expenses for pay of precinct judges and clerks, transportation and erection of equipment, printing of ballots and rental of polling places.

The charge-backs will include $3,293 for East Liverpool city and $3,774 for the East Liverpool School District. In addition, the city and the school district will pay $490.80 each as their share of the $981.60 expense of voter registration for both the May primaries and the general election.

Georgia is the largest state east of the Mississippi River.

CAP Program Outlined



An outline of the Civil Air Patrol was presented at the Glenmoor School to a number of young people and adults already in an orientation program.

Col. Wood and a busload of cadets and senior members attended the session at which the CAP was discussed and depicted with slide photographs.

Some 16 girls and boys 13 to 18 are currently enrolled in the orientation program, preparatory to a charter for the new group which will serve the Tri-State area, officials said.

Those in the program will be trained in rescue and survival, communications, flight plans, weather, drill and other aspects related to an Air Force operation.

Uniforms will be obtained. Girls may visit an airlines school in Kansas, a spokesman said.

The local group plans to meet every Tuesday. Currently, members are visiting the Air Force facility at the Youngstown Airport weekly.

Anyone interested in enrolling in the new group may notify Poole of Martha St.

New Jersey Test Program Worked

Survey Slated On Negro Attitudes Toward Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — National Guard leaders say a test program in New Jersey for stimulating Negro enlistments is a success. But a decision on extending the program nationwide awaits a survey on Negro attitudes toward military service.

"This is one program that has worked," Maj. Gen. Winston P. Wilson said of the New Jersey pilot program. Wilson is chief of the National Guard Bureau.

Maj. Gen. James F. Cantwell, head of the New Jersey Guard, reported steady progress in recruiting Negroes, and added: "We think we've gotten over the hump of educating the Negro community, gaining their confidence, convincing them this is not just a gimmick."

Two Negro Guard officers, Lt. Co. William S. Frye and Maj. Carl E. Briscoe, reported a gratifying reception from Negro youths in New Jersey during the recruiting campaign. They said they were not harried by any Black Power groups.

The Guard leaders spoke with newsmen after a day-long closed Pentagon discussion of the New Jersey program.

They said it has resulted so far in 381 enlistments — more than doubling the Negro strength in the state's Guard since the program began last August.

The pilot effort began after the President's Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders criticized the Guard for its performance in the Detroit riots and recommended recruiting more Negroes.

At the end of 1966, Guard figures show, there were 5,295 Negroes in the 418,609-man Army National Guard and 627 Negroes in the 82,455-member Air Guard. This amounted to 1.26 per cent Negroes in the Army Guard and.76 per cent in the Air Guard.

Cantwell said the pilot program in New Jersey was undertaken because of the Presidential Commission's criticism of the Guard. But he added, "We think the criticism was unjust.

Under the test program, the New Jersey Guard was permitted a five per cent "overstrength" amounting to 865 slots reserved for Negro enlistments this fiscal year ending next June 30.

This came at a time when New Jersey already had a waiting list of more than 6,000 young men.

In effect, this gave Negroes a priority over the thousands of white young men waiting for openings. One of the big attractions for Guard enlistment is that it permits young men to avoid a two-year draft hitch. Instead, he serves six months of active duty training and 5½ years as a part-time soldier in the Guard.

Cantwell said there's been no evidence of a white backlash from the special treatment of Negroes in the enlistment drive.

Wilson said he is reserving judgment on whether to expand the New Jersey program nationwide until he gets the results of a national survey, due about Feb. 1, being conducted by a civilian research organization under contract to the Guard Bureau.

Dolly Dimples, Ex-Circus Fat Lady, Now Scales 110

DANIA, Fla. (AP) — Dolly Dimples, one-time circus fat lady with a 79-inch bust and a waist seven feet around, now complains she is underweight.

Celesta Geyer, a svelte 110 pounds today at 4-feet-11, weighed 555 pounds in 1950. That was when she worked in sideshows, carnivals and circuses.

She had a heart attack in 1950 and a doctor put her on a menu of baby food and said, "Diet or die. Dolly!"

"Right before I had my heart attack I used to pray to die because I was so helpless," said Mrs. Geyer, now 66 and operator of a small gallery of amateur art in this suburb of Miami.

"I lost 401 pounds in 14 months," she said.

"I couldn't even cross my legs then," she said, motioning at the poster.

"Actually, I'm a little on the skinny side right now. I try to stay between 116 and 122 but I'm down to 110 pounds," she said.

Her diet is 800 calories daily. For example, she has a cup of chicken soup, a soda cracker, gelatin salad and skimmed milk for lunch.

"In school all the kids called me tubby and fatty. I'd come home crying and eat some more. I was about 150 pounds when I was 13 and 295 when I dropped out of high school," she said.

"That's when I met my husband, Frank. Every night I'd make him a fresh pie or cake and he'd eat one piece so I'd finish it. I gained 100 pounds in a year."

Frank, who weighed 135 pounds, died earlier this year.

"It used to take 12 yards of cloth to make my dress. Now I'm a size 12," she said.

"My friends told me I'l kill myself if I went on a crash diet," Mrs. Geyer said. "Well, if I do they don't have to bury me on a truck anyway. I'll fit in a hearse now."

National Steel Gives $100,000 To New Center

BETHANY, W. Va. — A $100,000 gift from the National Steel Corp. is part of a total of $145,000 in contributions recently made toward the projected E. Millsop Leadership Center at Bethany College.

Announcement of the gift was made jointly by Dr. Perry E. Gresham, president of Bethany, and George Stinson, president of National Steel.

Additional gifts from the friends of the late Thomas Millsop include $20,000 from the Leon Falk Family Trust and Maurice and Laura Falk Foundation of Pittsburgh and $25,000 from the Hanna Mining Co. of Cleveland.

Millsop was honorary chairman of National Steel from 1964 until his death in September. He was named president of Weirton Steel in 1936 and became president and chief executive officer of National Steel, Weirton Steel's parent firm, in 1954.

Millsop was chairman of the Bethany College National Board of Fellows, a group of distinguished leaders of thought and public affairs in various fields of American life. Bethany conferred the honorary Doctor of Laws degree upon Millsop in 1943.

Outdoor Notes

Review Staff Member

HUNTING PRESSURE HAS dropped considerably the past week and will continue on a downhill run until the end of the various seasons. A few diehards and those who prefer to hunt open fields without being crowded by other hunters will keep at it, but for the most part, hunting is over.

The press of the holiday season, poor hunting at the beginning and many other reasons lead to this. Some will hunt the first two or three weeks and then give up until next year.

There is no moral behind this other than if you don't get out and hunt now, you are missing a good bet.

And, it is a very good time to teach a youngster how to hunt. You can concentrate on showing him the various signs game leave behind, he can be taught how to handle a gun in actual field conditions and you can enjoy a very close companionship.

Both of you will build up very lasting memories.

GREETINGS TO ALL. There will be no column next week, so "Merry Christmas" to each and every one.

I hope Santa Claus provides all the fishing rods, reels, guns, boots, hunting coats, boats, outboard motors and so forth that you have been dreaming about the past year. If not, don't be glum. It will give you something to dream about for another year.

I KNEW THERE HAD TO BE A REASON. Someone seems to be continually asking outdoorsmen why they like to fish, or hunt, or camp. It is difficult to explain, but Dick Kotis of Akron, a noted fisherman, has come up with one answer.

Here's how he tells it.

"In my everlasting effort to catch fish I have suffered unending torture. I have been drenched, soaked, sprayed, sprinkled, blinded, chilled, stiffened and weakened by water both fresh and salt. I have been bounced, rolled, pounded, toppled, submerged, battered, bruised, and made wobbly by the waves. The sun has blistered, baked, browned, blinded and weakened me. Fish have bitten, bruised, gouged, stung and even hooked me with fish hooks.

"Sometimes I wonder what's coming next. Guides order, push, drag and pull me about, haranguing and harassing me with unworkable advice, and hinting that the poor fishing is all my fault. Even my fishing buddies get in on the act. I have been lied to about lures, and favorite fishing spots. I have seen the other fellow's fish win bets when measured by elastic tapes, and weighed on scales with weak springs. But like a true fisherman anywhere, I remain stalwart and determined in the face of adversity.

"Why? Just to see what the devil is going to happen next!"

PRELIMINARY RETURNS of deer tags from checking stations in West Virginia indicate the kill this year was about 18,500 deer. This is about the sixth highest harvest in the history of the state.

Hardy County led with 2,034, followed by Hampshire, 1,971; Preston, 1,346; Grant, 1,269; Pocahontas, 1,211, and Pendleton, 1,192.

Officials say hunting pressure was down from last year. The number of hunters in the field opening day was less than in 1966 and the trend continued through the season.

The harvest in 1966 was 21,249.

THAT'S A LOT OF SOMETHING. Arnold Dickey of Negley has a picture of a large catfish on the counter of his sporting goods-hardware store that has an interesting story behind it.

The fish, caught in Texas, weighed more than 50 pounds. But, as Arnold explains, it was not edible.

When it was cut open, the catfish had 46 pounds of hooks, sinkers and lures inside. So, the fish had to be sold to a junk dealer.

If you don't believe the story, Arnold says, "there's the picture of the fish."

STIFFER LICENSE RULE. The Pennsylvania House is considering a bill already passed by the Senate that would stiffen the requirements of youths under 16 obtaining hunting licenses.

No license would be issued unless the youngster proves he held a license previously or provided a certificate of competency in the safe handling of firearms and bows and arrows.

Certificates would be issued after successful completion of a course of instruction approved by the Pennsylvania Game Commission. No charge is made for such courses.

DEER TALES. Hunters are returning from trips to Pennsylvania and West Virginia with reports of success and failure in attempts to bag a buck.

Norman Riggs of St. George St. failed to shoot a whitetail of any size in Wetzel County, W. Va., and had to settle for a spike buck Dec. 2.

Junior Owens of Glenmoor helped him drag the spike from the woods to their truck. While they were waiting for other members of the party, a 10-point buck walked up to the truck and was downed by Owens.

Other members of the party were Jolly Streets of Chester RD, Ray Cooper of Newell Heights and Clarence Owens of 6th St., Newell.

The party also found squirrel hunting to be good in Wetzel County. Although there were very few the first part of the season, they said the squirrels apparently have moved back into this section of West Virginia.

FIELD DRESS GAME. Many hunters complain their wives do not know how to cook wild game. Paul Gipp, Columbiana County extension agent, says chances are the hunter didn't know how to prepare the game after shooting it.

All game should be field dressed immediately to prevent bacterial action. This usually means removing the entrails. Leaving them inside the bird or animal results in the surrounding meat having undesirable flavors.

Cleaning out the entrails not only decreases bacterial growth, but also opens the body cavity so the carcass can cool more rapidly.

The skin or feathers as well as the feet, head and tail may be removed later after the hunter returns home. Game should be completely cleaned and cooked immediately. If not cooked, it should be stored in the freezer.

Game can be frozen the same as other meats. However, game high in fat should not be kept more than four months.

Once the carcass has been dressed — removing the hair, lungs and other tissues possibly left inside — all visible fat should be removed. The fat creates a strong or gamey taste.

Blood clots and injured or mutilated tissue also should be cut away. Any imbedded shots should be removed. Wash the carcass under running water, but do not allow it to stand in water, Gipp says. The carcass can be rubbed with baking soda.

Soak a poorly bled carcass in a diluted salt solution to remove the gamey taste and some of the blood. Set this in the refrigerator or a cool place several hours. Change the solution as needed.

The age of the game is a guide for cooking. Age may be difficult to judge, but you can figure 80 per cent of the small game taken in season is normally less than a year old. This game should be tender and can be cooked in the oven, broiler or in a pan.

Small game can become dry and tough when cooking unless covered with an oil or fat-soaked cheesecloth during roasting. Bacon also does a good job.

Squirrels and rabbits require about an hour to braise, although rabbits can be broiled in 30 to 40 minutes. Parboiling speeds the frying time.

WATERFOWL ON THE RIVER. Several persons have reported seeing ducks along the Ohio River.

John Parsons says three large geese turned up Monday at the Parson Coal Co. dock.

Although the machinery was in operation, the geese remained in close to shore and did not appear frightened, John says. They had brown bodies and dark heads.

CHAMPIONSHIP MATCHES. The National Rifle Association and the state of Ohio have gotten together and will hold the annual National Rifle and Pistol Championships during August 1968 at Camp Perry.

The matches had been cancelled some weeks ago when the Army announced it would not participate because of economy reasons attributed to the Vietnam war.

The new program will be on a reduced basis, although tentative plans call for a match that will accommodate an estimated 2,000 participants.

The Younger Set

Just a few more days to go and then classes will be out and Christmas vacation will start to swing! Fantastically beautiful church services, wonderful meals, families reunited and a swift round of parties are anticipated by area students. In the high schools, decorations have appeared on doorways and hallways and the spicy-sweet smell of pines fills the buildings.

AT BEAVER LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL — It's "Deck The Halls With Boughs Of Holly" — The National Honor Society decorated the doors with gift-wrap paper and Room 18 was graced with a liberal amount of pine. The society will usher at a Christmas play and choir concert Wednesday, when a bake sale will be held at intermission . . . DO-RE-ME-OUCH! — A small group from the choir sang Tuesday at a Colonial Club luncheon at the home of Mrs. Jackman Vodrey. The only "hitch" in the program was the pianist's startled exclamation when, at the end of a "run," she found someone sitting on the keyboard! The audience and choir broke up, but the song was finally finished with no further interruptions.

"PRESTO, CHANGO" — During a rehashing of try-outs of the seemingly ill-fated play, "Meet Me In St. Louis," at South Side High School, Sandy Doak, our Younger Set correspondent, lost out on the lead part of "Rose." Instead, Patty Suralie has been cast in the part. Oh well, the show must go on . . . CHRISTMAS CONCERT REHEARSED — The band is busily practicing for its concert Friday night. Following the affair, a semi-formal dance will be held for members and guests. The majorettes, with lighted batons, will be featured. (That is, the lights don't go out like they did during the East Liverpool Christmas parade!) How's about investing in some new batteries? . . . WANNA' GET TAKEN FOR A RIDE? — "Sleigh Ride" is the theme of the dance next Saturday — a semi-formal bash for everyone from the "lowly" sophomores to the seniors! Several REAL horses, pulling a sleigh would certainly make it a night to remember!

AND EVERYONE'S A "CAROL" — The Wellsville High School choirs held a great Christmas concert Thursday in the gym. Girls, guys and other "extraordinary" (?) items made the concert more original. No longer will a record be played, faking out the audience, in these hallowed halls! . . . BATTLE OF SEXES WITH XMAS SPIRIT! — The guys are trying (again . . . sigh) to outdo the girls — this time they have a better chance, because the only real requirements are good lungs and a BIG mouth! Every lunch hour, (surely you've noticed!) a crowd of girls gather around the Christmas tree in the lobby to serenade fellow students with carols. The guys, determined to prolong this battle, also gather and sing (?) louder and louder . . . and LOUDER! Talk about being jolly . . . "DEAR SANTA" — Take special notice of the colon used in the greetings, we mean "business." On the bulletin board in the lobby, there is a section provided so students may write to Santa about the innermost desires of their hearts. We wouldn't be surprised to find a few hints for their friends about what they want for Christmas. (Don't forget the mistletoe! Remember the motto, "Happiness is a mistletoe glow," and we all know what THAT is, don't we!) . . . IN A "LIGHT" SPOT? — Are you ready for another great idea? Well, what do you think of the brilliant one of putting the starting five basketball players on-the-spot (light)? Enlightening, right? Turn the lights down low, our men are introduced with a blinding flash of glory.

TWANG-G-G-G! — Another One? Yes, Cupid's at it again! Now the "love bug" has bitten Dave Thorne, well-known and admired English teacher at East Liverpool High School. We hear his "vacation" will be a honeymoon when he marries Miss Bobbie Hermann of Brecksville, near Cleveland. We're kind of hoping the "bug" starts an epidemic — ever since our English prof. fell victim, the quizzes have been few and far between! . . . HALLELUJAH CHORUS — The combined choirs will present a Christmas concert Wednesday in Westgate Junior High auditorium. Mrs. Frances Harris is the directress . . . A TREE TO REMEMBER — At the Student Council Christmas assembly Wednesday plans have been made for each room to place a symbolic ornament on a Christmas tree. We think it's a grand way to usher in the season and bring the meaning of Christmas a little closer to all of us. With 40 homerooms, we're praying that the tree is sturdy and doesn't tumble . . . HAIL CAESAR — Those pitiful Latin Club initiates really had it bad Monday night. After a guided tour (they were blindfolded) through that land of Hades, they have all decided to "turn over a new leaf!" During the tour they crossed the river Styx, stepping on the bones of their beloved Roman ancestors, and kissed the ring of the god of the Underworld, Pluto. Ah c'mon, even Hades couldn't be that bad! . . . "SWEET TOOTH?" — No doubt you were approached by a East Liverpool High School student during a recent candy sale. It's only fair to let you know who were the class winners, right? Well, selling the largest amount in the sophomore class was Debbie Talbot. Dorothy Rayl, a junior, and Jay Beagle, senior, claimed their class honors.

GOT YOUR NUMBER! — In the main hall at Lincoln High School, Midland, the number of absentees, both morning and afternoon figures, is displayed on a hunk of cardboard on the bulletin board. Wonder what good they think that will do? . . . WITH A SPECIAL GLOW — The Christmas tree shines with a special glow with the decorated baskets of food for the needy sitting beneath it . . . HIGH HOPES LOWERED — Some seniors earned lower grades than last year on the PSAT test given recently — a real disappiontment . . . BLACK LIGHT — The French Club is considering using ultraviolet lights to create an interesting effect at its dance Feb. 26. One member speculated that everything white would appear purple — including teeth and fingernails — and the rest would disappear!

MUSIC, MUSIC, MUSIC — Western Beaver High School's Shelly Paul, saxophone player, and Tom Verzella, French horn enthusiast, will play in the District Band at Greenville, Pa. . . . THAT'S THE SPIRIT — The Student Council has erected a Christmas tree with all the trimmings in the high school lobby . . . WEDNESDAY CONCERT — The annual Christmas concert will be given by the choir in the school cafetorium . . . SANS LOVE? — If you don't have "love to keep you warm," buy a jacket from the DECA Club! Only second best, of course, but they surely beat freezing. Ronald Goletti is the club instructor.

KICK YOUR HEELS — Attend Southern Local's Tri-Hi-Y sock-hop Wednesday. It will serve as a celebration dance — classes are over until 1968! The Knick-knacks will be featured . . . BAND PLANS BIG — "The Holiday Ball" will be held by the band Dec. 29 . . . IT'S BEGINNING TO LOOK A LOT LIKE CHRISTMAS — The tree is up and decorations have added a sparkle to the last few days of school. Even some of the girls are "sparkling" in anticipation of the homecoming of college men! . . . CHRISTMAS CONCERT — The bands held an annual concert Thursday, with a brass quartet playing "The Blue Bells of Scotland" as an added interest. Gifts were presented to the directors.

POST-GAME DANCE — The Student Council at East Palestine High School will sponsor a dance after tonight's game with Beaver Local . . . KITCHEN EXAM — The senior Home Economics girls proved what really great cooks they were during a recent Betty Crocker test . . . CANNED — Members of the Tri-Hi-Y brought cans of food for donation to the Needy Food Raising Campaign, under the direction of Evelyn Stometz, a nurse at Salem City Hospital . . . TAUCHER IS NORTHEAST OHIO — Jim Taucher, a senior, is very popular for his talent in sports — he plays basketball and is school record holder in the pole vault at 12 feet, eight inches. He played end on the Bulldog squad and will play on the North-South Ohio All-Stars at Canton, August 1968 . . . MINIATURE BASKETBALLS FOR YOU — Stay in your seats at the intermission at the game tonight; the cheerleaders are going to distribute tiny basketballs throughout the audience. The class with the loudest yell at the assembly this week will win a spirit stick and two megaphones for the games.

UAW, General Motors Set Up New Contract

DETROIT (AP) — After spending the last half of 1967 at the bargaining table, the United Auto Workers and the Big Three automakers today looked forward to what they hope will be three years of labor peace in the automobile industry.

The union and General Motors Corp. completed on Friday writing their contract, the last but the biggest of the UAW's new three-year national contracts with the major car makers.

More than 100 of the 134 local plant agreements at GM were still unsettled, but many are expected to be worked out now that the national contract has been put together.

The UAW's international executive board will meet Sunday to decide on a January strike deadline for local contracts which supplement the national pact.

Bargainers for both sides emerged Friday after a 30-hour negotiating session, unusual because there was no immediate strike threat, and announced they had come to terms on a contract paralleling the record agreements won by the union at Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp.

The Big Three contracts will give some 643,000 workers close to $1 an hour more in wages and fringe benefits over the next three years on top of the old Big Three hourly level of $4.70.

The agreements will increase labor costs about 6 per cent a year.

The GM contract covers 380,000 workers. Its wage provision, retroactive to Oct. 16, provides a 20 cents an hour across-the-board increase with an additional 30 cents hourly for skilled workers.

Wages will increase by 3 per cent in each of the last two years. In addition, wages will be increased 6 to 16 cents over the three years depending on changes in the cost of living.

American Motors Corp. is the only one of the nation's four major domestic automakers without a new contract with the UAW. The old pact expired Oct. 16 but has been extended on a day-to-day basis by both sides.

Negotiations between the UAW and AMC resume Jan. 3. The union's latest contract wage counterproposal has been rejected by the company.

Walter P. Reuther, UAW president, indicated the union would go easy on the debt-ridden firm in writing a new contract, but warned that, "the basic financial difficulties of AMC cannot be solved at the bargaining table."

AMC lost $75 million in the fiscal year ended Sept. 30.

Reuther said the GM pact was "noninflationary in character since it represents the equity of GM workers as measured against the profitability and rapidly rising productivity of the General Motors Corp.

"As such it will necessitate no increases in the prices of GM products."

Louis G. Seaton, GM's vice president for personnel and its top bargainer, declined to comment when asked whether the added labor costs would cause a price increase on cars.

'Can't Help You' Greek Boy Told By U.S. Doctors

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A young Greek boy who flew from Cyprus to Pittsburgh for remedial heart surgery has received a bitter dissapointment.

Medicine can do nothing for him.

Soterios Maimaris, 12, of Nicosia took the bad news quietly and calmly.

"But you could see in his eyes how distressed he was," Dr. Constantine Nellas said Friday.

Nellas worked with the American Hellenic Educational and Progressive Association to bring Soterios to Children's Hospital in Pittsburgh.

It was thought that the youngster, suffering from periodic blackouts and loss of breath, had a hole between two of his heart chambers that could be fixed by open heart surgery.

Instead, tests showed Soterios' heart had only two chambers instead of the normal four.

"There simply is no surgical approach," said Dr. Robert Zuberbuhler, chief cardiologist at Children's Hospital.

Soterios, dubbed "Soto" by the hospital's doctors and nurses, can never function as a normal child.

"This was his only hope," said Nellas. "Everyone in the hospital is disappointed by inability to help him."

Doctors ruled out a heart transplant, as successfully performed in South Africa. They said it was too risky of a chance to take on a life not in immediate danger.

Soterios, who arrived in Pittsburgh Tuesday, will return to the small Mediterranean Sea island next week.

Algeria's Government Reports Coup Crushed

ALGIERS (AP) — Algeria's socialist government claimed full control of the country today after announcing that loyal troops, in fierce fighting, crushed a coup attempt by rebels to the left of the regime.

The rebels had accused the regime of President Houari Boumedienne of "betrayal of the socialist revolution."

Observers said the defeat of the dissidents meant a step toward political stability for the potentially rich North African Arab nation and the chance it might take a more moderate stance in its relations with the West.

The government announced Friday night that rebel elements led by ousted army chief of staff, Col. Tahar Zbiri, "were blocked, surrounded and eliminated" near the towns of Blida and El Affroun, both within 35 miles of Algiers.

Fighting was described as bitter with the loyalist air force striking at rebel tank units. The dissident's attack, the government said, was "an inhumane operation which caused numerous casualties among the civilian population of the region."

The rebellion capped weeks in which Boumedienne's regime seemed headed for some kind of violent confrontation with a group led by Zbiri, a symbol for the hard-line revolutionaries who directed Algeria's seven-year guerrilla war leading to independence from France in 1962.

With the backing of at least two of Boumedienne's ministers, Zbiri's faction challenged the president's authority two months ago. Reluctant to attack Boumedienne, the rebels aimed instead at Finance Minister Ahmed Kaid, new boss of the nation's only political party, the National Liberation Front, and said his financial policies were a "betrayal of the socialist revolution."

News of the coup attempt was preceded Friday by an announcement by Boumedienne that he had ousted Zbiri. The president said, "Irresponsible elements have committed a clear act of disobedience...In consequence I have decided to directly assume command of the national popular army."

The 40-year-old chief of state called on soldiers and veterans for support and received immediate backing from the commanders of Oran and Constantine, the extreme eastern and western sectors in the country's five-region military set-up.

Algiers, the modern, French-built capital on the Mediterranean, remained calm but military patrols blocked the road to Blida and all train traffic was halted.

Boumedienne accused the plotters of being confused men "thirsty for blood and adventure." He vowed punishment that "would be made to fit the size of the crime they tried to commit."

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A former Beaver County bank official who admitted embezzling $46,890 has been sentenced to three years in jail.

Delbert R. Hutchinson, former trust officer of the Union National Bank of New Brighton, admitted taking the money between September 1966 and last February.

Sentence was imposed Friday by Judge Louis Rosenberg of U.S. District Court. Earlier, the judge gave Hutchinson the maximum sentence to qualify him for a three-month psychiatric study, and Friday's sentence cut it to three years.

"It was fantastic. There was a big flash and a puff of smoke when the last of the bridge caved in. I guess the power line snapped.

"I saw three to four people swimming around in the water screaming. I couldn't do anything. I just stood there and watched. Then I saw a city ice and fuel boat come and pick them up."

"There was a tractor-trailer rig hanging on the river bank, partly in the water. The driver was hanging from the open door of the cab, dead.

Bridge

night trying to untangle vehicles and locate bodies in the wreckage where a long bridge section at the Ohio end fell onto land.

Divers resume their search at dawn.

Traffic was bumper to bumper in both directions when the bridge fell at 5:10 p.m.

The bridge superstructure and concrete floor tumbled on top of the cars and trucks as they hit the water.

West Virginia Gov. Hulett C. Smith and Gov. Rhodes pledged the resources of the two states in an investigation to determine the cause of the collapse. Both came here Friday night.

"That old bridge was bouncing up and down like it always does," sobbed Howard Boggs. His 18-year-old wife and 17-month-old daughter—both among the missing—were in the car with him when it plunged into the channel where the depth was variously estimated from 30 to 70 feet.

"Then all of a sudden everything was falling down," he said. "My feet touched the bottom of the damned river."

He said he didn't know how he got out of the car. "I just hope to God Marjorie and the kid got out okay."

H.L. Whobrey, who was selling Christmas trees at an intersection in Gallipolis, said, "The bridge just keeled over, starting slowly on the Ohio side, then following like a deck of cards to the West Virginia side.

"It was fantastic. There was a big flash and a puff of smoke when the last of the bridge caved in. I guess the power line snapped.

"I saw three to four people swimming around in the water screaming. I couldn't do anything. I just stood there and watched. Then I saw a city ice and fuel boat come and pick them up."

"I looked up and the bridge was gone," said Todd Mayes, a French teacher at the Kyger Creek (Ohio) High School, who normally crosses the bridge at 5 o'clock daily. Returning to his home here, Mayes stopped Friday to buy a can of touchup paint for his car and a traffic light held him up on the bridge ramp on the Ohio side.

The four dead men at Holzer Hospital were identified as George McManus of Southside, W. Va.; Cecil Counts and Melvin Cantrell of Gallipolis Ferry, W.Va., and Leo Blackman of Petersburg, Va.

Cantrell's 35-year-old wife was in the car with her husband and Counts, but she jumped and landed on the muddy bank. She was treated for shock.

The Army Corps of Engineers ordered all boat movement halted in the area, except for rescue craft.

William Needham, Jr., of Ashboro, N.C., an express line truck driver, said he looked out of his truck "and saw steel beams crumbling."

"Now I know what it is like to drown," he said. "I expected to die."

Needham spoke to newsmen from his hospital bed. He suffered a broken back. His driving partner, R.E. Towe, was among those missing.

Drivers Cited In 3 District Car Mishaps

No one was injured in four area traffic mishaps investigated Friday by the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon.

Claren J. Pennell, 49, of Youngstown was cited for drunken driving after his car struck an oncoming auto on Route 7 a mile north of Rogers at 5 p. m.

Officers said Pennel was headed north in a 1962 coach which went left of center and hit a 1964 convertible driven by Richard L. Whittington, 21, of Smiths Ferry - Calcutta Rd. Neither was injured, but there was extensive damage to the autos, officers reported.

Alvin S. Howard, 29, of East Rochester RD 1 was cited after his 1953 car rammed the rear of a 1960 auto operated by Robert Hughes, 16, of Negley on County Rd. 447 just north of Route 30 at 7:45 p. m.

Hughes had halted for a stop sign. Howard was charged with failure to halt in the assured clear distance.

In a similar mishap on Route 30 about two miles north of the city at 7:20 p. m., a car driven by Roberta Mae McLaughlin, 49, of Zanesville hit the rear of another halted for a stop sign.

The patrol said her 1965 coach struck the rear of one driven by Justina Gilley, 31, of Micaville, N. C. The Zanesville woman was cited for failure to halt in the assured clear distance.

No one was injured in a multiple mishap on Route 7 a half-mile south of Brookside at 5:20 p. m.

William Patterson, 52, of Canfield followed another northbound auto in attempting to pass a car driven by Frank Zitnik, 51, of Girard.

Patterson's 1965 convertible struck the left rear wheel of a southbound tractor trailer truck driven by Dale Britton, 51, of Enon Valley, then sideswiped Zitnik's auto.

Damage was moderate, officers said.

Lisbon Gives 2 Travelers Holiday Help

LISBON — A California couple on a cross - country trip in a 1953 sedan ran into all kinds of trouble here Friday night—then someone set the Christmas bells swinging.

Thanks to the service clubs'-sponsored "Our Town" fund, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel C. Goodall headed east again at 9 today, hopeful of making New Jersey by evening.

Sheriff's deputies brought the Goodalls into town after their old sedan stalled on Route 30 about one mile west.

The Goodalls — "in their thirties" said they had no money, having spent their last for a used generator yesterday in Fremont.

The generator broke down here last night, along with the voltage regulator. The battery ran down and the gas tank was nearly empty.

Crosser's diner, which is open all night, fed the travelers and let them stay there until Don Coleman of Shell Service Station next door completed reparis to the car and filled the tank.

Blue Cross Rate Boost Approved

HARRISBURG (AP) — Some 900,000 subscribers of Blue Cross of Western Pennsylvania will have to pay more than 15 per cent more for coverage, starting Feb. 1.

The State Insurance Department approved Friday a 15.6 per cent hike in rates of $75,000 group members. This will amount to $8 million.

The department also sanctioned a 16.6 per cent increase in premium payments for another 32,582 subscribers to the non-group special program. This increase amounts to $293,598.

The reason for the increases, said A. John Smither, chief deputy insurance commissioner, is "the critical financial position" of the firm and continued rises in the cost of hospital care.

Concern Bids $32,917 On Overpass Removal

A New Castle firm has submitted the low bid for a proposed removal of the abandoned street car overpass on Route 68 in Industry, the Pennsylvania Highway Department at Harrisburg reports.

The Conn Welding & Machine Co. bid $32,917 for the removal of the overpass and to surface 0.11 miles of existing gutter, construct shoulders and do the grading.

The structure was formerly owned by the Beaver Valley Traction Co.

partment and a consultant engineering firm, but a bridge foreman is assigned the span, according to state officials.

Thomas Toomey of New Philadelphia, general maintenance superintendent for Division 11 of the Ohio Highway Department, said the bridge may "look old," but is checked daily by Charles Richie of Wellsville, bridge foreman, and is given periodic inspections.

The structure was originally built in 1896 by a private firm, later taken over by a traction company, and was purchased by the state in 1938 for a toll bridge. Tolls were removed in 1951.

The Newell Bridge, owned by the Newell Bridge Co., a subsidiary of the Homer Laughlin China Co., is a toll span erected in 1904. It is 1,785 feet long, Glenn Hall, head of the bridge concern, said.

The span's flooring was replaced in 1954 with steel grating. Hall said the bridge is inspected annually by an engineering firm specializing in such work, and the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. checks the span where it crosses tracks on both sides of the Ohio River. The bridge was last inspected in May.

Some welding of studs to the flooring was under way this week on the West Virginia side to eliminate a slippery condition, Hall said.

Girl

at the Homer Laughlin China Co.

The babysitter notified Patrolman Ronald E. Brookes, the desk officer at headquarters, of the mishap about 11:38 a.m. He dispatched an ambulance to the home to remove the child to the hospital. Patrolman Orin C. Smith and Asst. Fire Chief Gerald Goodballet investigated.

Mrs. Wilma Duke said she was preparing lunch for the six children when Cindy asked to go to the bathroom, which is in the basement. About three or four minutes later, she said, she heard the child screaming and ran downstairs to find Cindy's dress aflame. She put out the flames, then went to a neighbor's home to telephone the police department.

Smith and Goodballet found the remains of the burned dress where it had been ripped from the child's body. Apparently made of some synthetic fiber, it had flamed so intensely that it burned a spot on the floor where it was dropped and still was so hot an hour after the mishap that it would have burned a person's hand, Smith reported.

The gas stove was unvented and had no safety guard to prevent accidental contact with the flame, the two investigators reported.

Smith said he interviewed the other children in the home and learned that Cindy may have been shoved into the flame while playing with a brother.

Goodballet reported he found the remains of burned papers underneath the bathtub. He said they probably were put there by children who had been playing with fire "at some time or other."

Youth Killed At Rochester

A 19-year-old Monaca youth was killed early Friday afternoon in a high-lift mishap while working for a Rochester coal firm.

Glen Roger Harper was pronounced dead at Rochester General Hospital with a crushed chest.

Council To Act On Bill For Purchase Of Auto

Council is scheduled to act Monday night on legislation authorizing purchase of a new auto for use on official business by city officials and members of Council.

The purchase was suggested earlier this week by Councilman Floyd Murray. Availability of an auto would make it unnecessary for city officials to "borrow" a cruiser from the police department when contemplating a trip, he said.

Council also is scheduled to give second reading to an ordinance calling for a new four-year agreement with the Ohio Valley Gas Co., along with a raise in rates. The members will caucus at 7 with the Chamber of Commerce highway committee, headed by Francis H. Lang.

Cong Offered $1,750 For Marine

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — Dead or alive, the Viet Cong's poster said, we want U.S. Marine Sgt. Marvin Murrell and we'll pay $1,750 for him. Instead, Murrell got 30 days home leave and a going-away party from the villagers who could have sold his life.

When it was too dark for poster reading, the Viet Cong brought out bullhorns and broadcast the reward announcement. They wanted the 21-year-od sergeant badly. He was just too good at his job of turning the Vietnamese in the hamet of Tuy Loan into militiamen.

Although the $1,750 might have seemed like millions to the impoverished villagers, they told Murrell about the Communist offer and kept working by his side.

The sergeant is back in Syracuse, N.Y., on a 30-day bonus leave he received for signing up for another six-month tour in Vietnam after spending more than two years in the country. The villagers he worked with sent him off with a big party.

Murrel led a combined action platoon at the hamlet five miles south of Da Nang as part of a program that integrates local Vietnamese militiamen with Marine and Navy corpsmen in the northern provinces of South Vietnam. There are 79 such platoons.

Because their work is effective, it is not unusual for the Viet Cong to offer rewards for team leaders like Murrell. But the amount offered for the sergeant was exceptionally high "because he did an exceptionally good job," a Marine officer said.

Another reward of nearly $2,000 was put on the head of Staff Sgt. Carrol P. Soape, 26, of Amarillo, Tex., who before returning to the United States three months ago established a strong combined action force at Huoa Phu, three miles north of Da Nang.

When Murrel returns to Vietnam next month, he probably won't get his old job back.

Youths To Face Hearing Jan. 16 In Theft Of Cars

LISBON — Parents of three East Liverpool youngsters who were cited to Juvenile Court Thursday for taking automobiles told Judge Louis Tobin they did not want counsel for their sons.

But when the youths were asked the same question, they said they wanted lawyers. Judge Tobin then set the preliminary hearing for Jan. 16 at 2 p.m. and advised the parents to see that the youths have counsel.

The boys, two 14 and one 15, are accused of stealing a 1963 sedan owned by Supt. Donald A. Lowe of Wellsville schools Sunday from the parking lot at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in East Liverpool and a 1957 sedan Dec. 9 from Wilma L. Williams of 1707 Cleveland Ave., East Liverpool.

Wellsville police apprehended the 14-year-olds Sunday after the boys abandoned Lowe's car and tried to get away on foot. The 15-year-old was taken into custody later.

Juvenile Court authorities also placed a probation violation charge against the 15-year-old. They said he was the youth who fled from a car owned by R. G. Briggs of 820 Green Ln., East Liverpool, after he (the boy) wrecked the vehicle and it careened onto the lawn at Westgate School.

The older boy is in detention in lieu of $500 bond. Parents of the other boys made $500 bonds for them.

$33,120 Charged To Subdivisions In Election Costs

The County Election Board said today $33,120 will be charged against Columbiana County subdivisions as their share of the cost of the Nov. 7 general election.

The so-called charge - backs were certified Friday to County Auditor Kenneth Bell to be withheld from the next real estate tax settlements. Each subdivision will receive notice of the amount about Dec. 30.

The amounts to be withheld include $8,622 for cities and villages, $15,348 for school districts and $9,059 for townships. The charges reflect expenses for pay of precinct judges and clerks, transportation and erection of equipment, printing of ballots and rental of polling places.

The charge-backs will include $3,293 for East Liverpool city and $3,774 for the East Liverpool School District. In addition, the city and the school district will pay $490.80 each as their share of the $981.60 expense of voter registration for both the May primaries and the general election.

CAP Program Outlined

An outline of the Civil Air Patrol was presented at the Glenmoor School to a number of young people and adults already in an orientation program.

Shown left to right at the meeting are Col. H. C. Wood, CAP group commander from Warren; Donald Poole of Glenmoor, local commander, and Si DeBolt of East Liverpool RD, executive officer.

Col. Wood and a busload of cadets and senior members attended the session at which the CAP was discussed and depicted with slide photographs.

Some 16 girls and boys 13 to 18 are currently enrolled in the orientation program, preparatory to a charter for the new group which will serve the Tri-State area, officials said.

Those in the program will be trained in rescue and survival, communications, flight plans, weather, drill and other aspects related to an Air Force operation.

Uniforms will be obtained. Girls may visit an airlines school in Kansas, a spokesman said.

The local group plans to meet every Tuesday. Currently, members are visiting the Air Force facility at the Youngstown Airport weekly.

Anyone interested in enrolling in the new group may notify Poole of Martha St.

New Jersey Test Program Worked

Survey Slated On Negro Attitudes Toward Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — National Guard leaders say a test program in New Jersey for stimulating Negro enlistments is a success. But a decision on extending the program nationwide awaits a survey on Negro attitudes toward military service.

"This is one program that has worked," Maj. Gen. Winston P. Wilson said of the New Jersey pilot program. Wilson is chief of the National Guard Bureau.

Maj. Gen. James F. Cantwell, head of the New Jersey Guard, reported steady progress in recruiting Negroes, and added: "We think we've gotten over the hump of educating the Negro community, gaining their confidence, convincing them this is not just a gimmick."

Two Negro Guard officers, Lt. Co. William S. Frye and Maj. Carl E. Briscoe, reported a gratifying reception from Negro youths in New Jersey during the recruiting campaign. They said they were not harried by any Black Power groups.

The Guard leaders spoke with newsmen after a day-long closed Pentagon discussion of the New Jersey program.

They said it has resulted so far in 381 enlistments — more than doubling the Negro strength in the state's Guard since the program began last August.

The pilot effort began after the President's Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders criticized the Guard for its performance in the Detroit riots and recommended recruiting more Negroes.

At the end of 1966, Guard figures show, there were 5,295 Negroes in the 418,609-man Army National Guard and 627 Negroes in the 82,455-member Air Guard. This amounted to 1.26 per cent Negroes in the Army Guard and.76 per cent in the Air Guard.

Cantwell said the pilot program in New Jersey was undertaken because of the Presidential Commission's criticism of the Guard. But he added, "We think the criticism was unjust.

Under the test program, the New Jersey Guard was permitted a five per cent "overstrength" amounting to 865 slots reserved for Negro enlistments this fiscal year ending next June 30.

This came at a time when New Jersey already had a waiting list of more than 6,000 young men.

In effect, this gave Negroes a priority over the thousands of white young men waiting for openings. One of the big attractions for Guard enlistment is that it permits young men to avoid a two-year draft hitch. Instead, he serves six months of active duty training and 5½ years as a part-time soldier in the Guard.

Cantwell said there's been no evidence of a white backlash from the special treatment of Negroes in the enlistment drive.

Wilson said he is reserving judgment on whether to expand the New Jersey program nationwide until he gets the results of a national survey, due about Feb. 1, being conducted by a civilian research organization under contract to the Guard Bureau.

National Steel Gives $100,000 To New Center

BETHANY, W. Va. — A $100,000 gift from the National Steel Corp. is part of a total of $145,000 in contributions recently made toward the projected E. Millsop Leadership Center at Bethany College.

Announcement of the gift was made jointly by Dr. Perry E. Gresham, president of Bethany, and George Stinson, president of National Steel.

Additional gifts from the friends of the late Thomas Millsop include $20,000 from the Leon Falk Family Trust and Maurice and Laura Falk Foundation of Pittsburgh and $25,000 from the Hanna Mining Co. of Cleveland.

Millsop was honorary chairman of National Steel from 1964 until his death in September. He was named president of Weirton Steel in 1936 and became president and chief executive officer of National Steel, Weirton Steel's parent firm, in 1954.

Millsop was chairman of the Bethany College National Board of Fellows, a group of distinguished leaders of thought and public affairs in various fields of American life. Bethany conferred the honorary Doctor of Laws degree upon Millsop in 1943.

Dolly Dimples, Ex-Circus Fat Lady, Now Scales 110

DANIA, Fla. (AP) — Dolly Dimples, one-time circus fat lady with a 79-inch bust and a waist seven feet around, now complains she is underweight.

Celesta Geyer, a svelte 110 pounds today at 4-feet-11, weighed 555 pounds in 1950. That was when she worked in sideshows, carnivals and circuses.

She had a heart attack in 1950 and a doctor put her on a menu of baby food and said, "Diet or die. Dolly!"

"Right before I had my heart attack I used to pray to die because I was so helpless," said Mrs. Geyer, now 66 and operator of a small gallery of amateur art in this suburb of Miami.

"I lost 401 pounds in 14 months," she said.

She pirouetted, showing off her figure beside a life-size photo of the fat Dolly Dimples.

"I couldn't even cross my legs then," she said, motioning at the poster.

"Actually, I'm a little on the skinny side right now. I try to stay between 116 and 122 but I'm down to 110 pounds," she said.

Her diet is 800 calories daily. For example, she has a cup of chicken soup, a soda cracker, gelatin salad and skimmed milk for lunch.

"In school all the kids called me tubby and fatty. I'd come home crying and eat some more. I was about 150 pounds when I was 13 and 295 when I dropped out of high school," she said.

"That's when I met my husband, Frank. Every night I'd make him a fresh pie or cake and he'd eat one piece so I'd finish it. I gained 100 pounds in a year."

Frank, who weighed 135 pounds, died earlier this year.

"It used to take 12 yards of cloth to make my dress. Now I'm a size 12," she said.

"My friends told me I'll kill myself if I went on a crash diet," Mrs. Geyer said. "Well, if I do they don't have to bury me on a truck anyway. I'll fit in a hearse now."

Calcutta, India, was hit by a devastating earthquake that took 300,000 lives on Oct. 11, 1737.

Potters Smother Midland 74-36 Behind Jerry Christian

Diddle Gets 16, Montgomery 10

By TURK PIERCE
Review Sports Editor

Led by Jerry Christian and Bill Montgomery, the East Liverpool Potters outclassed old rival Midland by a 74-36 margin at the Memorial Auditorium Friday night.

The local club simply had too much height, depth and experience for Midland, which is now 2-3. The win was the third straight for Clint McConnell's group.

Christian, 6-4, was a demon under the basket, scoring 22 points, all on short shots and fouls, and grabbing 14 rebounds. Montgomery, a surprise starter, scored eight of his 10 points in the first period as the home team jumped off to a 20-4 lead. Earl Diddle scored 16 points before fouling out.

Dave Vanlier, who also fouled out, scored 12 to lead Midland.

East Liverpool's height advantage not only showed in the rebound totals, where the Potters led 57-25 (in the first three periods Christian had 13 compared to 16 for the entire Midland team), but in the Potters' offense, where cross-court passes sailed over the heads of the smaller Leopards. Montgomery was connecting from the corner and Christian was being fed nicely inside and they scored all the first period points.

A 13 - point run ended early in the second period after Diddle scored to make it 22-4. The Potters scored points in bunches all through the game, although McConnell substituted freely. The biggest advantage was 74-33 just before the end. Rick Steffen left the game with an elbow injury after the first period, but his absence was hardly noticed. Because they were able to work the ball for good shots, the winners shot a hot 46 per cent, 52 per cent before the last period.

Ed Olkowski, in his first year as head coach at Midland but who has been at the Pennsylvania school for about 15 years, said that this was the best East Liverpool team that he had ever seen. The Potters last beat Midland in 1960.

Tonight East Liverpool entertains Pittsburgh South, with the reserve game starting at 6:30.

Melvin's 20 Paces Potter Reserve Win

In a game that started out as a rout and ended up as a close contest the East Liverpool reserve basketball team kept its long unbeaten streak intact last night, downing Midland 38-32 at the M.A.

Jack Melvin was virtually the whole show for Frank Melchiorre's team, scoring 20 points and grabbing 18 rebounds. Tim Cilli led the losers with 11 points and Bub Bynum had 11 rebounds and Roger Singleton 10. The Little Potters controlled the boards 62-46 but committed 22 turnovers to 15 for the opposition in the loosely-played contest. Both teams were also under 50 percent from the foul line.

The home team jumped to a 6-0 lead, but Midland closed to 10-8. The gap gradually widened until it was 30-18 early in the last period. But a press was effective for the visitors and the home team hit a three - minute dry spell which narrowed the gap to 33-29 with two minutes left. But a bucket by Melvin eased the pressure and the Potter reserves hung on to win.

Randy McBride pushed in 25 points to pace Crestview in a 61-57 victory over North Lima Friday night at the Crestview gym.

The victory was the third in five games for the Rebels while North Lima suffered its third loss in five outings.

Leading 29-27 at halftime, Crestview built the lead to 46-37 after three periods then staved off a last quarter rally by the Zippers who outscored the Rebels 20-15 in the final eight minutes.

Behind McBride in the scoring for Crestview was Jerry Ray with 17 points. John Toy paced North Lima with 17 points.

Crestview shot 34 per cent hitting 24 of 76 shots while North Lima was slightly under that mark shooting 32 per cent on 22 of 69.

UAW, General Motors Set Up New Contract

DETROIT (AP) — After spending the last half of 1967 at the bargaining table, the United Auto Workers and the Big Three automakers today looked forward to what they hope will be three years of labor peace in the automobile industry.

The union and General Motors Corp. completed on Friday writing their contract, the last but the biggest of the UAW's new three-year national contracts with the major car makers.

More than 100 of the 134 local plant agreements at GM were still unsettled, but many are expected to be worked out now that the national contract has been put together.

The UAW's international executive board will meet Sunday to decide on a January strike deadline for local contracts which supplement the national pact.

Bargainers for both sides emerged Friday after a 30-hour negotiating session, unusual because there was no immediate strike threat, and announced they had come to terms on a contract paralleling the record agreements won by the union at Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp.

The Big Three contracts will give some 643,000 workers close to $1 an hour more in wages and fringe benefits over the next three years on top of the old Big Three hourly level of $4.70.

The agreements will increase labor costs about 6 per cent a year.

The GM contract covers 380,000 workers. Its wage provision, retroactive to Oct. 16, provides a 20 cents an hour across-the-board increase with an additional 30 cents hourly for skilled workers.

Wages will increase by 3 per cent in each of the last two years. In addition, wages will be increased 6 to 16 cents over the three years depending on changes in the cost of living.

American Motors Corp. is the only one of the nation's four major domestic automakers without a new contract with the UAW. The old pact expired Oct. 16 but has been extended on a day-to-day basis by both sides.

Negotiations between the UAW and AMC resume Jan. 3. The union's latest contract wage counterproposal has been rejected by the company.

Walter P. Reuther, UAW president, indicated the union would go easy on the debt-ridden firm in writing a new contract, but warned that, "the basic financial difficulties of AMC cannot be solved at the bargaining table."

AMC lost $75 million in the fiscal year ended Sept. 30.

Reuther said the GM pact was "noninflationary in character since it represents the equity of GM workers as measured against the profitability and rapidly rising productivity of the General Motors Corp.

"As such it will necessitate no increases in the prices of GM products."

Louis G. Seaton, GM's vice president for personnel and its top bargainer, declined to comment when asked whether the added labor costs would cause a price increase on cars.

'Can't Help You' Greek Boy Told By U.S. Doctors

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A young Greek boy who flew from Cyprus to Pittsburgh for remedial heart surgery has received a bitter dissapointment.

Medicine can do nothing for him.

Soterios Maimaris, 12, of Nicosia took the bad news quietly and calmly.

"But you could see in his eyes how distressed he was," Dr. Constantine Nellas said Friday.

Nellas worked with the American Hellenic Educational and Progressive Association to bring Soterios to Children's Hospital in Pittsburgh.

It was thought that the youngster, suffering from periodic blackouts and loss of breath, had a hole between two of his heart chambers that could be fixed by open heart surgery.

Instead, tests showed Soterios' heart had only two chambers instead of the normal four.

"There simply is no surgical approach," said Dr. Robert Zuberbuhler, chief cardiologist at Children's Hospital.

Soterios, dubbed "Soto" by the hospital's doctors and nurses, can never function as a normal child.

"This was his only hope," said Nellas. "Everyone in the hospital is disappointed by inability to help him."

Doctors ruled out a heart transplant, as successfully performed in South Africa. They said it was too risky of a chance to take on a life not in immediate danger.

Soterios, who arrived in Pittsburgh Tuesday, will return to the small Mediterranean Sea island next week.

Algeria's Government Reports Coup Crushed

ALGIERS (AP) — Algeria's socialist government claimed full control of the country today after announcing that loyal troops, in fierce fighting, crushed a coup attempt by rebels to the left of the regime.

The rebels had accused the regime of President Houari Boumedienne of "betrayal of the socialist revolution."

Observers said the defeat of the dissidents meant a step toward political stability for the potentially rich North African Arab nation and the chance it might take a more moderate stance in its relations with the West.

The government announced Friday night that rebel elements led by ousted army chief of staff, Col. Tahar Zbiri, "were blocked, surrounded and eliminated" near the towns of Blida and El Affroun, both within 35 miles of Algiers.

Fighting was described as bitter with the loyalist air force striking at rebel tank units. The dissident's attack, the government said, was "an inhumane operation which caused numerous casualties among the civilian population of the region."

The rebellion capped weeks in which Boumedienne's regime seemed headed for some kind of violent confrontation with a group led by Zbiri, a symbol for the hard-line revolutionaries who directed Algeria's seven-year guerrilla war leading to independence from France in 1962.

With the backing of at least two of Boumedienne's ministers, Zbiri's faction challenged the president's authority two months ago. Reluctant to attack Boumedienne, the rebels aimed instead at Finance Minister Ahmed Kaid, new boss of the nation's only political party, the National Liberation Front, and said his financial policies were a "betrayal of the socialist revolution."

News of the coup attempt was preceded Friday by an announcement by Boumedienne that he had ousted Zbiri. The president said, "Irresponsible elements have committed a clear act of disobedience...In consequence I have decided to directly assume command of the national popular army."

The 40-year-old chief of state called on soldiers and veterans for support and received immediate backing from the commanders of Oran and Constantine, the extreme eastern and western sectors in the country's five-region military set-up.

Algiers, the modern, French-built capital on the Mediterranean, remained calm but military patrols blocked the road to Blida and all train traffic was halted.

Boumedienne accused the plotters of being confused men "thirsty for blood and adventure." He vowed punishment that "would be made to fit the size of the crime they tried to commit."

Sentence was imposed Friday by Judge Louis Rosenberg of U.S. District Court. Earlier, the judge gave Hutchinson the maximum sentence to qualify him for a three-month psychiatric study, and Friday's sentence cut it to three years.

To cook on a new flameless ELECTRIC range is to make a clean break with the past. Bottoms of pots and pans don't need scouring because there's no flame to make them black. The oven cleans itself. All you do to clean an electric "self-cleaning" oven is set a dial. Baked-on food and grease disappear. Electric surface units clean themselves. Join the trend to better, cleaner cooking, baking and broiling. Move up to a self-cleaning flameless electric range. Maravich Hits 42 In Losing Effort

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Pistol Pete Maravich, college basketball's latest hot shot, fired a Milwaukee Classic record of 42 points for Louisiana State, but it wasn't enough to beat Wisconsin.

The Badgers of the Big Ten edged the Tigers from the Southeastern Conference 96-94 on Mike Carlin's two free throws with 18 seconds left in an exciting first-round game of the Classic Friday night.

Pistol Pete, 6-foot-5 soph and son of LSU coach Press Maravich, led a Tiger rally that erased a 13-point Wisconsin lead in the last seven minutes. He fouled out with two minutes remaining and left the court with a slight limp.

His fifth personal foul was called on him for charging as he drove for the basket and rammed against a padded basket support. He writhed in pain under the net as the referee blew his whistle and pointed at him as the offender.

Pistol Pete got his 42 points on 16 field goals and 10 of 13 free throws. Joe Franklin led the Badgers with 27.

Marquette whipped Florida State 78-58 in the other first-round game of the Milwaukee Classic as the Christmas Holiday tournament period started to gain momentum.

Tulsa edged Army 55-53 on Rob Washington's tip-in at the final buzzer and Tennessee walloped Illinois 66-42 in the opening of the Volunteer Classic at Knoxville, Tenn. Santa Clara nipped Chicago Loyola 91-88 and Western Kentucky trounced San Francisco 90-70 in the opening of the Cable Car Classic at San Francisco.

Eighth-ranked Davidson, the only team in the Top Ten to see action, beat William and Mary 81-75 at Charlotte, N.C. Kansas beat Cincinnati 67-61 and Kansas State downed Texas A&M 82-77 in the Sunflower Classic doubleheader at Lawrence, Kan. Southern California defeated Oklahoma 76-63 and Los Angeles Loyola humbled Colorado State University 93-69 in a twin bill at Los Angeles.

A free throw by George Hicker after the final buzzer gave Syracuse a 90-89 overtime victory over Penn State. In other home court triumphs, Cornell whipped Columbia 74-57, St. John's, N.Y., overcame Seton Hall 78-49, Seattle took Ohio University 76-68 and Creighton defeated Arizona 70-66. On the road, New Mexico State beat Arizona State 80-70, Tennessee Tech defeated Arkansas State 73-70 and Eastern Kentucky conquered Tampa 95-89.

The Classic results set up these final pairings for tonight: At Milwaukee, Wisconsin vs. Marquette. At Knoxville, Tulsa vs. Tennessee. At San Francisco, Western Kentucky vs. Santa Clara.

ROBERT McNEA, East Liverpool High School Athletic director, received keys this week to a new Dodge van-type truck given the athletic department by M and A Motors, Broadway. James Stevenson of the firm made the presentation.

Tie Would Give Colts Title

Rams Skimpy One-Point Pick In Big One Sunday

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Rams, enjoying their finest hours in a long, long decade, remained a skimpy one-point favorite today on the eve of their struggle with the Baltimore Colts.

At stake is the Coastal Division title of the National Football League. The two teams battled down to the wire in the final contest of the regular season.

Memorial Coliseum's 76,000 available seats have been sold out for more than two weeks for this nationally televised game — CBS — with the kickoff set for 1:05 p. m. PST, (4:05 East Liverpool time.)

The weatherman said there was a chance for showers today and, elements being what they are, it might come up damp Sunday. Los Angeles fans are notoriously kittenish about venturing out in bad weather — oldtimers can't forget that only 27,980 braved a downpour for the Ram-Philadelphia NFL Championship game in 1949— but it will take something extra bad to keep 'em away from Sunday's game.

Johnny Unitas and the Colts could wrap it all up with just a tie and go on to meet Green Bay, the Central Division winners, in Milwaukee next Saturday.

The Rams must win, period. Baltimore is unbeaten but twice tied. Los Angeles has a 10-1-2 record.

Coach Don Shula's Colts and George Allen's Rams wound up in a 24-24 tie in Baltimore Oct. 15. The week previously, Los Angeles lost its only game of the season, to San Francisco.

Since each played tie games again on Oct. 22, Baltimore with Minnesota and Los Angeles with Washington, the two have banged out seven straight victories apiece.

The question before last week's Green Bay-Los Angeles game was: could the Rams possibly beat two such powerful rivals as the Packers and the Colts in back-to-work games?

Now comes the second, and doubtless the tougher part of the problem.

The game figures to be a duel between the quarterbacks, Gabriel and Johnny U: a struggle between a fine Baltimore offensive line, the so-called Forgotten Five, and the Rams' Fearsome Foursome, which boasts two All-NFL stars, end David Jones and tackle Merlin Olsen.

Baltimore is credited with the better defensive secondary, the Rams with a better rushing defense.

The Rams have no injury problems. The Colts' defensive back, veteran Lenny Lyles, has a bad ankle and Al Hayman is slated to start in his place at right corner.

And no one will be too astonished if it comes down to the place kicking specialists, Baltimore's Lou Michaels who kicked 19 out of 35 field goal attempts, and Bruce Gossett, 18 of 41.

In Sunday's other regular season finales, Cleveland's Century Division champs visit Philadelphia, Green Bay's Central kings entertain Pittsburgh, St. Louis is at New York, New Orleans at Washington, Chicago at Atlanta and Minnesota at Detroit.

Dallas, the Capitol Division title holder, played at San Francisco today.

Rodriguez Wins, Faces Don Fullmer

NEW YORK (AP)—Luis Rodriguez, a unanimous-decision winner over Bennie Briscoe Friday night, will be offered a Jan. 22 Madison Square Garden date with Don Fullmer for the right to meet middleweight champion Emile Griffith.

Although Griffith has a third match with Italy's Nino Benvenuti on his tentative schedule, it is expected that he will accommodate the Rodriguez-Fullmer winner in his next defense if he gets past the Italian. Emile, ready to fight if the price is right, scored a sixth-round technical knockout Friday in Rome in a non-title fight.

Rodriguez, former welter champ (he won and lost the crown to Griffith in 1963) came out of the Briscoe bout with a cut on the side of the left eye. Angelo Dundee, who handles his business, said it was not serious and would not prevent a January bout.

If Rodriguez, the No. 1 contender in The Ring ratings, and Fullmer, No. 1 with the World Boxing Association, do fight here it will be the last bout in the old Garden which is to give way to the new arena in February.

Tommy Davis Key Player In Mets-White Sox Deal

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The New York Mets have made their most radical move while seeking to erase their image as a serio-comic baseball team by sacrificing Tommy Davis, their best hitter, in a six-player trade with the Chicago White Sox.

Center fielder Tommie Agee and infielder Al Weis, both exceptionally-fine fielders, were obtained from the White Sox for Davis, veteran starting pitcher Jack Fisher and two minor leaguers, pitcher Billy Wynne and catcher Dick "Buddy" Booker.

The transaction was one of two completed Friday only a few hours before the midnight deadline for inter-league trading. In the other one, the Philadelphia Phillies sent pitcher Dick Ellsworth and catcher Gene Oliver to the Boston Red Sox for catcher Mike Ryan plus an undisclosed amount of cash.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, disappointed over their sixth-place finish last season, were scheduled to announce a major trade this afternoon. There were hints the deal would be with another National League team—perhaps Philadelphia.

"As long as an inter-league deal is completed before the midnight deadline and we are told about it, the trade can be announced at any time," explained a spokesman for Baseball Commissioner William D. Eckert.

Third baseman Maury Wills and first baseman Donn Clendenon have been the Pirates most often mentioned in trade speculation.

The deal involving the light-hitting White Sox and the poor-fielding Mets had been rumored for a number of weeks.

The Mets think they made no mistake.

"Agee is a young player who has an outstanding glove and range, exceptional speed and good power," said Gil Hodges, the Mets' new manager, who piloted Washington of the AL the past five years.

"We have been searching to fill the key position of center field ever since the Mets were organized," explained Johnny Murphy, New York's vice-president and acting general manager. "When Hodges was signed as manager of our team he designated Agee as the American League's center fielder most worth shooting for in a deal."

Ed Short, the White Sox' general manager, was happy about the trade, too. "We feel that Davis is one of the better hitters in baseball and we think we have improved our offensive strength considerably."

Davis, 28-year-old outfielder, had a .302 batting average with 16 homers and 73 runs batted in last season. He led the NL in batting while with Los Angeles in 1962 and 1963.

Tournament Schedule Announced

The complete schedule for the seventh annual Midland Holiday Tournament to be held at Midland Dec. 28-29 by the Midland High School Athletic Department and the Midland Holiday Tournament Committee includes the crowning of a queen as well as the four games.

The visiting teams, Duquesne, New Castle and Uniontown, will check in at the Willows Motel from noon until 2 p.m. Dec. 28 and a buffet supper will be held at the banquet hall there from 4-5 p.m.

The first game, matching Uniontown and New Castle, will start at 7:30 and Midland and Duquesne will clash at 9:15. The first judging for the tournament queen contest will be at 8:05 and the final judging at 8:45. The queen will be crowned at 10 p.m. and a dinner will follow at the Willows.

Friday, Dec. 29, the visiting teams will tour Crucible Steel at 11:30 a.m. and have lunch at the plant. The consolation game starts at 7 and the championship game at 8:30, with awards to be presented afterward. A banquet will follow at the Willows.

Saturday morning the visiting teams will breakfast at the Willows and then return home.

Fred Moore's (Piketon, O., native) 45 points against Mareietta in 1957 ranks as the most points ever scored by an Ohio University basketballer in a single game.

Georgia, N.C. St. In Liberty Bowl

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — North Carolina State and Georgia, a pair of defensive powers who made early challenges for the national title, kick off postseason football activity Saturday when they collide in the Liberty Bowl.

Both the Wolfpack and the Bulldogs are shooting for victory to erase memories of bitter defeats late in the campaign.

North Carolina State rolled past its first eight opponents before bowing 13-8 to Penn State and 14-6 to Clemson. Georgia was beaten 29-20 by Mississippi, then blew big leads and suffered one-point losses to Houston and Florida.

The Wolfpack gave up only 87 points. Georgia allowed only 105, with both clubs' defenses anchored around their tackles.

Potters Smother Midland 74-36 Behind Jerry Christian

Diddle Gets 16, Montgomery 10

By TURK PIERCE
Review Sports Editor

Led by Jerry Christian and Bill Montgomery, the East Liverpool Potters outclassed old rival Midland by a 74-36 margin at the Memorial Auditorium Friday night.

The local club simply had too much height, depth and experience for Midland, which is now 2-3. The win was the third straight for Clint McConnell's group.

Christian, 6-4, was a demon under the basket, scoring 22 points, all on short shots and fouls, and grabbing 14 rebounds. Montgomery, a surprise starter, scored eight of his 10 points in the first period as the home team jumped off to a 20-4 lead. Earl Diddle scored 16 points before fouling out.

Dave Vanlier, who also fouled out, scored 12 to lead Midland.

East Liverpool's height advantage not only showed in the rebound totals, where the Potters led 57-25 (in the first three periods Christian had 13 compared to 16 for the entire Midland team), but in the Potters' offense, where cross-court passes sailed over the heads of the smaller Leopards. Montgomery was connecting from the corner and Christian was being fed nicely inside and they scored all the first period points.

A 13 - point run ended early in the second period after Diddle scored to make it 22-4. The Potters scored points in bunches all through the game, although McConnell substituted freely. The biggest advantage was 74-33 just before the end. Rick Steffen left the game with an elbow injury after the first period, but his absence was hardly noticed. Because they were able to work the ball for good shots, the winners shot a hot 46 per cent, 52 per cent before the last period.

Ed Olkowski, in his first year as head coach at Midland but who has been at the Pennsylvania school for about 15 years, said that this was the best East Liverpool team that he had ever seen. The Potters last beat Midland in 1960.

Tonight East Liverpool entertains Pittsburgh South, with the reserve game starting at 6:30.

Melvin's 20 Paces Potter Reserve Win

In a game that started out as a rout and ended up as a close contest the East Liverpool reserve basketball team kept its long unbeaten streak intact last night, downing Midland 38-32 at the M.A.

Jack Melvin was virtually the whole show for Frank Melchiorre's team, scoring 20 points and grabbing 18 rebounds. Tim Cilli led the losers with 11 points and Bub Bynum had 11 rebounds and Roger Singleton 10. The Little Potters controlled the boards 62-46 but committed 22 turnovers to 15 for the opposition in the loosely-played contest. Both teams were also under 50 percent from the foul line.

The home team jumped to a 6-0 lead, but Midland closed to 10-8. The gap gradually widened until it was 30-18 early in the last period. But a press was effective for the visitors and the home team hit a three - minute dry spell which narrowed the gap to 33-29 with two minutes left. But a bucket by Melvin eased the pressure and the Potter reserves hung on to win.

Albuquerque Boasts Top Hoop Scorer

NEW YORK (AP) — Lyndall Conway, a 6-foot-5 senior from Albuquerque, leads college-division basketball scorers with an average of 39.7 points per game, statistics released today by the NCAA show.

Southern Drops Fifth As United Wins 75-59

HANOVERTON — Southern Local dropped its fifth straight game 75-59 to United here last night.

The win gave Jack Mills' club a 2-1 mark. Bill Kibler had 18 and Jack Mills 14 for the Golden Eagles, while Tom Wood came off the bench to net 16. McBride Leads Rebels To Win Over North Lima

Randy McBride pushed in 25 points to pace Crestview in a 61-57 victory over North Lima Friday night at the Crestview gym.

The victory was the third in five games for the Rebels while North Lima suffered its third loss in five outings.

The contest saw Crestview's defensive strategy work well enough to hold high scoring Bill McMeans to only three field goals and 10 points for the night. Before last night's game, McMeans had been scoring 28 points per contest.

Leading 29-27 at halftime, Crestview built the lead to 46-37 after three periods then staved off a last quarter rally by the Zippers who outscored the Rebels 20-15 in the final eight minutes.

Behind McBride in the scoring for Crestview was Jerry Ray with 17 points. John Toy paced North Lima with 17 points.

Crestview shot 34 per cent hitting 24 of 76 shots while North Lima was slightly under that mark shooting 32 per cent on 22 of 69.

Crestview made it a clean sweep Friday night with the reserve squad winning a 48-40 verdict.

Maravich Hits 42 In Losing Effort

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Pistol Pete Maravich, college basketball's latest hot shot, fired a Milwaukee Classic record of 42 points for Louisiana State, but it wasn't enough to beat Wisconsin.

The Badgers of the Big Ten edged the Tigers from the Southeastern Conference 96-94 on Mike Carlin's two free throws with 18 seconds left in an exciting first-round game of the Classic Friday night.

Pistol Pete, 6-foot-5 soph and son of LSU coach Press Maravich, led a Tiger rally that erased a 13-point Wisconsin lead in the last seven minutes. He fouled out with two minutes remaining and left the court with a slight limp.

His fifth personal foul was called on him for charging as he drove for the basket and rammed against a padded basket support. He writhed in pain under the net as the referee blew his whistle and pointed at him as the offender.

Pistol Pete got his 42 points on 16 field goals and 10 of 13 free throws. Joe Franklin led the Badgers with 27.

Marquette whipped Florida State 78-58 in the other first-round game of the Milwaukee Classic as the Christmas Holiday tournament period started to gain momentum.

Tulsa edged Army 55-53 on Rob Washington's tip-in at the final buzzer and Tennessee walloped Illinois 66-42 in the opening of the Volunteer Classic at Knoxville, Tenn. Santa Clara nipped Chicago Loyola 91-88 and Western Kentucky trounced San Francisco 90-70 in the opening of the Cable Car Classic at San Francisco.

Eighth-ranked Davidson, the only team in the Top Ten to see action, beat William and Mary 81-75 at Charlotte, N.C. Kansas beat Cincinnati 67-61 and Kansas State downed Texas A&M 82-77 in the Sunflower Classic doubleheader at Lawrence, Kan. Southern California defeated Oklahoma 76-63 and Los Angeles Loyola humbled Colorado State University 93-69 in a twin bill at Los Angeles.

A free throw by George Hicker after the final buzzer gave Syracuse a 90-89 overtime victory over Penn State. In other home court triumphs, Cornell whipped Columbia 74-57, St. John's, N.Y., overcame Seton Hall 78-49, Seattle took Ohio University 76-68 and Creighton defeated Arizona 70-66. On the road, New Mexico State beat Arizona State 80-70, Tennessee Tech defeated Arkansas State 73-70 and Eastern Kentucky conquered Tampa 95-89.

The Classic results set up these final pairings for tonight: At Milwaukee, Wisconsin vs. Marquette. At Knoxville, Tulsa vs. Tennessee. At San Francisco, Western Kentucky vs. Santa Clara.

Rodriguez Wins, Faces Don Fullmer

NEW YORK (AP)—Luis Rodriguez, a unanimous-decision winner over Bennie Briscoe Friday night, will be offered a Jan. 22 Madison Square Garden date with Don Fullmer for the right to meet middleweight champion Emile Griffith.

Although Griffith has a third match with Italy's Nino Benvenuti on his tentative schedule, it is expected that he will accommodate the Rodriguez-Fullmer winner in his next defense if he gets past the Italian. Emile, ready to fight if the price is right, scored a sixth-round technical knockout Friday in Rome in a non-title fight.

Rodriguez, former welter champ (he won and lost the crown to Griffith in 1963) came out of the Briscoe bout with a cut on the side of the left eye. Angelo Dundee, who handles his business, said it was not serious and would not prevent a January bout.

If Rodriguez, the No. 1 contender in The Ring ratings, and Fullmer, No. 1 with the World Boxing Association, do fight here it will be the last bout in the old Garden which is to give way to the new arena in February.

Tie Would Give Colts Title

Rams Skimpy One-Point Pick In Big One Sunday

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Rams, enjoying their finest hours in a long, long decade, remained a skimpy one-point favorite today on the eve of their struggle with the Baltimore Colts.

At stake is the Coastal Division title of the National Football League. The two teams battled down to the wire in the final contest of the regular season.

Memorial Coliseum's 76,000 available seats have been sold out for more than two weeks for this nationally televised game — CBS — with the kickoff set for 1:05 p. m. PST, (4:05 East Liverpool time.)

The weatherman said there was a chance for showers today and, elements being what they are, it might come up damp Sunday. Los Angeles fans are notoriously kittenish about venturing out in bad weather — oldtimers can't forget that only 27,980 braved a downpour for the Ram-Philadelphia NFL Championship game in 1949—but it will take something extra bad to keep 'em away from Sunday's game.

Johnny Unitas and the Colts could wrap it all up with just a tie and go on to meet Green Bay, the Central Division winners, in Milwaukee next Saturday.

The Rams must win, period. Baltimore is unbeaten but twice tied. Los Angeles has a 10-1-2 record.

Coach Don Shula's Colts and George Allen's Rams wound up in a 24-24 tie in Baltimore Oct. 15. The week previously, Los Angeles lost its only game of the season, to San Francisco.

Since each played tie games again on Oct. 22, Baltimore with Minnesota and Los Angeles with Washington, the two have banged out seven straight victories apiece.

The question before last week's Green Bay-Los Angeles game was: could the Rams possibly beat two such powerful rivals as the Packers and the Colts in back-to-work games?

The Rams answered the first part with a come-from-behind, 27-24 triumph, one that was earned by a blocked punt and a pass in the final 34 seconds, Roman Gabriel to Bernie Casey.

Now comes the second, and doubtless the tougher part of the problem.

The game figures to be a duel between the quarterbacks, Gabriel and Johnny U: a struggle between a fine Baltimore offensive line, the so-called Forgotten Five, and the Rams' Fearsome Foursome, which boasts two All-NFL stars, end David Jones and tackle Merlin Olsen.

Baltimore is credited with the better defensive secondary, the Rams with a better rushing defense.

The Rams have no injury problems. The Colts' defensive back, veteran Lenny Lyles, has a bad ankle and Al Hayman is slated to start in his place at right corner.

And no one will be too astonished if it comes down to the place kicking specialists, Baltimore's Lou Michaels who kicked 19 out of 35 field goal attempts, and Bruce Gossett, 18 of 41.

In Sunday's other regular season finales, Cleveland's Century Division champs visit Philadelphia, Green Bay's Central kings entertain Pittsburgh, St. Louis is at New York, New Orleans at Washington, Chicago at Atlanta and Minnesota at Detroit.

Dallas, the Capitol Division title holder, played at San Francisco today.

Tommy Davis Key Player In Mets-White Sox Deal

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The New York Mets have made their most radical move while seeking to erase their image as a serio-comic baseball team by sacrificing Tommy Davis, their best hitter, in a six-player trade with the Chicago White Sox.

Center fielder Tommie Agee and infielder Al Weis, both exceptionally-fine fielders, were obtained from the White Sox for Davis, veteran starting pitcher Jack Fisher and two minor leaguers, pitcher Billy Wynne and catcher Dick "Buddy" Booker.

The transaction was one of two completed Friday only a few hours before the midnight deadline for inter-league trading. In the other one, the Philadelphia Phillies sent pitcher Dick Ellsworth and catcher Gene Oliver to the Boston Red Sox for catcher Mike Ryan plus an undisclosed amount of cash.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, disappointed over their sixth-place finish last season, were scheduled to announce a major trade this afternoon. There were hints the deal would be with another National League team—perhaps Philadelphia.

"As long as an inter-league deal is completed before the midnight deadline and we are told about it, the trade can be announced at any time," explained a spokesman for Baseball Commissioner William D. Eckert.

Third baseman Maury Wills and first baseman Donn Clendenon have been the Pirates most often mentioned in trade speculation.

The deal involving the light-hitting White Sox and the poor-fielding Mets had been rumored for a number of weeks.

The Mets think they made no mistake.

"Agee is a young player who has an outstanding glove and range, exceptional speed and good power," said Gil Hodges, the Mets' new manager, who piloted Washington of the AL the past five years.

"We have been searching to fill the key position of center field ever since the Mets were organized," explained Johnny Murphy, New York's vice-president and acting general manager. "When Hodges was signed as manager of our team he designated Agee as the American League's center fielder most worth shooting for in a deal."

Ed Short, the White Sox' general manager, was happy about the trade, too. "We feel that Davis is one of the better hitters in baseball and we think we have improved our offensive strength considerably."

Davis, 28-year-old outfielder, had a .302 batting average with 16 homers and 73 runs batted in last season. He led the NL in batting while with Los Angeles in 1962 and 1963.

Tournament Schedule Announced

The complete schedule for the seventh annual Midland Holiday Tournament to be held at Midland Dec. 28-29 by the Midland High School Athletic Department and the Midland Holiday Tournament Committee includes the crowning of a queen as well as the four games.

The visiting teams, Duquesne, New Castle and Uniontown, will check in at the Willows Motel from noon until 2 p.m. Dec. 28 and a buffet supper will be held at the banquet hall there from 4-5 p.m.

The first game, matching Uniontown and New Castle, will start at 7:30 and Midland and Duquesne will clash at 9:15. The first judging for the tournament queen contest will be at 8:05 and the final judging at 8:45. The queen will be crowned at 10 p.m. and a dinner will follow at the Willows.

Friday, Dec. 29, the visiting teams will tour Crucible Steel at 11:30 a.m. and have lunch at the plant. The consolation game starts at 7 and the championship game at 8:30, with awards to be presented afterward. A banquet will follow at the Willows.

Saturday morning the visiting teams will breakfast at the Willows and then return home.

Fred Moore's (Piketon, O., native) 45 points against Mareietta in 1957 ranks as the most points ever scored by an Ohio University basketballer in a single game.

Georgia, N.C. St. In Liberty Bowl

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — North Carolina State and Georgia, a pair of defensive powers who made early challenges for the national title, kick off postseason football activity Saturday when they collide in the Liberty Bowl.

Both the Wolfpack and the Bulldogs are shooting for victory to erase memories of bitter defeats late in the campaign.

North Carolina State rolled past its first eight opponents before bowing 13-8 to Penn State and 14-6 to Clemson. Georgia was beaten 29-20 by Mississippi, then blew big leads and suffered one-point losses to Houston and Florida.

The Wolfpack gave up only 87 points. Georgia allowed only 105, with both clubs' defenses anchored around their tackles.

2 IN MEMORIAM

IN loving memory of my beloved husband, RICHARD NICKLIN, who passed away 2 years ago today, December 16, 1965:
Two wishe years have passed away, I thank Thee God for yesterday, Thank you for the memories dear, That you left us, who still are here, and as we bow our heads and pray, that we shall meet again someday.
Sadly missed by Wife and Family.

IN memory of our Mother and Grandmother, Mrs. Luella Wycoff, who passed away one year ago, December 17, 1966. Tis the season of the year, When we should all be glad. But one whole year has passed. And still our hearts are sad. We know you are rejoicing, In the home God had prepared. So we will meet you mother, We know you'll be waiting there.
SADLY MISSED BY SONS, DAUGHTERS, AND GRANDCHILDREN.

IN memory of our dear daughter and sister, Betty Jean Mercer, who passed away 1 year ago today, December 16, 1966. Memories are keepsakes no one can steal, Death leaves a heartache no one can heal. Some may forget you, Now that you're gone. We will remember, no matter how long.
Missed by Mother, sisters, brother, and family.

In loving memory of LOREN E. GRIFFIN, who passed away 3 years ago, December 17th:
In my heart your memory lingers, always tender, fond, and true. There's not a day, dear husband, I do not think of you.
Sadly missed by wife and children.

Junior Editors Quiz on SINGING

QUESTION: Why do we sing?

ANSWER: We don't know what simple, primitive person it was who sung the first song. But we can be sure that whoever did was trying to express some kind of happy or romantic feeling, something above the dull and ordinary. The children in our picture are doing this. They are joining the poetry of the Christmas carols with the beautiful melodies we all know, making of the two arts of poetry and music another one that of song. By all joining together, each one is putting in something of his or her own and managing to express the joyous feeling of Christmas. As we sing, we are apt to tilt our heads back, to open our mouths wide, to fill our lungs with air. This gives us a good feeling, as if we were lifted up—and of course a beautiful melody does, too. The song seems to float out into the air and carry us along with it. We speak of voices "raised" in song, of music on the "wings" of song. We all want to get up to higher, happier feelings. Singing does this for most people—so we sing.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Saturday, Dec. 16, the 350th day of 1967. There are 15 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1773, American colonists disguised as Indians boarded a British ship in Boston Harbor and dumped 342 chests of tea overboard. The protest went down in history as the Boston Tea Party.

On this date:

In 1770, the German composer, Ludwig Van Beethoven, was born.

In 1809, Napoleon Bonaparte was divorced from Josephine.

In 1835, a fire in New York City burned some 600 buildings.

In 1942, during World War II, Allied planes pounded retreating Axis forces in Libya.

In 1960, two airliners crashed after colliding over New York Harbor. One hundred and thirty one persons were killed.

Ten years ago: President Dwight D. Eisenhower addressed a meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Paris, promising instant and forceful U.S. support in the event of war with the Soviet Union.

Five years ago: U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy was on a diplomatic mission to Brazil.

Rockwell Slayer Given 20 Years

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — John Patler, ex-member of the American Nazi party, was convicted early today of first-degree murder in the shooting death of George Lincoln Rockwell, leader of the anti-Negro, anti-Jewish group.

An Arlington County Circuit Court jury returned the verdict as Patler, 29, sat ashen-faced at a table facing them.

Judge Charles S. Russell said he would impose a sentence of 20 years imprisonment on Monday.

Rockwell was shot to death while getting into his car in the parking lot of an Arlington shopping center Aug. 25. Patler, an ex-Marine who had a falling out with Rockwell over Nazi party matters, was arrested shortly afterward.

Saxbe's Top Assistant Plans To Leave Post

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Another changing of the guard is imminent in Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe's office.

His first assistant, Donald M. Colasrud, plans to leave the job and enter private law practice here next month. No firm date is set for the change.

But if Saxbe becomes a Republican candidate for the office of Democratic U.S. Sen. Frank J. Lausche, Colasrud says he will find time to campaign for him.

Colasrud, 37, became Saxbe's first assistant last Jan. 3 after the resignation of Gerald A. Donahue from that post.

A native of Navarre, Stark County, he graduated from Cleveland-Marshall Law School.

Junior Editors Quiz on SINGING

QUESTION: Why do we sing?

ANSWER: We don't know what simple, primitive person it was who sung the first song. But we can be sure that whoever did was trying to express some kind of happy or romantic feeling, something above the dull and ordinary. The children in our picture are doing this. They are joining the poetry of the Christmas carols with the beautiful melodies we all know, making of the two arts of poetry and music another one that of song. By all joining together, each one is putting in something of his or her own and managing to express the joyous feeling of Christmas. As we sing, we are apt to tilt our heads back, to open our mouths wide, to fill our lungs with air. This gives us a good feeling, as if we were lifted up—and of course a beautiful melody does, too. The song seems to float out into the air and carry us along with it. We speak of voices "raised" in song, of music on the "wings" of song. We all want to get up to higher, happier feelings. Singing does this for most people—so we sing.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Saturday, Dec. 16, the 350th day of 1967. There are 15 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1773, American colonists disguised as Indians boarded a British ship in Boston Harbor and dumped 342 chests of tea overboard. The protest went down in history as the Boston Tea Party.

On this date:

In 1770, the German composer, Ludwig Van Beethoven, was born.

In 1809, Napoleon Bonaparte was divorced from Josephine.

In 1835, a fire in New York City burned some 600 buildings.

In 1916, Gregory Rasputin, the monk who wielded powerful influence over the Russian czar, was murdered.

In 1942, during World War II, Allied planes pounded retreating Axis forces in Libya.

In 1960, two airliners crashed after colliding over New York Harbor. One hundred and thirty one persons were killed.

Ten years ago: President Dwight D. Eisenhower addressed a meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Paris, promising instant and forceful U.S. support in the event of war with the Soviet Union.

Five years ago: U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy was on a diplomatic mission to Brazil.

Rockwell Slayer Given 20 Years

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — John Patler, ex-member of the American Nazi party, was convicted early today of first-degree murder in the shooting death of George Lincoln Rockwell, leader of the anti-Negro, anti-Jewish group.

An Arlington County Circuit Court jury returned the verdict as Patler, 29, sat ashen-faced at a table facing them.

Judge Charles S. Russell said he would impose a sentence of 20 years imprisonment on Monday.

Rockwell was shot to death while getting into his car in the parking lot of an Arlington shopping center Aug. 25. Patler, an ex-Marine who had a falling out with Rockwell over Nazi party matters, was arrested shortly afterward.

Saxbe's Top Assistant Plans To Leave Post

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Another changing of the guard is imminent in Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe's office.

His first assistant, Donald M. Colasrud, plans to leave the job and enter private law practice here next month. No firm date is set for the change.

But if Saxbe becomes a Republican candidate for the office of Democratic U.S. Sen. Frank J. Lausche, Colasrud says he will find time to campaign for him.

Colasrud, 37, became Saxbe's first assistant last Jan. 3 after the resignation of Gerald A. Donahue from that post.

A native of Navarre, Stark County, he graduated from Cleveland-Marshall Law School.
